Man Gets Year For Receiving Stolen Goods

Receiving stolen goods resulted in one man being sent to the Penitentiary for one year. The case was heard in Circuit Court Monday by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr.

Glenn Harvey, Star Route, Oakland, pleaded guilty on one of two counts of receiving stolen goods. The charge for over $100 ($140) was dismissed. To the one for less than $100 ($95), Harvey pleaded guilty.

Judge Hamill sentenced Harvey to one year to the Commissioner of Correction with term to begin as of April 29.

Harvey had originally been charged with breaking and entering, larceny and receiving stolen goods of the property of Herbert Miller on Green Glade road sometime in January or February 1975. It involved a revolver, holster and other items valued at $140. He was arrested February 10, 1975 and released on bond two days later. The case was transferred to Circuit Court February 27, 1975.

Ruling May Put More Students On Walking List

Some two hundred students in the Oakland area who were transported to school last year via State funds because of hazardous walking conditions may not be so transported to school next term, Eugene Flinn, supervisor of Transportation reported to the Board of Education this week. The local Board of Education had been seeking approval for transporting these students for sometime, according to Herbert Harman, board president.

Mr. Harman pointed out that actually the state had raised this question for about three years. The State Department of Education in February, 1975, informed the County Commissioners, Mayors and Town Councils aware of this problem. Again in March, 1975, the board in a letter to the town councils and county officials asked them to put a pavement along one of the most hazardous roads in the area.

This year efforts have also been made to get support from the County Commissioners and the municipalities involved for improving some of these conditions, Mr. Harman said.

Dr. William Buser, county superintendent of schools, indicated the school system would be short between thirty and thirty-five thousand dollars unless the county government was willing to pick up the cost for transporting these students. Dr. Buser said the county commissioners' position had generally been that the total cost of transportation was an obligation of the state.

Mr. Harman asked that the problem be made known to the public in order that the local school board's position was understood.

Tapes, Movies To Show Topics On Child Abuse

The Garrett County Multi-Disciplinary Team on Child Abuse and Neglect, and the Maryland H.E.L.P. Resource project on Child abuse are jointly sponsoring an "Information Day" on the subject of child abuse to be held at Southern High school, Oakland, on Wednesday, June 23.

Program will consist of video tapes, movies and group discussions, with several events occurring simultaneously in separate rooms. The program, according to Robert C. Shaffer, a member of the team on child abuse, is designed for the general public as well as professionals who encounter child abuse situations, including doctors, nurses, teachers, ministers, lawyers, social workers, etc. These people have received a detailed schedule of the films which start at 9 a.m., and continue until 4 o'clock. Some of the films are thirty-five minutes, some of them an hour. The video tapes, six of them, run from 9 to 3:30.

Some of the films and tapes are designed for specific professional groups. Discussion leaders will be provided by the H.E.L.P. Resource project.

Mr. Shaffer said the schedule was designed on an informal basis to enable interested persons to attend one or more of the activities at leisure with most of the films and tapes repeated at different times during the day. The program is free of cost and requires no prior registration. Additional information is available at the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

A few of the tape and movie topics are "Child Abuse, A Community Problem," "Discipline vs. Abuse," "The Battered Child," "Child Abuse and the Police," "Children in Peril," and "Mother-Infant Interaction."

TWENTY-TWO DEGREES? — This shot of the Garrett National Bank thermometer and Old Glory waving in the background is quite representative of a national move toward the use of the metric system. This thermometer now gives the temperature in Centigrade as well as Fahrenheit. The picture was taken Wednesday morning. You can figure out the temperature in Fahrenheit by using the simple conversion formula, F = 1.8C + 32.

Man Hit By Stray Bullet

A Westernport man was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon after he was accidentally shot while driving a car near Swanton.

State Police identified the victim as Robert George Wright, 31. He was treated for a gunshot wound in the upper portion of his back. Police said the incident occurred at 12:30 p.m., at a residence along route 495, about one and one-half miles north of Swanton.

According to police, Marion George was sitting on the porch at his grandmother's residence when he spotted a groundhog which had been damaging the family's garden. George attempted to shoot the groundhog but missed and struck the Wright vehicle which was passing by.

A bullet from a 30-30 calibre rifle struck the vehicle in the left rear area and the projectile then went through the front seat head rest and into Mr. Wright's back.

The investigation was continuing.

Historical Museum Is Now Open

The Garrett County Historical Museum is now open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p.m.

Commissioners Still Labor On Budget Problems

County Commissioners met with Tim Dugan and Edgar Harman during their regular Monday meeting to discuss progress of the Grantsville sewage treatment engineering program. Mr. Harman informed the Commissioners that the Town of Grantsville was advised by the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene that the study area for the Grantsville sewage system must be extended outside the corporate limits to include the Chestnut Ridge area. The Commissioners scheduled a meeting with the officials of the Town of Grantsville and others concerned to discuss fairly cost sharing arrangements for engineering.

Later on Monday Commissioners Wayne Hamilton, Don Bender and George Edwards met with Dr. William Pope to complete the Health Department budget request. Dr. Pope pointed out some changes which do not affect the total funds allocated to the Health Department but were necessary to correct the breakdown in the County levy.

The Commissioners, by unanimous vote, appointed Ken Richmond, Garrett Memorial Hospital Administrator, George Brady, Board of Education; Dr. Tom Johnson, and Sheriff John Evans to the Emergency Medical Advisory Council.

On Tuesday, the Commissioners met with Board of Education members and staff to work on the fiscal 1977 budget. The Commissioners presented preliminary figures for funding which the Board will be evaluating for the next two weeks. On Wednesday, Commissioners Hamilton, Bender and Edwards met with Dr. Alfred O'Connell and other representatives of Garrett Community College for the same purpose.

Enforcement Of Blue Laws To Be Up To Voters

Although nothing official has yet come from the State Board of Supervisors of Elections up to this point, it was assumed that the question of enforcing the Sunday Blue Laws would be on the November ballot, it was reported by Rev. John A. Grant, who had been one of those persons working to obtain names on a petition.

Six hundred seven names were needed to force the question on the ballot and Rev. Grant said that 684 names had been obtained. These were presented to the election board and Rev. Grant said it was now up to a ruling by the Attorney General.

No official word had been received by the local Board of Election Supervisors as of this week.

Police Seek High Price Painting Pair

Authorities were notified last week to be on the lookout for two men who had been engaged to do some painting for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tasker, three miles out of Kitzmiller, on state route 38.

Mrs. Thomas Fike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tasker said the charge for the painting was exorbitant, and that the men had done an extremely poor job. She said they had used some luminous paint on what had previously been red siding. She said the car in which the men were traveling had Massachusetts license plates.

The public is invited to join the 4-H'ers in the Campfire activities.

To Make Study Of Flood Hazards In Local Towns

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development plans to fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in Garrett county and other selected Western Maryland communities, it was announced by James O'Neill, member of the Garrett County Planning commission, who will be in charge of one area.

The study will be performed for the federal insurance administration by the Rockville engineering firm of Toups and Loiederman.

Purpose of the study is to examine and evaluate flood hazard areas to determine flood elevations for a number of areas. Flood elevations are to be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood insurance program and will also be used as a basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and contents.

Interested persons are being asked to bring relevant facts, and technical data, highwater marks, photographs of floods, etc., to the attention of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives. The engineering firm will pay photographic or reproduction costs to copy any usable information.

The towns of Oakland, Mountain Lake Park, Loch Lynn Heights, and Friendsville are to be included in the study.

An advertisement announcing the study appears in The Republican in today's issue.

Vacation Bible School Planned

Vacation Bible School will be held at the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren starting Monday, June 21, and continuing through June 25.

There will be classes for all age groups and will be held nightly from 7 o'clock. All are invited.

Tax Break For The Little Man

The average American citizen today carries a burden of taxation that would have been considered confiscation by our grandparents.

The high rate of taxation is necessary because of the requirement that we maintain a large defense establishment; because of the number of government services that we provide to our citizens; and because of inflation, which has raised the cost of government just as it has raised the cost of living.

But even this heavy burden of taxation would be bearable to Americans if we were convinced that it was fair to everyone. Unfortunately, the suspicion has been increasing across the land that the burden of taxation does not fall fairly and equitably upon the shoulders of all of us.

I think it's time to do something about it. So I have joined with a bipartisan group of Senators to offer some amendments that we believe will bring about more equity and justice in our tax system.

I am sponsoring these amendments in the Senate tax bill because it is high time the little man in America got a tax break. Government has been carried for too long on the backs of the middle class.

The tax bill as it was reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee could well turn out to be that backbreaking straw. It is no wonder the voters used the primaries to signal their disenchantment with Washington when a Senate committee, in times like these, comes up with a tax plan that obviously tilts toward the super rich.

The stability of America derives from our large middle class and from our traditional belief that hard work brings upward mobility. If we allow inflation on the one hand and taxes on the other to erode the middle class and to destroy the belief in upward mobility, then indeed we are courting disaster.

It is worth noting that the Communist prophecy of a crisis in the capitalist system, brought on by concentration of wealth and power in the hands of the few, with the many ground down in poverty, has been invalidated by the development within the capitalist system, notably in America, of a strong middle class.

Let us not now do to ourselves through taxation what the Communists have failed to achieve. Let us not destroy our middle class.

While I support the need for tax reform, I do not necessarily agree with every provision in the package of amendments we are offering and I reserve the right to refine specific items in the package. The big thing is to start the debate.

Perhaps we should go all the way, as recommended by Secretary of the Treasury William Simon in a speech before the Tax Foundation.

Forecasting that the tax system eventually would collapse under its own complexity, Secretary Simon proposed that we eliminate all deductions, credits and exemptions, and that everyone be taxed on a progressive rate schedule on a broad base income. This, he said, would reduce everyone's taxes and still raise the same or more revenue.

However we go about it, the time has come to reform the revenue-raising system of the United States and to implant within it those principles of justice and equity that we insist should govern every other branch of our federal government.

A MOUNTAIN OF PAPER

How big is a mountain? Most Americans figure the biggest mountains in the United States are in the Rocky Mountain chain, but they are wrong. The biggest mountain in America is in Washington, D. C., and it is made out of paper. The forms required by the Federal Government have been multiplying as new layers of regulations have been added from year to year. Recently, Congress began getting so many complaints from the nation's businessmen, both large and small, that it formed a new Commission to study the problem. The report of the Commission on Federal Paperwork was published recently, and it tells us where America's biggest mountain is located.

Commission On Federal Paperwork

Included in the report of this Commission are little items which have prodded Congress into work on a number of Bills to reduce the paperwork required in order to be in business in America. For example, Government agencies print about 10 billion sheets of paper a year to be completed by U.S. Business — enough to fill more than 4 million cubic feet of space.

Paperwork stemming from Federal, State, and local governments averages about 10 forms for every man, woman, and child in the United States.

Each year: The U.S. Public spends about $40 billion on paperwork: then the Federal government spends about $15 billion to process that paperwork: U.S. government spends about $1 billion more on forms; Small business spends about $18 billion completing those forms; U. S. government spends about $1 billion for directives and instructions accompanying forms: U.S. government spends about $1 billion to file and store forms.

Businesses with 50 employees or less complete approximately 75 to 80 types of forms. A company with 40,000 employees maintains about 125 file drawers of records to meet Federal reporting requirements. A company operating three small TV stations filed 45 pounds of forms for a license renewal application. A radio station in New Hampshire paid $26 in postage to mail an application to Washington.

A big oil company files 409 reports to 45 different Federal agencies, excluding tax reports. Another big oil company spends $17 million and uses 475 persons full time to file reports to the Federal government, excluding all tax reporting.

Each year the Federal government issues a 2-mile high stack of quarterly wage report forms.

Harvard University employs 26 people full time to complete paperwork at a cost of $300,000.00.

If you would like to help your company compete successfully with foreign competitors, and thereby make your job more secure, then vote against this multitude of industrial regulations and the producing of these mountains of regulations.

America's Food: Safest Ever

Agriculture is the ultimate success story of the American private enterprise system. Yet increasingly in recent years, some in our society have insisted on fretting about the "safety" or nutritional value of the nation's food supply. In a hard-hitting address earlier this month (June 6), Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz blasted some of the myths perpetuated by these fretters.

"The biggest problem we have with our food in this country today is eating too much of it," Butz told the Institute of Food Technologists, meeting in Anaheim, California. "If our food supply is not nutritious and delicious, how come we see so many people overweight from eating it?"

The Secretary—not one to mince words—criticized the Delaney Clause to the Food Additive Amendment passed by Congress in 1958. The clause says, in effect, that any additive found to cause cancer in animals or humans cannot be added to foods.

"On the surface this would seem to be a good idea," said Butz. "In practice it has turned out to be utter nonsense—one of worst legislative additives of all times. A law or an amendment that requires zero tolerance of any substance leaves no room whatsoever for the judgment of scientists who might make new findings about the risk/benefit ratio of any particular food additive.

"Such laws flatly say 'no' to technology and research that might often prove of great overall benefit in food storage and preservation—and in preserving human health. This is the extreme position this country now finds itself in with regard to our food supply."

He noted the irony of "food faddists and extremists" stewing about the "safest and most nutritious food supply the world has ever known"—a safety provided in part by modern processing and food additives.

In modern times, science has added Vitamin D to milk and conquered rickets; has put Vitamin C in foods and virtually eliminated scurvy; has added nitrites to fish and meats while they are curing and helped control the threat of deadly botulism. Thanks to such advances—coupled with the wonders of modern medicine—the average life expectancy of Americans since 1900 has gone from 47 years to over 70.

Given these facts, it is difficult to argue with Butz's contention that "when man doesn't have anything to worry about, he invents something; and by and large that is what too many Americans have done with regard to our food supplies." — U. S. Press Association.

Regulation: An Ideal Gone Astray?

A myth has developed around the country that the American business community is automatically opposed to any form of government regulation. It isn't.

American business recognizes that some forms of government regulation of business practices are desirable. But government regulations have lately multiplied to the point that they have become counterproductive.

A mind-boggling maze of regulations and an unwieldy regulatory structure threatens to drive many companies out of business and their employes out of jobs. Over-regulation is making goods and services more expensive. It is tying up money and time for no appreciable returns except anxiety and confusion. It is cutting into capital formation, which business needs to create millions of jobs and keep the recovery moving forward. It is, in fact, insidiously undermining the competitive enterprise system it is supposed to be regulating.

Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois says, "Over the years, government regulation . . . has, by small degrees, run amuck . . ."

There are now no fewer than 82 regulatory agencies in Washington, with a total staff of 100,000 and a 1976 budget of $2.9 billion. Americans thus pay twice for excessive regulation—once in higher taxes and then in higher prices.

Rep. Elliott Levitas (D.-Ga.), a close observer of the regulatory scene, points out that in 1974, some 67 federal agencies, departments, and bureaus adopted 7,496 new and amended regulations. "During the same period of time," he states, "Congress enacted 404 public laws—a ratio of more than 18 to 1!"

Those regulations, incidentally, took no less than 38 volumes to fill.

Estimates of the annual cost of government regulation range from $60 billion to $130 billion.

President Ford has estimated the cost at $2,000 per family per year. He has called for a four-year program under which every sector of the American economy would be examined and federal regulation overhauled. The President has stated: "A necessary condition to a healthy economy is freedom from the petty tyranny of massive government regulation." The President noted that government's . . . "insatiable appetite for paper and red tape . . . is choking the life out of free enterprise and individual initiative in America."

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D.-Mass.) recently noted, "There is widespread disillusionment among our people about the quality and sometimes even about the sanity of their government. The task for all of us—in business as well as politics—is to start making sense out of the maze of federal regulation."

Senator Kennedy is joined by many legislators on Capitol Hill in urging regulatory reform. Sen. Edmund Muskie (D.-Me.) recently noted, "We have 228 health programs, 156 income security and social service programs, et cetera, et cetera . . . we reap a bumper crop of public disenchantment with government so unresponsive that it cannot even perform the simple day-to-day tasks that need to be done."

Representative Levitas has summed up the effect government regulation is having on people's lives: "The public has become extremely cynical about all government . . . They identify government with the bureaucrat who is making life miserable for them . . . the elderly woman who cannot get an answer on the phone about why her Social Security check hasn't arrived, or the businessman who is having trouble with an Environmental Protection Agency official. They have been frustrated by the insensitivity and unresponsiveness of government bureaucrats. And people in every part of the country are looking for Congress to regain control."

The costs of government regulation to American business—directly borne by the American consumer—are horrendous. General Motors corporation estimates that government regulation costs the company—and the buyers of its products—$1.3 billion in 1974, a figure it expects to equal or exceed this year. GM estimates that the equivalent of 25,300 of its employes worked fulltime in 1974 on government regulatory matters.

Armco Steel says it must obtain licenses and permits from at least 379 different agencies—federal, state and local. It must submit reports to 1,245 agencies and it regularly corresponds with 1,026 agencies.

American agriculture is being affected equally. In a recent speech, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz warned that the farmer's ability to produce increasing food supplies will be disastrously crippled if current trends toward government regulation of farm chemicals, drugs, environmental controls and safety devices continue.

Fortunately for all, regulatory reform is in the air. As one observer put it recently, "Congress has been neglectful in its oversight of regulatory agencies. Two or three years ago, there weren't many hearings dealing with Government Regulation. Business was screaming about it, but not the guy on the street. Now Congress is paying attention."

The Ford Administration, in its outline for regulatory reform, has introduced legislation to deregulate partially the trucking, airline and banking industries.

Senator Muskie has introduced a bill under which almost all federal programs would have to be reauthorized every four years, or else terminated. Another Senate bill would set up a mandatory schedule for reform of 34 federal regulatory agencies. Bills introduced in both houses would allow Congress to review and veto all agency rules and regulations, past and future.

The National Association of Manufacturers strongly favors discipline in government regulation. We recognize, however, that real reform will take place only when Congress feels the public itself is getting tired of paying the bill—and demands action. — By Douglas Kenna, President, National Association of Manufacturers.

Straight Talk On Panama

There are many conflicting opinions about the Panama Canal; but the real question is this: How vital to the future of the United States and the Free World is the Panama Canal? Based on that assessment, what should the U.S. position be?

The answers to both those questions came recently when Adm. John McCain, the former Commander in Chief of all U.S. forces in the Pacific, testified before a House international relations subcommittee. McCain, now retired, said the following:

". . . It is . . . . in our national interest to safeguard American passage in the vicinity of strategic islands closer to home — such as the strategic island of Cuba, which stands between us and free passage through Central America via the Panama Canal. We maintain our right of passage through Panama in the same way we protect the Philippines — through seapower.

". . . The United States is virtually an island nation. Some 69 of the 72 vital raw materials we require must be imported to America by ship. Some of these materials, which are crucial to our industry, come from as far away as the Indian Ocean. Thus today, more than ever in our history, we are critically dependent on the sea-lanes for our economic survival — in fact, for our total survival."

McCain noted that, in contrast, the Soviet Union is virtually self-sufficient in raw materials, requiring the importation of only two, tin and rubber, to assure its survival. Yet, paradoxically, the land-locked Soviet Union today, with its huge merchant marine and navy, is a greater sea power than the U.S.

And the Soviets, through their "Cuban satellite in the Caribbean," said the admiral, "are continuing to increase their influence in the vicinity of the Panama Canal, a short-cut between the Atlantic and Pacific that is absolutely essential to the economic strength and military security of the United States."

McCain's conclusion? "It would be a mistake to give the Panama Canal away. It would be dangerous to our security." — U.S. Press Association.

philosophy that 'all men are created.' Being 'created', all mankind is endowed by the 'creator' with certain inalienable rights and no government or economic system can take from man that which he received by the act of 'creation'.

"Recognizing that the most basic of those inalienable rights from the Creator is the right of 'free will', the right to believe or to disbelieve in the Creator Himself, our Founders destroyed the mailed fist of spiritual dictatorship. They knew that freedom, even freedom of faith, must be voluntary. From faith that man was created by God for a noble purpose has flowed respect for human dignity. Our system of economics is based on that faith. How long could we exist as a free people if the majority of Americans believed it was alright to steal?

"If Americans would see another 200 years of our country being free and prosperous, we need to stage our own individual Bicentennial celebration. It won't cost a lot of money either. Why not rekindle our faith in God? Why not renew our personal dedication to God? Why not start the habit of daily Bible reading? The Lord said 'Righteousness exalteth a nation.' "

Although a 1971 law forbids strip mining of state land the offer from Carl DelSignore, owner of the Buffalo Coal Company, would apparently circumvent the prohibition.

According to Anthony F. Abar, of the State Bureau of Mines, DelSignore wants to swap his acreage for both the surface and mineral rights to five parcels of state forest land.

The company estimates it would mine one million tons of coal from four of the five parcels. The land would then be reforested and returned to the state. The fifth parcel of the 440 acre plot would be kept by the company for a deep shaft mine.

Abar said the prime attraction for the state in the offer is 187 acres of coal company land lying partly inside the wild river corridor the state is trying to establish along the Youghiogheny river. The rest of the land lies adjacent to the Potomac State Forest where the company has finished strip mining operations.

The final decision must be made by the Board of Public Works.

According to Tim Dugan, head of the county's planning board the company land near the Youghiogheny river is the most attractive part of the proposal.

Mobile Equipment To Require Tags And Insurance July 1

Vehicles engaged in road construction and maintenance, such as mobile cranes and concrete mixers, as well as mobile offices, well drillers, and similar types of vehicles, all technically classified in Maryland as "special mobile equipment," and previously not requiring license plates or insurance, will be required to have both as of July 1.

In a teletype to law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland, Ejner J. Johnson, State Motor Vehicle Administrator, pointed out that under House Bill 666, enacted at the 1976 session of the Maryland General Assembly, the new "special mobile equipment" license plate must be displayed on any vehicle classified as special mobile equipment "whenever it is operated or moved on the public highways."

The annual registration fee, under the new law, will be $10 for each tag. Application forms are available at any MVA office.

Qualify With Pistol

Sheriff John Evans, Jr., and all eight deputies qualified as pistol marksmen at the Snaggy Mountain state forest area last weekend. Instructor was Corp. Harry Miller of the natural resources police department.

The sheriff and deputies are now authorized to give traffic citations to offending motorists, the department pointed out.

Listen Americans!

. . . by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

The Riches of Debt

Soon after the opening of Disneyland in California, the late and great Walt Disney was asked if he was rich. He replied: "I must be very rich for I now owe 8 million dollars."

Using debt as a standard of riches, the United States is truly the richest nation in the history of man. Not only is our Federal government going deeper and deeper in debt (at the end of 1975 the Federal debt stood at $587.6 billion, and now at $627 billion), but individuals and corporations have also fallen into a sea of debt.

According to figures released February 15, 1976 by the Treasury Office of Debt Analysis, the Gross National Product at the end of 1975 was right at one and a half trillion dollars. However, corporate debt alone at the end of 1974 exceeded the GNP by almost $100 billion, private debt of individual Americans amounted to another $880.1 billion and when all government debt is added in at $627 billion, the total is a stunning 3 trillion dollars . . . or more than twice the Gross National Product for 1975. Debt in America went up tremendously in 1975, and still more for 1976. So the picture will be even worse when final figures are in.

Gross Per Capita Debt

Most of us can't conceive of a trillion dollars . . . but what all this debt means is that if the total debts, public, private, and corporate were assessed equally among all the people of the nation, you would have to come up with about $15,000 for each member of your family. That means for the average American family of four, the cost would be $60,000.00.

Gross Per Capita Income

Now the Socialists in America want to change our economic system so that each individual shares in the national wealth alike. The above figures show what your share of the debt is. Don't let the Socialists and the planners fool you with their "share the wealth" propaganda . . . there is a lot more debt to share than there is wealth!

The Hidden Costs Of Big Government

It doesn't take much persuasion to convince most of us that the cost of big government is outlandishly excessive. We feel it, we see it, and we pay for it in our local, state and federal government taxes.

Now, however, we are just beginning to learn that the true picture is worse than we thought. In addition to the direct costs of big government extracted from us in taxes, there is an additional "hidden tax" we are forced to pay, just as excessive and just as burdensome.

The bad news comes by way of a study which is even now in its initial stages, conducted by the National Association of Manufacturers. The purpose of the survey: to discover, if possible, what "hidden" costs are imposed by government regulation and bureaucratic red tape.

Among the first reports to come in was one from the Dow Chemical Company. Last year, this firm decided to build a new petrochemical plant. To date, not a single board, nail, concrete block or any kind of construction is in place. But, already, it has cost Dow over $1.3 million to fill out government forms to over 60 different government regulatory agencies.

General Motors reports that their NAM-requested survey reveals that no less than 23,000—that's twenty-three thousand—people on their payroll are working full-time just to fill out hundreds of thousands of government forms. The cost to you? According to the initial figures, over $200 for every automobile that you buy.

Senator Paul Fannin of Arizona, in a recent speech in the Senate, cited estimates all the way up to $130 billion a year in direct and indirect costs to American consumers, brought about by "regulatory overkill." And every penny (and dollar) of it is added to the cost of things you buy.

So, the next time you pay your taxes, remember—that is only part of the cost to you for big government. You pay a lot more every time you buy a product or service. —U. S. Press Association.

Deep Creek Appeals To Continue Mon.

The Deep Creek Lake Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals met yesterday at the Garrett County Planning Commission Office with investigations continuing on four cases. On-site investigations are to be conducted Monday before decisions are reached on the four cases.

Mrs. Mary Railey has requested a special exception to allow her to locate a mobile home on her 6.5 acre parcel off the Bumble Bee road at McHenry. The lot is located within a Lake Residential zone.

Douglas Railey is seeking a special exception which would allow him to put a mobile home on property which covers .8 of an acre and is located off the Rock Lodge road near its intersection with U.S. Route 219. The property is also within a Lake Residential zone.

A variance application has been filed by Theodore Frantz, who wants to construct an addition to his Glendale road home. The addition would come to within a foot of the Pennsylvania Electric line.

Another special exception application was filed by Calvin Johnson, who wants to locate a mobile home on a .46 acre parcel on the Roman Nose Spa Subdivision. The property is located within a Lake Residential zone.

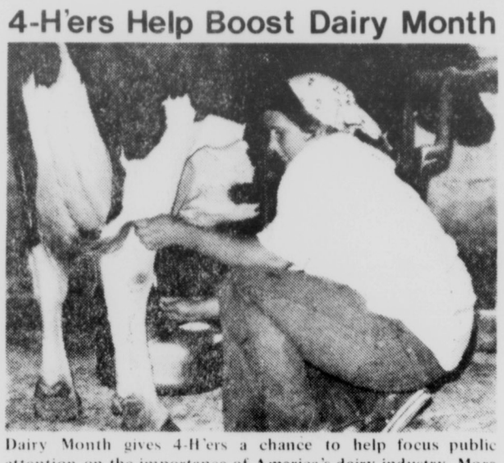
4-H'ers Help Boost Dairy Month



Dairy Month gives 4-H'ers a chance to help focus public attention on the importance of America's dairy industry. More than 91,000 young people 9-19 participate in the national 4-H dairy program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and sponsored by Insurance Company of North America.

CHICAGO More than 91,000 4-H'ers will be busy this June helping to promote Dairy Month. They're members of the national 4-H dairy program, and they're convinced of the importance of America's dairy industry.

"We need milk or other dairy products every day for good nutrition," says 4-H'er Larry Grim, 17, of Nampa, Idaho. Last year Grim won a national 4-H dairy scholarship donated by Insurance Company of North America.

"The only way to assure wholesome products for the consumer is to have clean, healthy, well-fed animals," he says. "And it's the only way to make dairying profitable."

ACROSS THE COUNTRY 4-H dairymen 9-19 learn-by-doing to apply sanitation principles and sound management practices to the care of one or more dairy animals.

In practical projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers also discover how dairy products are marketed, processed and distributed.

Many 4-H members find satisfaction in fitting and showing dairy animals, and in serving on judging teams locally, statewide or even nationally.

TO RECOGNIZE achievement in the 4-H dairy program, Insurance Company of North America offers a series of awards to outstanding 4-H members through the National 4-H Service Committee.

Up to four 4-H'ers per county are eligible for medals of honor, and one member in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Six national winners, to be announced during Congress, receive $800 college scholarships. All winners are selected by the Extension Service.

More information on the 4-H dairy program is available from county extension agents.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to clear up a great inaccuracy which appeared in the June 12th issue of the Cumberland Sunday Times. An AP article entitled "Northern High Grads Begin Packing; Looking For Jobs" erroneously quoted myself as saying, "A lot of people hate it here (in Garrett County) because it's a hick place and there's no way to advance yourself." When interviewed by the Washington Post reporter who wrote the article, I can assure you I said nothing of the sort. I did, however, cite that many persons find it difficult to learn new skills without leaving the area.

I would never generalize to such an extent on the job market or social status of our area. I realize that there are many wonderful people in our county who help make it a great place to live. Also, important improvements are being made which will greatly benefit the mountaintop's economy. For example, Garrett Community College has recently broken ground for a new vocational-technical center, providing a new source in the county for job training.

I deeply regret the profound degradation caused by the misquotation and I thank you for this opportunity to check the mistake.

Sincerely,
David "Chip" Schwing
Accident, Md.

Accidents Hurt Several In Week

Several persons were injured in accidents around the county in the past week.

Three members of a Suffolk, Va., family were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by the Northern Rescue Squad. Patricia Anne Swindell, 29, was operator of the car and passengers were Elisha Thomas Swindell, 31, and a son, Gary Thomas, 7.

Mrs. Swindell was traveling south on Big Run road about a half mile south of New Germany road. She negotiated a sharp left curve, then ran over several rocks in the roadway which caused her to lose control of the car. The vehicle then went off the right side of the road, down an embankment, overturned and struck a tree. Tpr. L. N. Smith made the investigation of the Sunday afternoon wreck.

A two-car mishap occurred a short time before in which one person was injured on the Glendale road just west of Md. 495. The injured was Sharlene Marie Wilson, 23, of Gilmore Hollow, Lonaconing.

Jane E. Hudes, Potomac, was stopped eastbound on the Glendale road for a stop sign at Md. 495, with the Wilson car following. Sharlene Wilson failed to stop and struck the rear of the Hudes car. Tpr. R. B. Westmoreland charged Sharlene Wilson with failing to reduce speed under existing conditions.

One person was slightly injured in a one-car wreck on the Accident-Bear Creek road about 2 miles from the Accident-Friendsville road just past midnight Saturday morning.

Garry Lee Frazee, Walnut Street, Friendsville, was westbound on the Bear Creek road. After rounding a sharp right curve he lost control of the car and struck two trees. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile charged Frazee with driving under the influence of alcohol and operating an unsafe vehicle.

A man was injured on Walnut Bottom road about a mile and a half east of Md. 135 late last Thursday evening, when he accidentally hit a light switch.

Robert W. Arbogast, Sr., 56, RD 1, Swanton, stated he hit the light switch with his knee and turned off the lights. Before he could turn them on again, the car struck a pole, which was right at the edge of the road, and overturned. Tpr. R. C. Georg made no charges.

There were no apparent injuries in a double pick-up wreck on U.S. 219 just north of Mayhew Inn road late last Friday evening although one vehicle overturned and was called a total loss.

Patricia R. E. Friend, Star Route, Oakland, was southbound on Rt. 219 and attempted to make a left turn into a private drive. Vincent C. Slagle, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., also southbound, attempted to pass several vehicles including the Friend car and struck the latter. The Slagle car then went off the road to the right and overturned. Tpr. Smith charged Slagle with improper passing.

David C. Corbin, Thomas, W. Va., was southbound on U.S. 219 at Gortner about 11 p.m. last Friday. David A. Stewart, RD 1, Oakland, backed from a tavern parking lot onto Rt. 219 into the path of the Corbin car and struck it. Tpr. Smith charged Stewart with improper backing.

Another mishap occurred about the same time. Danny E. Wilt, Main Street, Grantsville, was eastbound on U.S. 40 near Md. 495 in Grantsville, and was making a left turn into a side street. Thomas F. Diehl, Main Street, Grantsville, was westbound on Rt. 40. Wilt failed to yield the right-of-way to the Diehl car and the two collided. Tpr. Westmoreland made the charge.

Stanley P. Schlosnagle, RD 1, Accident, was westbound on the Cove road just past midnight June 7. As he approached a curve, he failed to negotiate it, struck two posts, telephone pole, crossed a yard and came to rest on the Old Morgantown road. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged him with negligent driving.

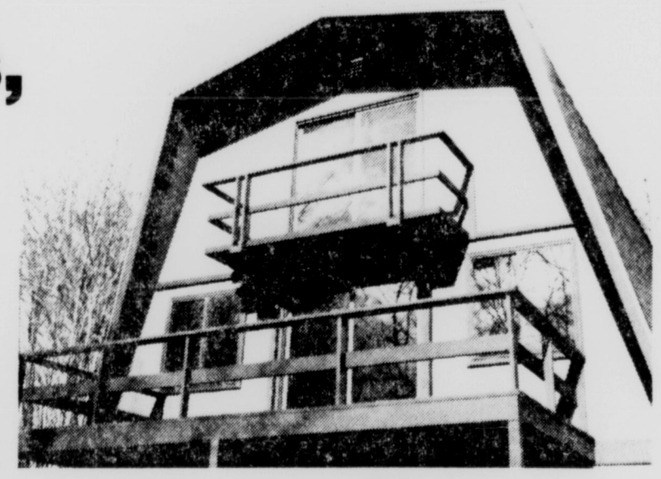
After You See Theirs, Take a Good Look At OURS!



If you're considering the popular Chalet design for your new home, you owe it to yourself to study all models carefully. We think you'll like the SHELTER Chalet better. Although ours may look similar to theirs, there are major structural differences which we think you'll agree make the SHELTER Chalet a better buy.

The prebuilt SHELTER Chalet is fabricated in Oakland, Md., so there are no big freight bills to be paid. The roomy 24' x 24' SHELTER Chalet shell package is priced at only $6,200 (FOB Oakland, excluding sales tax), making it an excellent buy for you.

Consider the important differences.

Our angled SIDEWALLS have a top and bottom plate on each floor to nail paneling to. With Shelter's design, you won't have to start out by putting in a lot of blocking.

The sidewall STUDS are 16" on center, not 24", so you have firmer backing for your paneling.

We use sanded plywood for the GUSSETS on our 2 x 12 joists and glue and nail them with finish nails. This gives them a more finished appearance than sheathing plywood and 16-penny nails.

Our open-riser stair treads are dadoed into the stringers instead of just sitting on blocks. This means that Shelter STAIRS are stronger and have a neater appearance.

The Chalet TRUSSES have 2 x 6 top chords (not 2 x 4) and we put them 2' on center so that you have something to nail your ceiling to every 2'.

Shelter exterior DECKS are prebuilt out of pressure-treated lumber which never has to be stained or painted.

Here's another important consideration. All our workmanship is guaranteed for one year. If we put in a basement, we'll guarantee it against seepage in writing for a full year even if we hit spring water when we dig.

We're flexible. You can buy the package and set it up yourself. We'll provide a construction foreman experienced in SHELTER assembly if you wish. We can erect the shell and let you do the finishing work (we can provide interior materials packages, if desired), or we can do the entire job, including finishing.

After you see theirs, take a good look at ours. We're open from 9-4 Monday through Friday, and weekends by appointment. Choose the SHELTER Chalet or any of our 26 other vacation designs. Little things can add up to a better house. That's why yours should be a SHELTER design.

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

Maine

Maine's nickname, "Pine Tree State," came from the tall pines that once made up most of the area forest. White pine was so valuable to state that it was chosen as the state tree. Maine's people are called "Down Easterners, probably coming from early New England's use of the word "down" to mean north.

Pine cone with tassel is state flower, Chickadee is the state bird, the motto is "Dirigo" which means "I direct." Augusta is the capital and Portland is the largest city. James Longley, Independent, is the governor. Maine is the thirty-ninth among all the states.

Maine is the largest New England state and is best known for its shore along the Atlantic ocean. All along the coast are lighthouses, sandy beaches and quiet fishing villages. There are many offshore islands and Acadia National Park, is New England's only national park.

Jagged rocks, cliffs, thousands of bays and islets add to the rugged beauty of the coast. Inland Maine has sparkling lakes, rushing rivers, green forests and towering mountains.

Thousands of Indians lived there before the white man came. The Vikings, led by Leif Ericson, probably visited Maine about 1,000 A.D. Pioneering Englishmen first settled there in 1607 thirteen years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. Cold weather and the lack of supplies forced the settlers back to England in 1608.

Maine was a part of Massachusetts for most of 200 years, then became the 23rd state on March 15, 1820, as a "free" state, without slaves.

Shipbuilding was the first industry. The first ship built by the English colonists in America was launched on the Kennebec river in 1607. The first Naval battle of the Revolutionary war was fought off the Machias in 1775, when the patriots captured the British army schooner Margaretta. The invention of the doughnut hole in 1847 by Capt. Hanson Gregory is still commemorated at Camden.

In 1851 Maine became the first state to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages. In 1911 the state adopted a direct primary voting law.

In 1958 Edmund S. Muskie became the first Maine Democrat ever elected the U. S. Senate. Maine voted for Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964, first time since 1912 that the state supported a Democrat for president. The state adopted personal and corporate income taxes in 1969.

Maine is an important farming and fishing state. The coastal waters produce an annual twenty million pounds of lobsters, 25 percent of the nation's total. It produces fifty percent of the nation's soft shelled clams. The state packs over 150 million cans of sardines a year, tops among the states. The fish and shellfish catch is worth forty million a year. Almost every community along the coast has at least a small fleet of fishing boats. The most common game fish in the lakes and streams are brook trout and salmon.

Game animals are found almost everywhere. White tail deer, grouse and black bear are the leading attractions. Moose live in the isolated areas and are protected by law. A herd of caribou were brought to Mount Katahdin from Canada. More than 320 kinds of birds are found there.

The potato is the leading field crop and earns about fifty million a year. Only Idaho grows more potatoes. Most of the state's three billion pounds annual potato crop comes from one county. The state produces ninety percent of the nation's low bush blueberries. The farm income totaled more than four million in 1974 with poultry and eggs the largest items. Some 90 percent of the state is in forest cover and wood processing industry is large, backbone of Maine's economy. Factories make paper, pulp, toothpicks and other items.

The largest producer of paper used for newspapers in the state, and leads the states in toothpick production. Ships built there have been famous for more than three hundred years.

Leather and leather products have value of two hundred million. The manufacture of shoes employs more workers than any other single industry.

Shoes and other footwear are made in Bangor, Belfast, Farmington, Gardner, North Jay and other cities. The scenic seacoast make it a popular vacation spot and tourism is a 500 million a year industry. There are over 45 public skiing facilities.

Wadsworth Longfellow house in Portland ranks as a most popular historic site. The three story building was the home of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, famous poet. William King served as vice president under Franklin Pierce from 1853 to 1857. Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, won fame during the 1940's. She became the first woman to win election to both houses of Congress.

The satellite station near Andover is part of the world-wide communications system, including telstar and the early bird satellites.

The wedding cake house in Kennebeck is a two story, square house with elaborate outside decorations. According to the legend a sea captain was ordered to sea in an emergency and his bride had no wedding cake. She added the decorations to make the house look like one.

Famous persons include Longfellow, Kenneth Roberts, William Rin, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Ben Williams, Hiram and Hudson Maxim and Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

Health Care Cost Controls Needed Now

by Harriet Miller

What we consumers have suspected all along has finally been confirmed by a report from the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability: health care costs are once again out of control, and rising faster than the overall cost of living. What we didn't know until now was exactly how severe the new inflationary spiral was.

Harriet Miller

During the 12 months ending in June 1975, the Council reports, medical costs increased by 10.3 percent, compared to a seven percent rise in the general cost of living. Although health care expenditures have tripled since 1965, the 1974-75 increase represents the largest ever in our nation's history.

At the same time, the individual American's health care expenses rose by 13 percent, to where we are now spending approximately 10 percent of our income for health care.

And no relief is in sight. Not only has double-digit inflation returned to the health care field, but the President's Council expects these costs to continue rising "sharply for the foreseeable future."

Yet, there are still economists who are convinced that, although the American public objects strongly to rampant inflation, it is far more willing to put up with "a little inflation" rather than risk the ravages of severe recession.

Health care is not an area in which one can—or should even be asked to—choose between the lesser of two economic evils. Here, even "a little inflation" is far too much.

There are, unfortunately, no simple solutions to the problem or even definitive explanations of how it developed or why it persists. The Council's report offers insightful theories, but cautions that "they cannot fully account for the long-standing inflation in this sector or its recent acceleration."

Further complicating the situation is the fact that the true costs of health care have long been hidden from the individual consumer. Denied this awareness, there is no way a consumer can effectively exercise control.

This situation results from two factors which the report's author —Paul S. McAuliffe, the Council's deputy general counsel—refers to as the "institutional peculiarities" of the health care industry. These are:

(1) The fact that approximately 67 percent of all payments for personal health care are made by third parties (private insurance companies, Medicare, Medicaid) rather than by the patients themselves, and

(2) The tendency of physicians to determine "the nature and extent of services provided . . . in a transaction in which the patient is often a passive participant . . . [because he or she] usually lacks sufficient information or expertise, even if so inclined, to question a physician's recommendation or to seek possible alternatives."

"Several studies have confirmed . . . that the insured patient is willing to buy more care or more expensive care than he would if not insured," notes Mr. McAuliffe. "Increasing insurance expenditures are, of course, reflected in increasing health insurance premiums, and were the consumer aware of premium costs and increases, he or she might choose a different form of paying for medical care."

One reason for this lack of awareness is that an estimated 80 percent of all private health insurance policies are provided as fringe benefits by employers who pay a large portion or, in some cases, all of the premium costs. Only 17 percent of all health insurance policies are paid for directly by the insured individuals.

Because their medical bills are ostensibly being paid by a private or governmental insuror, many consumers are unaware that the increased costs of health care are being passed on to them indirectly and almost unnoticeably. In one way or another, all of us—employes, consumers and Medicare-Medicaid patients—are paying for the increasing price of health care.

In time, national health insurance might provide a lasting solution to this problem, but only if the plan eventually adopted contains a mechanism for controlling costs and establishing quality standards.

For the short run, however, the only workable answer may lie in reimposing price controls over the entire health care field. Failure to do this now could result in national health insurance —and even comprehensive reform of the Medicare program —being prohibitively expensive in the future.

Since price controls were lifted in April 1974, Mr. McAuliffe points out, "health care prices have again risen more rapidly than other prices—and at faster rates than ever before . . ." But when they were in effect, "health care prices rose more slowly than prices"—and, in the final analysis, that's what counts.

Still Wanted: An Energy Policy

Nearly three years after the Arab oil boycott, the United States is still groping disjointedly for an energy policy that will bring the U.S. closer to self-sufficiency. And, incredibly, although the private sector almost certainly holds the key to energy independence in this country, Congress continues to talk about "breaking up the majors"—a move that would likely doom any real progress toward such independence.

In a recent address on the subject, Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe noted the nation "must have energy industries which have the expertise, the capital, the management and the technical capabilities to undertake gigantic projects and to take large risks."

Such a project is the recent Gulf of Alaska oil and gas lease sale, in which oil firms bid $1.7 billion for offshore tracts. "If divested, they couldn't have done this, and the nation would be the loser," said Kleppe, speaking before the American Advertising Federation Convention in Washington on June 7.

Kleppe lists seven "basic facts" he said Americans must recognize if the nation is to make major strides toward energy sufficiency. They include:

1. There is an energy crisis. "It grows more intense each day. It was not an invention of the oil companies."

2. Oil imports cost $70 million a day—enough to create more than one million jobs if the funds were kept in the U.S.

3. The U.S. has enough energy in the form of oil, natural gas and coal to regain energy self-sufficiency.

4. Interior Department programs could bring coal and petroleum resources into quick production, with adequate environmental protection.

5. The U.S. has both the resources and capability to capitalize on previously unused energy forms, including oil shale, geothermal, and solar.

6. The nation will not be able to utilize its resources fully until it has a rational and stable energy policy.

7. The private sector must resolve the energy crisis. The government alone can't do so, in Kleppe's words, "without destroying the freedoms we cherish."

There you have it. Energy advice from an expert. In summary, America's energy crisis, though real, is solvable. All it will take is some hard-headed realism and the right kind of leadership from Washington. —U. S. Press Association.

Pennington Cottage On National Register, Historic Places

The Pennington Cottage at Deer Park, restored by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faulkner, owners, has been approved by the Maryland Historical Trust as one of those placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Pennington cottage, located on the north side of the old and once-famous Deer Park hotel grounds, was designed and built by Josias Pennington in 1892. It is a three-story summer cottage with fourteen rooms. On the first floor are reception hall, living room, dining room, kitchen and laundry room. The main stairs lead from the reception hall to the second floor which has four chambers two baths and a large hall. A stair leads from the back hall to the third floor which has five bedrooms, a bath and trunk room.

Mr. Pennington was a member of the firm of Baldwin and Pennington, prominent architects, of Baltimore. The Pennington family, with servants, came to Deer Park in the summers until around 1919. They brought horses and carriages with them from Baltimore.

From 1919 until recently the cottage was run down. It was restored in 1973 and contains much of the original furniture and also some furniture of that period installed.

Other historic landmarks which have been placed among the list of national historic places are the B. and O. railroad station in Oakland, the Court House, the Historical museum and the Casselman River bridge.

An Act of Congress in 1935 placed the Department of the Interior in the field of historic preservation of cultural property. The act of 1968 expanded the program.

The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to expand and maintain a national register of districts, sites, buildings, structures and objects significant in American history, architecture, archeology and culture.

It looks like fun outside. A bright, happy, wonderful day — and a pal to share it with. A world of promise.

As the future unfolds in every life it looks like a world of promise. Whether it lives up to our expectations depends less on what's outside than what's inside. Human character tends to shape the events and experiences of life.

Our tremendous responsibility as parents is to nurture a human soul, foster its spiritual growth, cultivate the crucial development of our child's character.

As a window lets light reach inside, the teaching of moral and religious truth lets faith find its rightful place in each youthful heart. To discover all the Promise in this world the soul must begin by realizing the promises of God.

WITHSTANDING GOD

Lesson for June 20, 1976

Background Scripture:
Acts 11:11-18; 15:1-35; 19:23-27; Galatians 2:11-16.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 6:10-20.

I have often noted in my study of history that revolutionary movements often tend in time to become very much like the very forces they have overthrown. I think of reform movements that, having grasped power, have become corrupt and decadent themselves. I think of religious groups who came to America to find freedom of religion and then, having found that freedom, went on to deny it to others. I think of children who have vowed not to be like their parents and then have incarnated the very characterisitics they have decried.

Rev. Althouse

Justification by faith

Christianity came into being as a revolutionary or reform movement. If we examine the gospels closely, we find that there is one characteristic of Judaism as Jesus found it that was the most recurring negative theme in the mission and message of Jesus: legalism! No group was as subject to his condemnation as the scribes and Pharisees who were the chief proponents of a legalistic Judaism.

The problem. Jesus made it clear, was not with religious laws—he acknowledged the need for these—but with what the legalists did with these laws. These rules and regulations became a substitute for the living God.

So primitive Christianity came into being with a bias against the legalistic approach to religion. Yet, despite that fact, no temptation was more pervasive to the early church than the lure of legalism. Most of the conflicts and tensions in the early church can be attributed to the struggle over this question: what is basic in the Christian faith—rules and regulations or the grace of God offered in Jesus Christ?

Even the Gentiles

Well, of course everyone knew that, as Paul puts it, "a man is not justified by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ" (Galatians 2:16). Yet, although they knew it, many of the early Christians continued to act as if the rules and regulations were primary. Many Jewish Christians still continued to act in a manner that was reflective of the legalism of the Pharisees.

So when Peter found himself criticized for eating with Gentile Christians, "he drew back and separated himself, fearing the circumcision party" (2:12). Of course he knew better than that, but his fear dominated his actions until Paul boldly confronted him and condemned his actions as contrary to the spirit of Christ.

On another occasion, it took a vision to persuade Peter to go to Simon the tanner, (a Gentile) so that he and his family might repent and receive the Holy Spirit. It took impassioned reasoning by Peter to convince the church at Jerusalem to set aside their legalistic reservations and accept the idea of Gentile converts. It is still a problem for Christians today: almost two thousand years later and we still tend to make our religion one of legalism instead of God's grace. The danger now as then is that in doing so we may still be withstanding God himself.

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. Ever since I got my horoscope chart done I have been devastatingly plaqued with self-doubt. My chart was negative and severely limiting. It changed me from a progressing, hopeful person to a negative, acutely self-conscious backward personality. I am still scared from the repercussions of it.

What are your thoughts about astrology? What is this so-called science and why is it so powerful? Does it really contain the script for my life? If it does, I don't want to act it out. I was told my chart was negative, meaning that I'm a negative person. I sure am right now!

A. The horoscope chart did not change you from a hopeful to a negative, backward personality. Your thoughts about the chart did that. You are not being made an unhappy girl because of a horoscope but rather because of your attitude.

So change your thinking, forget the chart. The quality of your thoughts is more important than any horoscope. And you can change from a negative to a positive person by acting positive.

We are not impressed by astrological influences, but we have a profound respect for the ability of the individual to think himself into whatever he wants to be.

Q. How can I cope with caring for my 98-year-old mother? There has never been a better person than she—never a complainer and always seeing the bright side of everything. But the last few years she has become childish and totally different. Now she can't work or read or go anywhere—all things she loved to do.

We want to make my mother happy, but she won't let us because she doesn't want to be a "bother." My husband and I have no privacy or time together. She wants to know everything—who our mail is from, who calls and what they wanted and what we pay for everything. She is so sensitive, yet she says such cutting things to us.

My husband and I are losing communication with each other. We're getting so far apart, and our children notice it. I love my mother, but my nerves are beginning to break, and I'm getting panicky. Don't you think my husband and I need to be together some?

A. Perhaps you would be wise to think of your 98-year-old mother as a child who needs discipline. You must toughen up your attitude, in a kindly manner, but still firm. Try to divest yourself of a mother-daughter sentimentality.

Don't tell your mother anything more than you want to tell her. Give no more attention to the cutting remarks than you would to those of a child. Why not try serving your mother's evening meal in her room, at least part of the time, so that your family can be together? The extra work and difficulty in doing this are worthwhile to save the family unity, which is being threatened.

And most important in your relationship with your husband is this: let him know exactly how you feel about your mother. Encourage him to openly discuss her with you. Work out strategy together. That will keep you together.

Q. It seems that the city I live in and the church I attend are fresh out of GOOD, DECENT, SINGLE men. I want to meet, fall in love with, be loved by and marry a good Christian man. And I have two very precious children who need the love, discipline and companionship of a GOOD father. I don't go out much. I can't tolerate smoke or other chemical smells. So I stay home much of the time taking care of my children. This doesn't get me in contact with men. What is the solution?

A. One thing for sure, don't chase anyone. That will drive them off.

We were in the apartment of a widower recently when the telephone rang. The conversation was short and cryptic. He explained afterward that it was the third call in the same number of weeks from a widow in the same apartment building. He couldn't get away fast enough. That widow was too obvious and not too smart.

Why not try the ways women always attract men? Dress attractively. Be wholesome and full of fun, always good company, the kind of person one likes to be with.

Maybe your town has more single men or widowers than you think. Could be they are cooped up in the house not going out, same as you.

Go to your pastor and suggest forming a singles club in the church. It is one of the most popular and well-attended groups we have in Marble Collegiate Church in New York. Make the program so enjoyable that it will bring in some of those stay-at-homes, who then may prove to be real nice people.

Also pray for a husband and describe exactly the kind you want. Then leave it to the good Lord, who will send you just the one He wants for you. Believe you have a married future. Think positively. Get out with people and be your own attractive self.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, New York, 12564.

Account Given Of Peter DeWitt In Revolutionary War

An account of Peter DeWitt and some of his activities during the Revolutionary War of 1776, compiled from notes recorded by Charles E. Hoye, and now in the hands of Mrs. William H. DeWitt, of Crellin, are being recorded in The Republican.

It was felt the account of his activities would be of interest during this becentennial celebration in Garrett county.

This narrative will be continued in future issues.

"In the Virginia census of 1782 a Peter DeWitt is listed in Hampshire county as head of a family of five. This is evidently the Peter DeWitt who moved to Clarke county, Ky., and on October 18, 1833 there made oath to an application for a pension under the Act of Congress of 1832.

"He was born in Sussex county, N. Y., July 8, 1753, and when twelve years of age moved with his father to Hampshire county, Va.

"In his pension application Peter DeWitt states that on June 15, 1775 he volunteered in Captain Michael Cresap's company. (Michael died Oct. 18, 1775). Another note written previous to the one listed above by Mr. Hoye, states the following application for pension, on file in Washington, is of interest to us of Garrett county, because in it DeWitt gives in some detail his services on our frontier, during the Revolution, a period of our history about which we know little. The fact is there is but little to tell, but is sufficient enough reason to treasure this record. Since only a few Friends, Frazees and others in the Blooming Rose settlement, a few settlers on Braddock road, and perhaps two or three on the Potomac then lived in what is now Garrett county.

"Captain Daniel Cresap in 1775 doubtless lived at "Shawnee," Old Town below Cumberland and Peter DeWitt resided nearby on the Virginia side of the Potomac. In DeWitt's story of their campaign of 1775 reference is made to marching to the 'headwaters of Buffallow'—presumably Buffalo Run, in Maryland, west of Friendsville; at Glade Farms the settlers had built Fort Morris the year before, and the Friends on the Youghiogheny had also fortified themselves.

"Capt. Cresap and his volunteers did not wait long in the mountains for the Indians to attack them, they crossed the Ohio and attacked the Indians in their towns.

"In his account of his capture of the deserter, he refers to 'an enemy's country consisting of Tories and Indians.' He must have gone into Ohio, capturing his man and bringing him across the mountains over the McCullogh path through Garrett county to the jail at Romney.

"This Peter DeWitt was the Peter who settled on Roaring Creek, Preston county, about 1795 and who became the ancestors of the DeWitts of this county.

Peter DeWitt Application for pension will be included in next week's account.

Log Church To Open Sunday

Our Father's House (The Log Church), located at Altamont, will open this Sunday, June 20th, for a series of services during the summer months. The church, part of the Garrett County Episcopal Mission, will have services each Sunday morning at 11:15 until the Sunday before Labor Day, September 5th.

The rustic setting of the Log Church has made it an unusual place to worship, according to the Rev. John Grant, Vicar in charge. Visitors of many different demoninations attend services at the church during the summer.

Northern Rescuers Take Training

Members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad attended a training exercise for the purpose of learning the skills of repelling. The training was conducted last Thursday at the Casselman River Bridge in Grantsville. Pete Crowell was in charge of the class. The student actually repelled 60 feet from the top of the bridge to the bank of the Casselman River. Repelling is a method of safety climbing down a vertical surface. The Rescue Truck Crew is being trained in these skills for the purpose of rescuing people who are involved in accidents which result in falls over steep embankments.

Half Of State Is Forest Land

More than three trillion cubic feet of timber, with 82 percent of it in hardwoods, is growing on Maryland's 2,882,000 acres of forestland, which covers 46.5 per cent of all the State's land area, according to the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development.

Better than 93 per cent of this growing lumber is privately owned and the bulk is destined eventually to be used as commercial sawtimber. Overall, Maryland's forests could yield up more than six trillion board feet of lumber, but only a small fraction of that yield is harvested in any one year.

These facts and literally thousands more covering economic, sociological, and geographic data about the State are contained in a new publication of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development. Called "The Maryland Statistical Abstract 1975," the 322-page volume holds 249 charts and tables, divided into 26 separate sections. Joseph G. Anastasi, Secretary of Economic and Community Development "believes" the "Abstract" to be the most complete compendium of State data yet produced in Maryland."

only about 75 million cubic feet of lumber are cut in any one year from Maryland's forests. Even after this production is subtracted, additional new growth each year in the State's woodlands totals 106 million cubic feet of wood. The most prevalent tree species in Maryland is the oak, followed by the poplar and then by the pine.

The latest available figures show 132 sawmills operating in Maryland. Wicomico, Charles, and Calvert counties, in descending order, are the overall largest producers of lumber, veneer, poles and barrels, pulpwood, fuel wood, fence posts, and chips.

In 1974, there were 823 forest fires in the State, with 2,327 acres burned as a result. Baltimore County recorded 120 of these fires, more than twice as many as any other jurisdiction. Children were blamed for almost 25 per cent of the blazes, and smokers with about 18 per cent.

Mineral production in the State in 1973 contributed $132 million to the Maryland economy, according to the "Abstract," up from only $88 million in 1970. Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick, Prince George's, and Garrett counties, in descending order, accounted for most of this production of stone, sand and gravel, and coal.

Abstract 1975" is available for $7.50 plus 30 cents sales tax from the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, 2525 Riva Road, Annapolis 21401.

Revolutionary Vignette Given

(The following vignette about the Revolutionary era was contributed by the University of Maryland University College lecturer H. C. Greisman. University College is the adult continuing education campus of the Univeristy of Maryland.)

THE LOST ORDER

A single bureaucratic foul-up may have cost Britain her thirteen American Colonies.

The Revolutionary War was not quite two years old when General Sir John Burgoyne presented his plan to the War Office in London. It entailed cutting the rebellion in two by splitting New England off from the Middle Colonies along the Hudson River. This was a sound if ambitious scheme which required the coordination of three separate armies. After some debate, the plan was approved, and Burgoyne was put in charge of the whole operation.

"Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne assembled an army of about five thousand men made up of British regulars, Tories, German mercenaries, and Iroquois Indians. Its job was to march down from Canada along the Hudson River to Albany, where it would be met by two other armies: William Howe's army from New York City, and Barry St. Ledger's from Oswego.

The campaign started off on an optimistic note. The weather was good, the troops were fresh and well-equipped, and most important, Burgoyne had received assurance from London that Generals Howe and St. Ledger were themselves in motion toward the common goal. The first few months of the operation went well. Fort Ticonderoga, a massive fortress at the headwaters of the Hudson, fell without too much trouble. Its garrison was lucky to escape total annihilation. Some other minor skirmishes followed as the Burgoyne army moved south, but suddenly things took a turn for the worse.

The loyal subjects of the King, that Burgoyne was convinced would flock to the flag when he marched through, never showed up. Quite the contrary, there was continual and costly harassment from colonial militiamen. Also, the ragtag army opposing Burgoyne was getting bigger instead of evaporating under the pressure of the other two British armies which were supposed to be moving against it.

The moment of truth came in October of 1777. Surrounded and outnumbered three-to-one, Burgoyne was fought to a standstill just north of Saratoga, New York. The Americans forced Burgoyne to surrender himself and his entire army. The news electrified Europe, and France entered the war on the side of the colonists. With the men, money, guns, and supplies sent by the French, the fortunes of the Americans improved dramatically. But what happened to Burgoyne's colleagues and their armies? Why did they not participate in the plan as they had been ordered?

Most evidence points to a "lost order" which got pigeonholed somewhere in London and was never sent at all. St. Ledger had received the order second-hand—probably through Burgoyne himself—but he moved too slowly to do any good. Sir William Howe never heard so much as a rumor of what was planned, and set out on an expedition to capture Philadelphia.

If the order had been received, the plan stood an even chance of succeeding. Without the lost order there would have been no surrender at Saratoga, small chance of a treaty with France, and quite possibly, no USA.

18 Are Killed On State Roads

Eighteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 1st Lt. H. J. Heiger of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed ten were drivers, five were passengers and three were pedestrians. Four of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Again the week has been marred by the loss of five motorcyclists in Maryland and a total of twenty two have died so far this year.

Not enough can be said in regard to safety for motorcyclists. They are out there unprotected and on their own. Opponents of motorcycle helmets frequently claim that helmets hinder safety by reducing the cyclist's ability to hear.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration summarizes recent research showing that safety helmets have very little effect because, while they deaden an incoming signal to some extent, they also tend to reduce the "masking noise" of the motorcycle itself.

A helmeted cyclist can hear a sound of interest approximately as well as a person in a car with closed windows, according to the report.

Persons killed through June 13 totaled 258 compared to 310 for the same period last year.

Among those listed was Teresa Anne Naylor, who was granted an M.A. degree in speech pathology and audiology. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Naylor, Fourth street, Oakland.

Meetings On Aging Planned

Dr. Matthew Taybeck, state director on Aging, is planning a group of meetings in each county during June, July and August, and plans to be in this county on Wednesday, August 11, it was announced by Robert C. Ford, president of the Garrett County Commission on Aging.

Results of the statewide meetings are to be used to develop future legislation to help Maryland's 500,000 residents over the age of 60. Subjects to get priority during the meetings will be long term care, life support, sheltered housing, home care, day care, nutrition and transportation programs for the elderly.

The agenda for the county visit is now being planned by the state office on aging, area agency, Joel Shoap, executive director and Mr. Ford. The program will begin with a meeting with the county commissioners, legislators and members of the commission on aging at 9 a. m. Time will be alloted for radio and news conferences. Mr. Ford said that additional details would be available as the agenda developed.

Improvement Of Treatment Plant Is Underway

Expansion and improvement of the Upper Potomac River Commission waste treatment plant at Westernport is underway, according to John J. McMullen, Jr., commission chairman.

The work is required to meet more stringent state and federal water quality standards that become effective July 1, 1977.

Cost of the improvements is estimated at almost $5,000,000, a figure higher than the original cost of the plant.

The plant serves the three communities of Luke and Westernport, Md., and Piedmont, W. Va., and handles the industrial wastes from Westvaco Corporation's pulp and paper mill at Luke.

Westvaco currently pays about 97 percent of all costs of the unit, including operation as well as amortization of a bond issue sold by UPRC to build the original plant. Westernport pays the remaining three percent. For the construction now underway, Westvaco has underwritten payment of the total cost of a new bond issue, also sold by UPRC.

Work required to enable the plant to meet the terms of its permit includes a new primary clarifier to reduce total suspended solids, major modification of the municipal sewage handling system, replacement of all mechanical equipment in the aeration system with improved devices for more efficient BOD removal, and a cooling tower to reduce temperature levels and help increase BOD removal efficiency.

Construction started in late May following awarding of the contract to Carl Belt, Inc., of Cumberland.

Completion of the entire project is expected by June, 1977.

Besides Mr. McMullen, other members of the UPRC are William M. Kenny, Westernport, treasurer, and John Adams, Jr., Oakland.

"Spoils of Poynton" To Be Shown Free At Library

A dramatic film series for adults based on a novel by Henry James will be presented free by the Ruth Enlow Library beginning the week of June 21st. "The Spoils of Poynton" will be shown over a two week period as part of the library's participation in FILMS PLUS, an experimental project funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The series depicts human nature with wit, humor and rare insight, as two Victorian ladies vie for a houseful of priceless antiques and the man who owns them.

The Ruth Enlow Library will show the series twice in its film room. Episodes 1 and 2 will be presented Wednesday afternoon, June 23rd, at 1 p.m., and again Friday evening, June 25th, at 7 p.m. Episodes 3 and 4 complete the series and will be shown Wednesday afternoon, June 30th, at 1 p.m., and again on Friday evening, July 2nd, at 7 p.m. Each two episode program runs a total of 90 minutes.

Members of the audience will receive a free, illustrated Film Guide providing background on the series, and light refreshments will be served. Because the presentation of the FILMS PLUS series is part of an experimental program, audiences will be asked to fill out short questionnaires giving their opinion of the series, the Film Guide, and the project in general.

"The Spoils of Poynton" was originally produced for television by the British Broadcasting Corporation. American audiences have viewed the series via the Public Broadcasting system. In both Great Britain and the United States, "The Spoils of Poynton" has been acclaimed for its superb acting, its skillful adaptation from the James novel, and the authenticity of its Victorian costumes and sets. The "priceless antiques" in the film series are so authentic that armed security men guarded the film sets during production.

The story concerns a widow, Mrs. Gereth, who has spent a lifetime gathering a collection of antique furniture and works of art. But the legal owner of the house and its treasures is her son Owen, and he has developed an attachment for a girl with none of the "finer feelings." Refusing to yield all her prized possessions to someone incapable of appreciating them, Mrs. Gereth puts her hopes in Fleda Vetch, a young woman worthy of the "spoils" and of Owen.

The Ruth Enlow Library which presented the FILMS PLUS series The Six Wives of Henry VIII in May plans to show the "Search for the Nile" beginning July 7th.

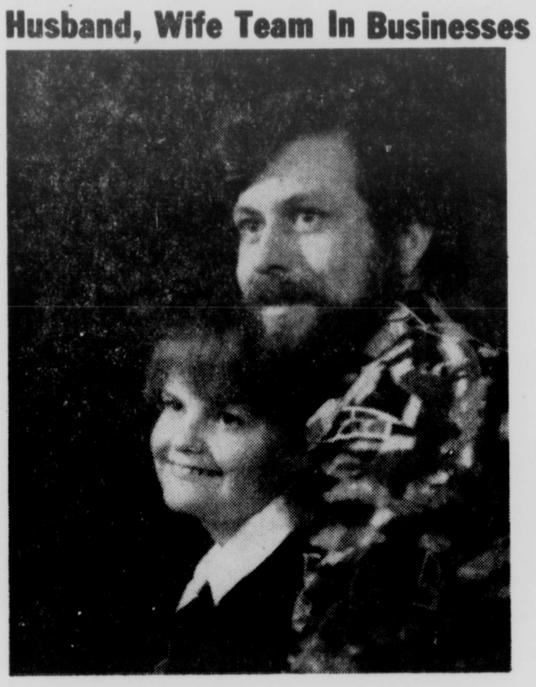
Husband, Wife Team In Businesses



David and Brook Green, county residents for the past three years, have opened two new businesses in Oakland, at 208 N. Second street. They are "Artistic Creations Photographic Studio," and "Glad Custom Frame Shop."

Mr. Green has operated a photographic studio in McHenry since 1974 and has taken award winning portraits there, the latest being two prints accepted for exhibition by the South Eastern Photographic Association.

Prior to opening her frame shop Mrs. Green taught science at Southern High school and has worked with her husband in his studio for the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Green obtained one of the older residences in Oakland, the former Dixon property, and later the Turner property, and are planning full restoration.

The studio will offer a full spectrum of photographic services, including weddings, restoration of old photographs, commercial photography and others.

Glad Custom Frames will cater to all framing needs, and will maintain a stock of frames and frame moulding samples for custom framing.

Mr. Green said both businesses would offer a 10 percent discount to the county's senior citizens.

Grantsville Stores Water

The town of Grantsville has stored 400,000 gallons of water so that the town does not expect to run dry before its main water line is repaired.

Mayor Herbert Ringer said the problem was eased considerably and that the town would still caution residents to conserve the water.

Source of the problem was a blockage in the main line which feeds water to the town from two wells and several springs atop Negro mountain.

The line has been in operation for 40 years and corrosion has built up in the line. The town decided to hire a firm to use special equipment to bore out the water line and hopefully restore a full supply and pressure. The firm plans to cut a small section of pipe and then bore through 500 feet of pipe each way. Then another thousand foot section will be taken until the entire line is clear.

In the meantime Grantsville firemen and residents had been working on filling up reserve tanks so that the supply would be ample.

Mayor Ringer said one of the town's major concerns had been the effect the water difficulties would have on the Flushing Shirt factory that employes over 150 persons.

Opportunity Given On Bicentennial E Bond Sales

The First National Bank of Oakland will, on request, issue bicentennial design series E. Savings Bonds dated July 4 to over the counter customers between July 1 and July 31, it was announced this week. This special commemoration of the nation's 200th birthday will have no effect on the terms and conditions effective on bonds.

In announcing this special opportunity, I. Lynn Beckman, public relations officer, said, "We are extremely pleased to be able to offer everyone in this area an opportunity to make the purchase of savings bonds a truly bicentennial event. The bonds bearing the July 4 date will make perfect souvenirs of our birthday celebration that everyone will want to have and keep for many years to come."

Denominations of the bicentennial design series E savings bonds range from $25 to $1,000, with purchase prices from $18.75 to $750. They draw six percent interest when held to a five year maturity (4½ percent the first year), and carry an automatic 10-year extension of interest beyond maturity.

These bonds will be issued over the counter only and are not available where purchases are made by payroll savings plans, it was pointed out.

Persons wishing to purchase a bond should bring the correct social security number for the person whose name will appear on the bond. Bonds may not be issued unless social security numbers are available at the time of issuance, it was stated.

IN MEMORIAM

A Father's Day tribute to the memory of Charles Rush, who went home to be with our Heavenly Father on July 9, 1969.

Our father was a quiet man
Loved by one and all.
Everyone who knew our Dad
Fond memories can recall.
He lived a very humble life,
Content with what he had
I never heard him once complain
This man who was our Dad.
He taught us right from infant up,
And in his gentle way
He'd really drive the lesson home
By living it each day.
He gave us gifts in life
That money cannot buy,
The gifts of honesty and truth
We treasure very high.
He taught us to be thankful
For whatever things we had.
But most of all we are thankful
That we had this precious Dad.

So Dearly Loved and So Sadly Missed
By His Wife,
His Children
and His Grandchildren

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How did you vote last week on the Automotive Research and Development Bill?

I voted for passage of the bill which would authorize a program to develop advanced automobile propulsion systems to improve fuel economy and reduce pollution. The measure passed 296-86. Incidentally, I sponsored legislation last year authorizing the Energy Research and Development Administration to develop and demonstrate the commercial feasibility of electric vehicles.

What is your position on the proposed curtailment of postal services in Hagerstown and Frederick?

A decision to eliminate weekend and holiday mail processing in Hagerstown and Frederick is ill-advised and would seem to run contrary to recent increases in postal rates and the current request by the Postal Service for general revenue funding. In short, I am concerned with the possible decrease in the quality of service provided to local patrons and believe this decision should be reviewed.

Is Congress considering another increase in the public debt limit?

The House Ways and Means Committee has reported a bill which would increase the temporary debt limit by $73-billion to $700-billion through September 30, 1977. I will oppose this legislation.

How much foreign military aid has been approved for Israel and Egypt next year?

Under legislation passed by the House last week Israel will receive $785-million in security aid in fiscal year 1977 and Egypt will receive $750-million. Israel also qualified for $1-billion in military sales credits.

Does the government publish any booklets on buying used cars?

The Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado, publishes a booklet entitled "Common Sense in Buying a Safe Used Car." Checkpoints for inspection, the new odometer law and used car warranties are some of the topics discussed.

I understand that Congress is looking into legislation which would require foreign banks in this country to be regulated the same as our domestic banks. Please explain.

Foreign banks are currently regulated by individual states and are permitted to engage in activities denied to domestic banks. A congressional committee recently acted on legislation which contained provisions designed to protect individuals' deposits in foreign banks, prevent multistate activities and end nonbanking activities, including the sale of securities.

SUMMER SOLSTICE

Monday at 1:24 a.m. the sun will be directly overhead on the Tropic of Cancer. This is the beginning of summer. After this time the sun will be directly over head at a more southerly latitude each day. There will be less daylight each day until the winter solstice in December. Monday will have the most daylight this year.

Last Quarter Moon occurs at 8:15 a.m. Saturday. Moonrise will be at 00:27 tomorrow morning. By Wednesday moonrise will have receded to 2:59 a.m.

Monday the moon will be 404,590 kilometers (251,450 miles) from earth. This apogee is the greatest separation between earth and moon during June.

Visible in the night sky are: Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn. Mars is among the stars of Cancer setting three hours after the sun sets. Saturn sets with the stars of Cancer about two hours after sunset. Jupiter is visible not far west of the Pleiades, among the stars of Aries. It rises two hours before the sun. At the end of the week Jupiter and the crescent moon make an interesting observation as the moon passes Jupiter.

Daylight on Wednesday is one minute longer than today. Sunrise was at 5:50 this morning. Sunset will be at 8:47 p.m. Wednesday the sun rises one minute later and sets two minutes later than it does today. Daylight lasts fourteen hours fifty-eight minutes on Wednesday.

New Service Is Being Planned

The Union Ambulance Service is expected to be in operation in a couple of months which will provide service for the residents of Aurora, Eglon and Horse Shoe Run areas.

A membership campaign is presently underway. Membership is $15 each, according to Mrs. Charles Myers, Aurora, who is one of the solicitors.

A public meeting is set for Tuesday evening, June 22, at 7:30 in the basement of the Aurora Community building.

Is Republican Candidate For Congress Seat

Arthur T. Bond, 44, Frostburg, businessman and Allegany County commissioner, is the Republican candidate for Congress from Maryland's Sixth District, to be named in November.

Elected to Frostburg's city council Mr. Bond served two terms as finance commissioner, was elected twice as Frostburg's mayor, and drew the highest vote in 1974 as one of three new commissioners for Allegany County.

"Of primary importance to all citizens in this district is the current economic picture as it relates to jobs and the district's present high rate of unemployment," Mr. Bond reports as one of his concerns.

Mr. Bond's platform includes "target budgeting" which would seek to solve two pressing problems: accountability in government and fiscal management.

Mr. Bond graduated from Beall High School in Frostburg, and served four years in the U. S. Air Force. He is a member of the Elks, Moose, American Legion, Eagles, and Lions Clubs, as well as associate member of the Fraternal Order of Police and a member of the Beall High School Alumni Association. He was Western Maryland's representative and vice-president of the Maryland Municipal League for four years and served on the Maryland Land Use Commission.

As county comissioner, he serves on the Legislative Committee of the Maryland Association of Counties, is a member of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, is a member of the Frostburg Community Hospital Board, is treasurer of the Human Resources Development Commission, is a member of the Allegany County Historical Society, and is a member of the Western Maryland Consortium on Local Manpower Advisory Council of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

Mr. Bond is president of the Regional Council on Alcoholism and the Rehabilitation Advisory Council for the State of Maryland.

Since 1960 he has owned and operated a home-improvement business in Frostburg.

Indian, Indian

Something there is in each of us that honors a proud free life. Being subjected to American movies and stories, I early fell in love with cowboys and Indians, considering the living patterns of the Red Man as the epitome of adaptation to nature and her ways, certainly not as an uncivilized one.

Than the term "noble savage" there could be no greater misnomer. Surprisingly enough, these people never developed the idea of the wheel (in North America), which so strengthened transportation and hence communication in other cultures. But the use of local materials, such as bark, grass, skin or wood for houses, and the versatile use of every part of an animal such as the buffalo, plus the personal physical prowess, even the acute senses of taste and smell, developed among males from babyhood, represent actions of a civilization far beyond a stage of savagery.

Indian art and music were intricately bound into the occupation and religion of a group. No accident was it that the counting system of tabulating moons showed how days were divided into light and darkness, or that a painting on a buffalo hide showed a strategy for surrounding or planning the capture of the animals. It takes keen minds to make and record such detailed observations. I shall never be able to know how moccasins could stalk a woodland trail without leaving traces.

The Southwestern farmer group was completely aware of the rainfall deficit in New Mexico and Arizona; they danced to implore rain from the gods, but they also used a plan of flooding for slight irrigation which remains a model for their conquerors. And by visiting Taos or a smaller pueblo today, you instantly spot the reds and yellows of the Indian Maize, with the ovens used for centuries to bake similar loaves of bread. Interior fireplaces are structurally beautiful (built into the corner of a room) and rooms are tastefully simple (smooth adobe) as if coming from the design of a recent graduate.

To most people, the only Indians are Plains Indians. Yet the Eastern Woodland groups, such as the Six Nations, are just as interesting in their living patterns. They were the real confederate Iroquois tribes, and they had given Virginians the rights to settle east of "the high ridge of mountains." The Shawnees, who had been subjugated and pursued by the Iroquois, held their mark at the base of Big Savage Mountain, and here attempted to repress settlers flowing into the New West beyond our Appalachians in Maryland. The Shawnees had formerly inhabited the Cumberland River Valley in Kentucky, so they highly resented the presence of white men there, as they filled in lands for settlement in a pattern unmatched before in a national history.

Troubles were worst about 1760, and in 1767, an Indian edict actually forbade Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon to complete their survey of Maryland's northern boundary. The western end was surveyed later.

Before our various states ratified the Articles of Confederation or even thought about a constitution, the Indian problem was upon us, for we had created it. Border wars were everywhere, as white men questioned why the Indians wanted to keep all of the land, when it stretched along unlimited, and the Indians failed to see how land could be measured for individual ownership, when they had always shared it as a common possession.

Yet Dale Van Every writes that states were hardly able to confront their Indian problems, and some unity of the new country stemmed from the puzzle of how to quell these people. "That this was also the most threatening difficulty confronting the new nation was undoubtedly a blessing in disguise inasmuch as imperative necessity to make some effort to cope with it kept the breath of life in a national government which had otherwise seemed at the point of expiring."

A new concept of the Indian hunting life has been introduced by the education writer, George B. Leonard. His belief is that when men were in the hunting stage, they continued to learn, even as we wish people would do today—beyond adolescence. "Roving freely, interacting directly with his environment, the hunter went on learning, changing, all life long. He grew wise with age. The consequences of his acts were reasonably clear. There was little conflict between private impulse and the general good."

So when the turquoise display is seen in the jewelry window, when the reservation sign is posted by the highway, or if a bowl is done simply in black or orange clay, it calls me to show my reverence for Indian, Indian.

In The Market Basket:

Convenience food costs more? Not necessarily—if you squeeze your own orange juice it may cost you 12 cents for a 4 oz. glass—if you fix it from a frozen concentrate it costs slightly more than 4 cents—and canned orange juice might run 6½ cents a glass. Lemon Juice—is also cheapest in the ready-squeezed form, according to a recent survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service.

One-third of the convenience foods costs less than similar dishes made "from scratch" according to a recent survey of 160 foods. Canned or frozen peas offer a big savings—fresh peas would cost about 27 cents a dish; canned or frozen would cost about 11 cents a serving. Frozen limas are the cheapest at about 11 cents a serving, with canned about 14 cents—and fresh almost 29 cents. A best buy? Try the economics of frozen spinach at 11 cents a serving, canned at 13 cents and fresh at nearly 25 cents.

Are pies cheaper by the dozen? Only if you make them at home—reveals the survey. A homemade apple pie slice costs about 12½ cents; one from a piecrust mix and canned apple pie filling, nearly 18 cents; frozen 20 cents and ready baked 24 cents. You like cherry or coconut cream? Cheaper if you make them at home too.—believe it or not.

Main-dish convenience dinners means you do pay for the convenience—a frozen beef dinner that costs 79 cents (in 1974-75) would have cost 51 cents if made at home. Or—the frozen turkey dinner would have cost about 29½ cents to make.

But—some of the skillet main-dish mixes can offer a good price break. The ERS survey found that lasagna mix was over 9 cents a serving less than the homemade version, and tuna noodle casserole mix, 3 cents cheaper. Canned spaghetti or a package mix came out cheaper than homemade by over 6 cents—probably due to the less expensive cheeses used. The seafood area offers some convenient food bargains—crabcakes average 8 cents cheaper than freshly prepared ones—frozen or canned shrimp was about 11 cents less than fresh. Shrimp newburg costs 69 cents a portion if you made your own, but $1.13 if you bought it frozen.

Knowing what you're willing to pay for—convenience, time and energy—will help you decide what to buy. No comparisons for nutritive value or culinary skills, equipment and time involved in food preparation has been considered in this survey. But—it's interesting to know that working from "scratch" is not always the cheapest way to plan. You still need to compare and watch what you're buying.

Spring weather seemed to make German people accident prone.

Drug, Assault Cases Are Heard

Drug and several assault and battery cases were heard in District Court by Judge Lewis R. Jones during the week ending June 15.

John Spicer Griffin, Westernport, pleaded guilty of possession of marijuana in the Savage River State Park in March. A stay of order was granted on the first offense and Griffin was placed on probation for one year under the usual conditions and paid court costs.

Kenneth Friend, and Lill Myers, both of Friendsville, had been charged with assault and battery on Audrey M. G. Artice on Elder Hill, Friendsville, April 15. Both charges were dismissed as the witness did not appear.

Terri L. Richter, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Elsie Lou Martin in Oakland May 22. At Monday's trial, Richter was placed on probation for six months before judgment.

Joan M. Leighty, RD 2, Oakland, and Carl E. McCrobie, Friendsville, were both charged with passing worthless checks. Both cases were dismissed, having had no previous record and restitution having been made.

Ronald Michael Welch, Mt. Lake Park, has been charged with larceny of fire arms and ammunition valued at $108, on May 15. He was released on $100 cash bond June 1.

Lawrence Edward Wilhelm, 3rd street, Oakland, has been charged with larceny of an automobile of Charity Elizabeth Janssen, RD , Swanton on May 26 at Oakland. It was placed at $1975 book value. Wilhelm was still incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail Tuesday under $1000 bond.

Robert K. Weeks, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty of operating a motor vehicle while license was suspended or revoked and his plea was upheld.

Students Continue Relating Writings To Bicentennial

The tenth in a series of stories from English and Creative Writing classes at Southern High school appears this week. This time the article concerns France as an ally in the Revolution and was written by Nancy Hesen, 8-1.

France—An Ally

When the Thirteen Colonies won the American Revolution, many Americans praised George Washington and other American leaders for their great victories, but I think we should also thank the great leaders who came from France to give us military aid.

On February 6, 1778, during the American Revolution, King Louis XVI signed two treaties with Benjamin Franklin and other American diplomats. In these pacts, France recognized the United States as an independent nation and agreed to a military alliance. Incidentally, France had been a bitter enemy of England in the French and Indian War. The Continental Congress ratified the Treaty on May 4, 1778. Large scale French aid, including an army and a powerful fleet, soon arrived in the United States.

Some Frenchmen, such as Marquis de Lafayette and Comte de Rochambeau joined the American cause as early as 1777. Lafayette welcomed the Revolutionary War as an opportunity to win military glory by fighting against England for France. He bought a ship and landed in America in 1777. The 20 year old Marquis impressed the Continental Congress. He was made a major general without pay and joined George Washington's staff.

Lafayette was wounded at the Battle of Brandywine. He served at Valley Forge during the terrible winter of 1777-1778. Early in 1778, at Albany, New York, he was given command of a proposed invasion of Canada. The plan was not used because of the mismanagement of others. He led troops in the Battles of Barren Hill and Monmouth and in the campaign of Rhode Island. Comte de Rochambeau was another great French general who came to America in 1780 with French troops to serve under General George Washington in the Revolutionary War. In 1781 he helped plan the Battle of Yorktown, and the defeat of the English general, Cornwallis.

In view of these supporting facts it is evident that the Colonies could possibly have lost the war had France not supported them. Ironically, history has proved that these countries whose paths crossed so valiantly 200 years ago helped support and defend each other in three major conflicts in this century—World War I, World War II and Viet Nam.

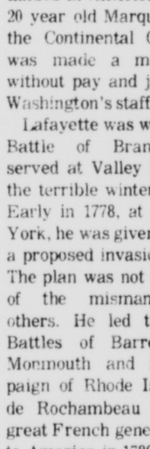
THE WIND IS FREE



. . . and so is underground water. The initial cost may be more, but "the ecological machine of the century" doesn't require running electric lines; and, best of all, there's no electric bill to pay.

AERMOTOR windmills require nominal attention . . . usually just change the oil once a year and, then, just let them pump your water requirements.

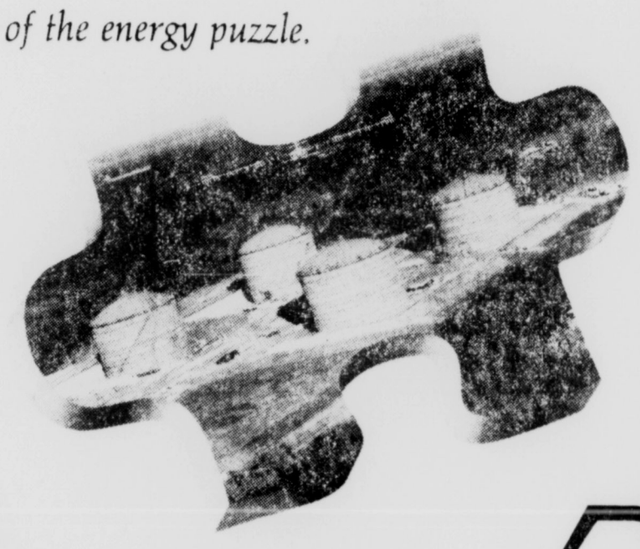
A piece of the energy puzzle.



Cove Point. It's to the point.

You hear us talk a lot about the natural gas shortage. But we're doing much more than just talking about it.

Case in point: Cove Point, Maryland. Columbia Gas is building a deep-water terminal there to bring in liquefied natural gas — LNG — from overseas. It's a 300 million dollar project.

And that's just part of the cost of getting vitally needed gas from abroad. The liquefying plant in Algeria will cost over half a billion dollars! Special tankers to carry the liquid gas cost 100 million dollars each. And there will be nine of them.

But we need all the gas we can get — to warm our homes, cook our meals, and fuel our industry. LNG won't be cheap, but it's less expensive than alternate sources of energy.

By the end of 1977, natural gas from overseas will be added to Columbia's supply at a rate of 300 million cubic feet a day. That's what our customers need.

Not just talk.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, (P.L. 93-234) it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in eleven (11) selected Western Maryland communities.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by the Rockville, Maryland engineering firm of Toups and Loiederman.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have the opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data (previous studies, highwater marks, photographs of floods, etc.) concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration. The Study Contractor (Toups and Loiederman) will pay photographic or reproduction costs to copy any usable information that is available.

Sensational Housing Value For the Handyman
We recently purchased a huge 72x24, 1973 Doublewide mobile home. Due to a weak frame & some high winds, this home sustained some damage to windows, studding, ceiling, etc., during transit.
As we are presently too busy to make repairs, we have decided to sell this home, AS IT, cheap to someone with the time & talent to make these repairs. This home contains 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room, dining room, huge living room, & a large kitchen with wall oven & dishwasher. With a floor area of 1632 sq. ft., our low price figures out to approximately $5.20 per sq. ft. Price, not including delivery & tax .....$8495.
Sorry but buyer must arrange own financing, as we do not have a plan for units of this type sold as is.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 100 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1976 | PER COPY 15c | NUMBER 17

Strength of Our Laws . .

Like many good things in life, we tend to take the law for granted — until we no longer have it. When our legal system breaks down — for even a short time — anarchy results.

In our nation, we are fortunate to have witnessed relatively infrequent, isolated examples of chaos. Others living under less stable governments are less lucky. Today, in many parts of the world, the "law" is made by the leaders who have the power, the arms, and the money at any given moment.

Ours, by comparison, is a government of laws, not men. Our Republic has been tested often and has proved strong enough to withstand wars, depressions and official misconduct.

There can be no guarantee that the United States will last forever, even though we now have the longest lasting government with a written constitution. The one way to help assure that this year's Bicentennial will be the forerunner of many similar celebrations to come, is to educate our children in the meaning and spirit of American justice.

COMMANDER ROBERT RENTSCHLER, left, accepts the charter for Mt. Top Chapter No. 29, D.A.V. during ceremonies conducted by Maryland D.A.V. Commander Paul Thompson. Officers for the new chapter were also installed by Commander Thompson Monday, June 21, at the Community Room of the First National Bank in Oakland. Wives of the D.A.V. are now in the process of forming an auxiliary.

Learey Is Named Chairman Business Division At College

Fred K. Learey has been appointed Assistant Professor and Chairman of the Business Division of Garrett Community College, it was announced by Dr. Alfred O'Connell, College president. A native Ohioan, Learey has lived in Garrett County since 1972. He earned a B. S. degree in Business Administration at Ohio State University, and an M.S.M. degree from Frostburg State College. For the past three years Learey has served as Assistant Professor in the Center for Management Development at Frostburg State College. Prior to his appointment at Frostburg, Leary was a vice-president at two banks in Florida. He has also had experience in the real estate field and as a systems analyst for North American Rockwell in Los Angeles. For the past four years Mr. Learey has owned and operated Camp Minnetoska, located near Hutton.

Learey's appointment marks the first time that Garrett Community College has employed a full-time Chairman of the Business Division. As Chairman, he will be responsible for the ongoing development of all business-related programs at the College, including Business Administration, Business Education, Business Occupations and Secretarial Science. College president, Dr. Alfred C. O'Connell indicated that a local Business Advisory Committee will be established to assist the College in structuring programs which will be responsive to local business needs. The College also plans to introduce co-operative programs involving field placement of students in business and secretarial science programs.

Aging Commission Elects Leaders

At a regular meeting of the county commission on aging Robert Ford was re-elected chairman for a one-year term. Mrs. Mildred Peterson was named vice-chairman, and Charles Briner, secretary-treasurer. Dale Ellis, of Community Action, will continue as director of the program for the elderly.

Attending the meeting also was Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president of Garrett Community college, who is working to establish a senior citizen center in the Center Street school, soon to be vacated. Details will be announced.

Funds Okayed For Tennis Courts, Ball Fields At GCC

The State Board of Public works recently approved a $38,768 grant under Program Open Space to construct four tennis courts, an all-purpose activity-athletic field and softball diamond on the Garrett Community College campus.

The facilities will be open to public use as well as the students, since Project Open Space is providing about 60 percent of the total cost of the facilities, with the remainder to be provided through the GCC budget. The budget has included the necessary funds for the past two years, while the P.O.S. project was gaining P.O.S. approval.

The courts and fields will be located on the eastern sector of the campus, north of the present ball diamond, and will be readily accessible from both Bumble Bee and Mosser Roads.

Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president and spokesman for the college, said hopefully construction will begin this summer, with the tennis courts ready for use by next fall. The fields must, of course, be seeded and carefully prepared and will not be available for approximately one year. Dr. O'Connell stressed the fact that it is important both to the college and the community to have such facilities readily available. The tennis courts will be supervised daily.

Granite Memorial To Be Unveiled At Bloomington

A granite memorial will be unveiled in memory of the people "who worked and fought for our country," at a memorial dedication service on Sunday, June 27, at 2:30 p.m., on North Branch avenue near the fire hall in Bloomington, arranged by the Bloomington Bicentennial committee.

Donald McDowell, committee member, will serve as master of ceremonies and Harris LeFew, public relations director of Westvaco corporation, will be the speaker. Legionnaires, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will participate. Several public officials have been invited as guests.

Mrs. Bernard Guy, chairman, said there would be solos, chorus singing and instrumental music to add to the festivities. All persons attending will receive a bicentennial souvenir program. The public is invited.

Open Horse Show Is Postponed To Sunday, June 27

The more than two inches of rain which inundated the county over the past weekend forced the postponement of the 16th annual open horse show sponsored by the Garrett County Horsemen's Association.

The event has now been rescheduled for this coming Sunday, June 27, beginning at noon at the Western Trails campgrounds north of Oakland.

There are 27 classes scheduled again this year, with the first nine classes for children and youth. Over $700 in prize money in 22 classes will be awarded.

English, western and game classes will be held, with a high point trophy to be awarded to the rider with the most points in each division.

Association officers include John C. Beachy, president and horse show chairman; Raymond Yoder, Grantsville, co-chairman; Mrs. Virginia Yoder, treasurer, and Mrs. Lena Durst, also Grantsville, is secretary.

Committee OKs Funds For Dam

The Senate Appropriations committee in Washington gave approval last Thursday to a $2.3 million construction budget increase for the Bloomington Dam project.

The amendment to the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers budget for the huge dam project was offered by U. S. Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr.

Sen. Mathias said the increased funds—which still need approval from the Senate and House—will assure that the dam is completed on its original construction timetable. The dam is scheduled to be ready for operation by November, 1980.

Sen. Mathias, a member of the Appropriations committee, offered letters from Maryland officials expressing concern over the possible slowdown in construction of the reservoir and explaining what this would mean.

A letter from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources declared that the state would lose $9.1 million in benefits if the project were to be delayed one year. The total cost of the project, meanwhile, would rise by $7.5 million, the DNR said.

Sen. Mathias said it would be false economy to attempt to hold down the cost by delaying the project, only to have the total cost for the estimated $149 million project increase greatly in later years.

The huge impoundment is intended to augment the water supply for the metropolitan area and to provide flood control, improved stream flow characteristics and limited recreation along the length of the river.

Work on the project is now about 38 percent completed. More than 7½ miles of railroad has been relocated and a tunnel nearly half a mile long is now being dug through solid rock to provide release of water.

Grouting of the left abutment is nearly complete and work on the right abutment is just starting. The dam itself has not been started but the contract is to be let this fall.

Still to be built is a 300-foot high intake tower consisting of five levels. The lower level will take water out of the reservoir to mix with and dilute water heavily contaminated by acid drainage from coal mines. Gates now are being built for the tower and the tower itself will be included in the next contract.

Mailbox Destruction, Tent Theft Reported

Members of the sheriff's department are conducting investigations this week into varying types of incidents, including the total destruction of a mailbox by use of some type of explosive.

Sometime on the night of June 18, the mailbox of George Wayne Harvey, 607 I street, Mt. Lake Park, was blown apart by an unidentified type of ex-

Swanton Man, 31, Is Drowned

Robert Lee Dixon, 31, route 1, Swanton, was drowned about 1:15 a.m., Sunday near Penn Point on Deep Creek Lake, when the boat from which he and two companions were fishing capsized.

Cpl. Harry Miller, of the Maryland Natural Resources police, who investigated, said that William Ray Tasker, 26, Oakland; and Mr. Dixon's stepson, Robert Clifton Evans, about 15, clung to the side of the overturned boat until rescuers from another boat arrived in about 10 or 15 minutes.

The rescue was accomplished by C. Robert Shilke, Washington, D. C., and Bruce B. Drury, Hyattsville, who were passing by in a motorboat.

Cpl. Miller said his investigation revealed that Mr. Dixon stood up in the boat, causing it to capsize.

The Somerset, Pa., rescue team with about 10 scuba divers, arrived at the scene about 7 a.m. The divers recovered Mr. Dixon's body about 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Joining in the investigation of the drowning were sheriff's deputies William Bernard and Truman Paugh.

Divers from the Somerset, Pa. volunteer fire department who assisted were Jim Stay, Don Shaffer, Don Rodgers, Carl Keiser, Rob Shoemaker, Mark Shaffer, R. Richard Ross, David M. Eisler and George W. Reitz. Somerset firemen here to help were Park C. Stay, chief; John D. Barnhart, Douglas Bell, Arthur L. Brown, Gary G. Thomas, Bryan Ohler, Rick Keiser, and Joel Shaffer.

Mr. Dixon was born in 1944, a son of Mrs. Bernice Stewart Dixon Sharpless and the late Oliver Dixon. He was employed as a coal foreman for the Mastellar Coal company.

He is survived by his wife, Grace Sugars Dixon; two sons, Robert Wayne Dixon, New Creek, W. Va.; Oliver Thomas Dixon, at home; another stepson, Manuel Evans, and a stepdaughter, Ruth Ann Evans, both at home; four sisters, Mrs. Sylvia Paugh, Mrs. Joann Sharpless, Mrs. Sharon Tasker, all of Swanton; and Mrs. Alta Tichnell, Kitzmiller.

The body was taken to the Boal funeral home

Two Injured In Boat Accident

Two persons were slightly injured early Saturday morning when the boat, in which they were passengers, ran over a dock near McHenry and flipped over in the water.

Gary Shafer, Morgantown, was operating an AMF Crestliner containing passengers Thomas Horner, James Malady, and Diane Merle. Shafer left the dock at Point View Inn about 1:15 a.m. and headed west. While making a 180 degree turn, he struck a dock on the opposite shore, skidded over top of the dock, striking a boat parked there, and then flipped over in the water before coming to rest about 30 feet from the dock.

Officer John Williams, of the Natural Resource Police, investigated but made no charges in his report. Estimated damages were nearly $800 to the boat, $100 to the boat at the dock, and $200 to the dock.

Work Begins On New Mid-Towns Plaza, 1st National Bank

Work is underway on a new branch office of the First National Bank of Oakland, it was announced today. In making the announcement, Courtney R. Tusing, president, said the new facility will be known as the Mid-Towns Plaza office and will be located in the new Mid-Town Plaza shopping center which is currently under Development between Oakland and Mt. Lake Park, just off Rt. 135. The new office is scheduled to be completed sometime this fall."

The general contract was recently awarded to the W.A. Shirer Construction Company of Oakland and work began on the site about a week ago.

The new building, which was designed by the Allan Depastino Designers of Pittsburgh, will be of brick-colonial architecture. It will feature two lanes of Tel-Air Drive-In window service initially, with the option of a third lane when needed, three teller windows inside, a loan office for personal financing, a vault, night depository, safe deposit boxes, a coupon booth and ample paved parking. Most of the equipment is being furnished by the Lefebure Corp. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The facility will be situated along Weber Road, just off Rt. 135, at the entrances to the Mid-Towns Plaza. The drive-in windows will be accessible from the highway and from the shopping center.

Mr. Tusing expressed his pleasure at the recommendations of fabrics and materials the designer has chosen to carry the Colonial theme throughout.

Goldsborough Seeks Opinion On Appointment

William M. Goldsborough, Jr., Oakland, the lone dissenter of the Maryland State Board of Education to selecting Pennsylvania's executive deputy secretary of Education as Maryland's new superintendent of schools, has asked the Attorney General's office for an opinion on the legality of the appointment.

Monday, June 14, the state board named David W. Hornbeck to succeed Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh as the state school head on July 1.

Mr. Goldsborough was the lone dissenter, declaring it was "difficult for me that the top public educator in the state will not have held a classroom teaching position, a principalship nor supervisor's position, nor a district or county superintendent of school's position."

Mr. Goldsborough requested Malcolm Kitt, special assistant attorney general assigned to the State Department of Education, for an investigation into the professional background and official records of Hornbeck.

The information is necessary to determine Mr. Hornbeck's qualification for confirmation as state superintendent, Mr. Goldsborough stated.

He referred to section 23, article 27 of the Public School Laws of Maryland, 1975 edition. The section to which he refers follows:

Northern High Newspaper Gets 1st Place Award

Of over five hundred student publications printed by the A. G. Halldin Publishing company, The Viking, student newspaper of Northern High school, has been selected as the recipient of first place award in the company's competition.

For their excellence the Viking staff received a $500 check as their prize.

The citation read in part:

"Your newspaper functions consistently well in serving and informing the students of your school. The front page consistently contains stories that are timely and topical, and always news oriented. The front page contains a good mixture of hard news. The remainder of the newspaper contains an excellent assortment of soft news—human interest stories and features of broad general interest. Good use of pictures is exhibited throughout, with proper attention to lay-out on all pages."

"Letters to the ditor and editorials express valid viewpoints relative to real issues of broad, general concern, not just petty grievances. A variety of sports activities is well covered, and photograph are used to good advantage. Advertising is handled well, and the number of ads indicates your "eager beavers" work at getting financial support for your newspaper. Well written headlines contribute to the excellent over-all organization of your publication. It is clearly a newspaper written by students for students."

The Viking has also been awarded highest honors in the Columbia Scholastic Press and Maryland Scholastic Press competitions.

Co-editors of this year's staff were David Schwing and Jeanne Carstens. Both were Danforth award winners at commencement exercises at Northern High School on June 6. Mrs. Lucile Sines is adviser.

Area Gets Much Rain This Week

Heavy local thunder showers dumped about an inch of rain on the area late yesterday afternoon. Over 3.5 inches of rain fell during the week including the heavy weekend rains. Temperatures were close to normal.

There was at least a trace of rain every day this past week. The heaviest was yesterday afternoon, followed closely by Sunday's drenching, .89 inch. Skies were mostly clear last Friday until the storm broke about 4:30 in the afternoon. There has been very little sunshine since, until this morning's partly cloudy skies. Rainfall so far this month is about an inch and a half above normal or about 6.25 inches.

Temperatures were just 1.1 degree above normal due to higher morning lows. Highs averaged 77 degrees or .7 degree below normal. The highest reading was last Friday's 82 degrees. Saturday also saw an 80-degree reading. Lows averaged 55.1 degrees or 3.1 above normal. The low was also last Friday with a 50-degree reading.

Summer arrived at 2:24 a.m. Monday with showery skies and mild temperatures.

County Holds Tax Levy At $2.73 For 6th Year

For the sixth year in a row, Garrett County commissioners kept the $2.73 tax rate on each $100 of assessed valuation, it was announced this week.

The commissioners had spent the past several weeks concentrating on various proposed budgets of the various county agencies.

The budget is a $7.1 million budget which will allow the county $2.68 rate plus 5 cents on each $100 for fire departments.

The new budget includes $6,339,517 of county money and another $844,774 from federal revenue sharing, for a total of $7,184,291. This is $103,865 or just 1.4 percent over last year's budget.

The levy was based on an assessable basis of $160 million, which would bring in a total from county funds of $288,000, less amounts for discounts and silo credits, bringing the local amount down to $4,104,000.

Commissioners George C. Edwards, chairman; Wayne B. Hamilton and Don S. Bender said it had taken concerted effort on the part of the county to keep the budget the same as last year. Aiding the commissioners in keeping the levy at $2.73 were several new sources of revenue including a county property sale calculated to generate a one-time amount of $150,000 or more.

The county is set to sell various parcels of property and mineral rights, principally involving coal, at a public auction.

Another benefit to the budget will be $75,000 from a new budget category, "loans due." This represents the first payment from the Garrett County Sanitary commission which owes the county over $400,000 for funding for water and sewer projects in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn areas.

It was also anticipated that a $10,000 loan to the Development corporation for a water line at the Accident industrial site would be returned to the county.

The only other large increase in revenue is from the piggy-back tax which would be over $200,000 more than last year.

The county commissioners had issued orders last July to all agencies to wind up the fiscal year with a balance of five percent or better in their budgets and to keep fiscal 1977 spending to a minimum.

Of the 45 funding areas within the county 19 will receive the same or less than last year's amounts. Eight other agencies are receiving increases such as the Roads department. That department gets $14,000 more than last year, making the total roads budget $2,422,609.

The Board of Education receives the largest portion of the new budget. The board had $217,000 cut from the budget request of $3,028,854. The commissioners approved $2,809,202.

Dr. William H. Buser, county superintendent of schools, said

Secretary Butz Rules Against Sterling Co.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz last Thursday ruled against Sterling Processing corporation of Oakland, in its effort not to have six poultry inspectors reassigned to the plant, and as a result the corporation on Friday, June 18, entered suit against Butz in Federal court in Baltimore seeking a temporary restraining order and subsequently a permanent restraining order.

Corporation officials Preston Workman, Ralph Workman, Gilman Sylvester and attorney Stephen R. Pagenhardt met in Washington on June 14 with Secretary Butz and members of his staff at the request of U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. Also in attendance were Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Md. and Senator Roth of Delaware, plus representatives from Senator Jennings Randolph's office, of West Virginia; Senator Bidens office of Delaware; and Congressman Goodloe Byron, along with representatives from offices of four other congressmen. Mr. Sylvester said there also was strong representation from the poultry industry.

Mr. Sylvester said that Federal Judge Watkins ruled against the Sterling Processing corporation on the temporary restraining order but he said the company would continue to battle through the courts "in the firm belief that justice still exists in America."

Meanwhile the six inspectors, after a ten month absence from

Town Continues To Haul Water

Firemen of the Grantsville area began hauling water into the community again last night as the supply in the reserve tank continued to dwindle.

All leaks have been repaired and no new ones developed as of noon Wednesday. The only water available to the community, however, is that being hauled in by firemen.

the Sterling corporation, have returned to the positions from which they were "absent without leave." However USDA set up a special 17-point program especially designed to protect Sterling Processing Corporation from any retaliatory action, it was pointed out. Sylvester said one example of the program was the presence of five USDA doctors of veterinary medicine at the plant on Tuesday.

The plant had been closed on Monday in protest of the action taken by Secretary Butz.

The hassle is over the reassignment of six poultry inspectors who walked off the job one day last August against orders of the inspector in charge and who had been reassigned by the department, even though early in April a circuit court jury decided unanimously in favor of the corporation in a suit against the six USDA lay inspectors. Sterling had sued the six for walking off their jobs against the order of the inspector in charge.

that based on the budget allocation he would not recommend to the board of Education that teachers receive their negotiated salary increases unless all other school employes receive their increases. The board meets today.

The board had requested $6,574,000 from state and local sources.

One increase in the budget is for the staff for county commissioners, that category increasing by $20,000. Also increasing from $6,000 to $12,000 is the appropriation for the commissioners' legal counsel.

It was explained the legal fees increase stems from the fact that the county decided to eliminate retainer fees paid by the planning commission, zoning appeals board and the development commission. Instead, those charges will be lumped in with the legal fees budget so that legal fees budget could be eliminated.

The $20,000 increase for the commissioner office staff was due in large part, it was pointed out, to a switch in payment of salaries from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act to the local levy.

The county was uncertain about provisions for employes in the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. The union was scheduled to meet June 28.

The complete levy will be published in next week's issue. Some of the figures in that detailed levy will include the following:

State's attorney, salaries and expenses, $30,000; registration and election, $39,000; county treasurer for salaries, expenses and audit, $36,516; legal services, $14,200; planning and zoning, $23,815; general services, $61,450; community promotion, $22,650; development corporation, $29,053; sheriff department $83,246; animal control, $22,126; civil defense, $4,479; solid waste bureau, $102,673 with $46,786 coming from other than county; health and welfare $184,292; Garrett hospital, $72,000; food stamps, $26,344; Community College, $320,000; culture and recreation, $38,000; contingent, $200,000.

From other revenues come taxes on admissions, alcoholic beverage, beer, cigaret, Maryland income tax, Maryland property tax, etc., $1,445,600; licenses, $40,000; D beer, $9,000; state shared costs, $107,923.

plosive. Deputy William Barnard is investigating.

Deputy Truman Paugh is assigned to this case.

Sometime between June 19 and 20, a large tent was stolen from the yard of Charles Henry Hardesty, Route 135 at Altamont. Missing was a 9 by 12 foot canvas and nylon tent, valued at $115. Deputy Van Evans is investigating.

Injunction Sought Against Fitzwater By Harvey Epstein

Harvey A. Epstein, state commissioner of labor and industry for the department of licensing and regulations in Baltimore, has filed an equity suit in Garrett County Circuit Court in Oakland seeking an injunction to restrain the Fitzwater Furniture Company of Mt. Lake Park from interfering with employes of his department.

Edward Fitzwater, store owner, apparently had prevented Herbert Hickman, deputy boiler inspector for the state, from entering the Fitzwater Furniture Store on Route 135 on April 29 to inspect the boiler which blew up the previous day. Mr. Hickman has filed a criminal charge against Mr. Fitzwater, charging that he was denied access to the furniture store.

Associate Judge James S. Getty has signed a show cause order giving Mr. Fitzwater until July 21 to show cause why the injunction should not be granted. Mr. Fitzwater, in turn, has filed a motion to dismiss the order, signed June 21.

Transit Aid For Handicapped To Be Explained

Norman Hall, director of transportation development, Mass Transit Administration (MTA), will tell county commissioners how non-profit organizations in their areas can qualify for 80 per cent federal funding to buy vehicles that will transport aged and disabled people.

He will also explain new federal standards, including the requirement for a county-wide transportation development plan.

Meetings with the county officials will begin on June 22 and continue through July. The date for the Court House in Oakland is Monday, June 28, at 9:30 a.m.

Secretary Hughes commented, "This department's role is primarily that of catalyst in this endeavor. We want to inform the counties and the non-profit organizations of this program's existence and to explain how it works."

The program already has helped 22 non-profit organizations to buy station wagons, vans or modified vans to transport elderly and handicapped people to doctors' offices, to job centers and on necessary errands.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

The 4th of July is less than 2 weeks away and I am not aware of any plans for a Bicentennial Celebration sponsored by the town of Oakland and surrounding communities (except for Mt. Storm and Bayard).

Do the merchants have any plans for decorating their stores or windows with antiques and memorabilia? Are any craft demonstrations planned? A parade? Pageants, plays, or fireworks demonstrations? A community picnic? Ice cream festivals?

I have carefully read The Republican each week hoping to find a schedule of events for a truly patriotic 4th, but have found nothing.

This is not just another July 4th. This is a year to celebrate our country's 200th birthday, and to be proud of it. It is a once-in-a-lifetime event, and we should not let it pass as just another day.

Have we lost our spirit of patriotism? Can we find it in 10 days or less?

Sincerely,
Donna Lee Shaffer

Editor's Note: A notice of a religious Sunrise Service at McHenry fairgrounds on July 4 appeared in The Republican, page one, June 3.

A story appears this week on activities at Bloomington on that weekend. There have been one or two notices of Fourth of July activities at Terra Alta July 4th. There has been a notice also of activities at McHenry on the Fourth of July weekend by the Oakland firemen, and there has been a notice of activities at Friendsville on that occasion.

A bicentennial drama is being prepared to be given in Oakland in October. That story appeared May 20.

Flags are flying daily preparatory to the Fourth and church bells will ring at 2 o'clock on that day.

The 25th anniversary of the Swanton Strawberry Festival was appropriately celebrated June 12, with more people, more berries and most important, more profit than ever before.

Scout troops of all types from the area have been joining their efforts for a festival over the years to raise funds for projects. The festival started with strawberries and homemade ice cream, progressed to hot dogs, shortcake and homemade ice cream, and thence to today's menu of two types of meat, various vegetables and accompaniments, and strawberry shortcake with real, farm-fresh whipped cream.

For the first 21 years, the event was held on the lawn of Mrs. Betty Wildesen's home in the town. The Community Center has been the hub of the activity since it was instituted four years ago. In the first years, regular dishes and plates were used, necessitating the washing of tons of dishes. Now the group has graduated to paper products, so one clean-up chore can be eliminated.

According to Mrs. Deanie Johnson, leader of Girl Scout Troop 111 and chairman of the festival this year, the project grossed $1,255.22. Expenditures were $475.87, kept low through donations from various individuals and businesses. Total profit this year was nearly double that of last year, $779.26.

The profit is divided among all the scouts: $16.58 per scout this year. Those involved were from Boy Scout troop 57, which netted $99.48 with six members; Brownie troop 85, $182.38; Cub Scout den three, $132.64; Cub Scout den four, $49.74; Webelos, $66.32; Girl Scout Troop 111, $248.70.

Required for the festival are 200 quarts of berries, obtained this year from Stegmaier Farms near Cumberland. Volunteer mothers helped with the mountainous picking capping ordeals, then the berries were frozen until time for the festival.

Four whole hams were consumed this year, along with nine turkeys, 45 quarts of green beans, 35 pounds of potatoes, five gallons of cream, and 70 pounds of cabbage for cole slaw. Mrs. Betty O'Brien made and contributed 475 homemade rolls.

Tables are donated by the state park service, hauled to the site by the Boy Scouts, then returned. This year three tables were left at the Center for community use.

Brownies conducted various games for youngsters on the Community Center grounds, while at another table homemade craft items were offered for sale. There was also a baked goods table.

Members of the SGCRS were in attendance to give free blood pressure readings to those present. Craig is also an Eagle Scout, another reason for his attendance at the Festival, produced yearly by the scout troops in the Swanton area. Mrs. Johnson was Festival chairman this year.

Dental Chart From Oakland Identifies Body

Funeral services were conducted Sunday in Parsons, W. Va., for a young man who apparently drowned Memorial Day at Ocean City.

The body of Gary Stephen Smigal, 23, Morgantown, W. Va., a Parsons native, who would have been a senior at West Virginia university School of Pharmacy this fall, was found washed up under a pier last Sunday at the seaside resort city.

Positive identification was made through the use of a dental chart sent from Oakland to the Ocean City police department.

Dennis' idea dealt with the method by which Photogray Lenses are produced. His idea to improve this method resulted in a significant increase in productivity, Mr. Fischetti said.

Judge Approves Smaller Reservoir For Power Project

Federal Power Commission Administrative Law Judge Jair S. Kaplan in an initial decision recently recommended issuance of a 50-year license to three electric utilities to build a 1,000 megawatt $198 million pumped storage hydroelectric power development in Canaan Valley on the Glade Run, a tributary of Blackwater River, near Davis, W. Va.

The decision, subject to review, makes substantial modifications in the so-called "Davis Project" as proposed by the companies. Under the judge's authorization of the alternate development the lower reservoir would be only one-tenth the size of the Blackwater lake proposed by the companies, the Monongahela Power company, Fairmont; the Potomac Edison company, Hagerstown; and West Penn Power, Greensburg, Pa.

As proposed by the companies the project would have included upper and lower reservoirs with the lower one an area of 7,000 acres created by a rock fill dam 710 feet long and 75 feet high. Upper reservoir would be formed by two rock-fill dikes on two sides of the natural depression on the crest of Cabin Mountain. These embankments would have had a total length of some 7,800 feet and a maximum height of some 90 feet. There would be a total of some 30,000 acre feet of storage and 620 acres of water surface.

As authorized by Judge Kaplan, the project will consist of the same upper reservoir as that proposed by the companies. The lower reservoir, with an approximate storage capacity of 33,000 acre feet and a surface area of about 785 acres, will be formed by a rock-fill dam more than 80 feet high and about one-mile long across Glade Run.

The alternative "Glade Run Reservoir" approved by Judge Kaplan would use not only the same upper reservoir, but also approximately the same transmission lines, intake channel and tunnel, and penstock route proposed by the companies. However, the lower reservoir would have surface area of about 785 acres, compared with 7,000 acres as proposed by the companies.

Judge Kaplan said that on the whole, approval of the Glade Run alternative, with about the same total area proposed to be set aside for the Davis project, will substantially preserve a major portion of Canaan Valley with the substitution of the considerably smaller lower reservoir.

The Davis project will be a "pure pumped storage" hydroelectric project. Water stored in the lower reservoir will be pumped to the upper reservoir during hours when other demands for electricity are low, generally during the nights and week-ends. This water will be stored in the upper reservoir until release during the hours when electric demands are high. The project will be capable of producing 1,000 megawatts for periods of up to 18½ hours, starting with a full upper reservoir.

Approval of the Glade Run alternative offers the most appropriate course and the best practical means of saving the unique natural resources of most of the valley, Judge Kaplan concluded. This will make these resources available and more accessible to the general public, and at the same time provide the companies with an equivalent amount of power, but without any of the unavoidable and substantial adverse environmental effects of the proposed lake.

Parties to the proceeding have 30 days to file exceptions to the decision. The Commission has another 10 days after that to initiate a review on its own motion. In the event no exceptions are filed and no Commission review initiated, the decision shall become final at the end of this 40-day period.

Students Continue Relating Writings To Bicentennial

The eleventh in a series of stories from English and Creative Writing classes at Southern High school appears this week. This time the article concerns the ride of Paul Revere and was written by Diana Frazee, 10th grade.

Restless Night

It was a dreary and fearful April night at Lexington. I, Jonathon, settled down into my snug bed, for the night was dismal, and I had nothing else to do. I was filled with exhaustion, and I was anxious to go to sleep.

As I lay there, my mind wandered off, to think of perpetual occurrences of every day.

I jumped in my sleep, to the sound of loud snorting in the air. I was tremulous. I heard clamorous hoofs upon the rocks, as though a crowd of angry citizens were stoning a man to death. I felt the frigid wind upon my face. It was as if I were standing in a deserted town, and something horrible was about to happen. I listened with attention to screeching voices, as if owls were nestling outside my window to sing a night song. I shuddered as a voice cried "The British are coming." I became more daring as I arose from my bed. Actually I walked in my sleep to the window. I saw a man and a horse charging through at the Old North Church, and I saw a light flash, but it blinded me. I returned to bed. I trembled through the restless night, not knowing why.

It was not a bad nightmare. I had witnessed Paul Revere's famous night ride, and I did not even realize it.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

My letter is in regards to the Highlander Band and their appearance at the "Indy 500" and the parades surrounding the race.

It was a real treat for me to be able to watch the band perform. They all should be congratulated highly. They did a very good job.

I graduated from Southern High (class of '69) but now my residency is in Wabash, Indiana. I was proud to tell our friends here that the band was from "good Ole Southern High."

I just want to say to the entire band and to Mr. Clever, "Keep up the good work."

Sincerely,
Mary (Armstrong) Lower

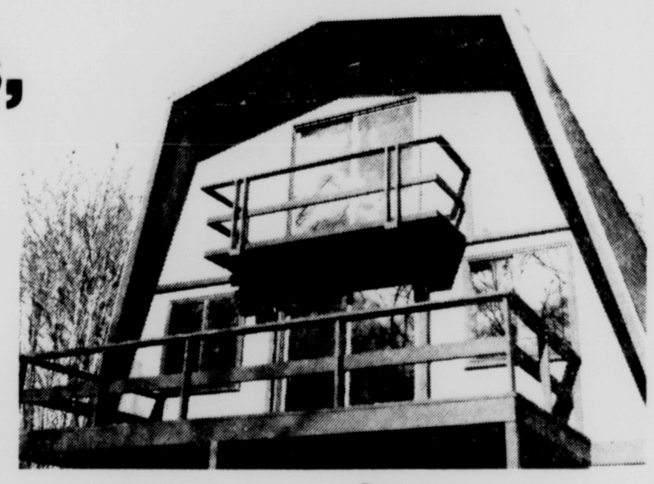
After You See Theirs, Take a Good Look At OURS!



If you're considering the popular Chalet design for your new home, you owe it to yourself to study all models carefully. We think you'll like the SHELTER Chalet better. Although ours may look similar to theirs, there are major structural differences which we think you'll agree make the SHELTER Chalet a better buy.

The prebuilt SHELTER Chalet is fabricated in Oakland, Md., so there are no big freight bills to be paid. The roomy 24' x 24' SHELTER Chalet shell package is priced at only $6,200 (FOB Oakland, excluding sales tax), making it an excellent buy for you.

Consider the important differences.

Our angled SIDEWALLS have a top and bottom plate on each floor to nail paneling to. With Shelter's design, you won't have to start out by putting in a lot of blocking.

The sidewall STUDS are 16" on center, not 24", so you have firmer backing for your paneling.

We use sanded plywood for the GUSSETS on our 2 x 12 joists and glue and nail them with finish nails. This gives them a more finished appearance than sheathing plywood and 16-penny nails.

Our open-riser stair treads are dadoed into the stringers instead of just sitting on blocks. This means that Shelter STAIRS are stronger and have a neater appearance.

The Chalet TRUSSES have 2 x 6 top chords (not 2 x 4) and we put them 2' on center so that you have something to nail your ceiling to every 2'.

Shelter exterior DECKS are prebuilt out of pressure-treated lumber which never has to be stained or painted.

Here's another important consideration. All our workmanship is guaranteed for one year. If we put in a basement, we'll guarantee it against seepage in writing for a full year even if we hit spring water when we dig.

We're flexible. You can buy the package and set it up yourself. We'll provide a construction foreman experienced in SHELTER assembly if you wish. We can erect the shell and let you do the finishing work (we can provide interior materials packages, if desired), or we can do the entire job, including finishing.

After you see theirs, take a good look at ours. We're open from 9-4 Monday through Friday, and weekends by appointment. Choose the SHELTER Chalet or any of our 26 other vacation designs. Little things can add up to a better house. That's why yours should be a SHELTER design.

Strawberry Harvest

Delicious vine ripened Maryland strawberries are going to be harvested in some part of the state for the next several weeks. Now is the time to serve strawberries for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and everytime you want something "mouth watering good" to eat.

Watch the retail stores, roadside stands, and pick-your-own farms in your area for best buys of strawberries. The season is short and the weather unpredictable. So when you find berries of the quality you want at the price you are willing to pay make those preserves or jellies and stock your freezer for later use.

Strawberries are highly perishable. They lose quality rapidly when held at warm temperatures. Top quality berries will be fresh, clean, bright, have caps in place, and be free of moisture and mold. Stained containers indicate leakage and spoilage.

When you purchase strawberries, rush them home and pour the unwashed, uncapped berries into a shallow tray and place in the refrigerator. Use as quickly as possible. If the berries are slightly underripe, they will continue to ripen in a cool, dry place. When ready to use, wash a few at a time in cold water. Lift them gently out of water with fingers and drain. When dry, cap and prepare for the table or preservation.

Fresh strawberries are a wonderful way to get vitamin C. One cup contains more than your daily need. At the same time one cup contains only 55 calories, does not include the sugar and cream you love. The yield of strawberries varies but the following averages will help you in making your purchases:

2 quarts fresh = 3 pints frozen or 6 cups preserves

1 crate (16 quarts) = 20-24 pints frozen

1 quart fresh = 4 or 5 servings (½ cup each)

Honor Graduates

Two area students graduated from Frostburg State college with honors. Denise Suzette Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Meyers, Jr., Oakland, and Donald R. DeWitt, Crellin, graduated cum laude from the college in May. Both received a bachelor of science degree in education.

Garrett Unit Is Second To Reach Fund Drive Quota

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society became the second unit in Maryland to reach its Crusade goal for 1976. Garrett went over its mark of $8,258 on June 16, well in advance of the August 31 deadline.

A check for $110 from the members of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, gave the unit its quota.

Mrs. Pat Meadors and Mrs. Sally Schwing co-chaired this year's drive with Mrs. Schwing organizing the northern section of the county and Mrs. Meadors the southern section. They reported that the bulk of the funds came from the residential door-to-door crusade with approximately 250 volunteers collecting over $5,000.

Other sources of income are memorials, special gifts, public employe donations, independent business contributions, clubs and organizations, and special events such as the bowling tournament or skating party.

All money raised is used to further the Cancer Society's program of research, education and service, according to C. W. Englander, president of the Board. Of the total collected, 40 percent goes to the National Cancer Society for research and program development, 18 percent goes to the state society for research and program development and 42 percent stays in the county for local education and service program.

The local unit offers various forms of assistance to cancer patients and their families, and free educational programs and clinics to clubs, organizations, employe groups and the public.

In an independent study, the American Cancer Society was declared to have one of the lowest overhead and administrative costs of all major charities, according to western Maryland regional office in Hagerstown.

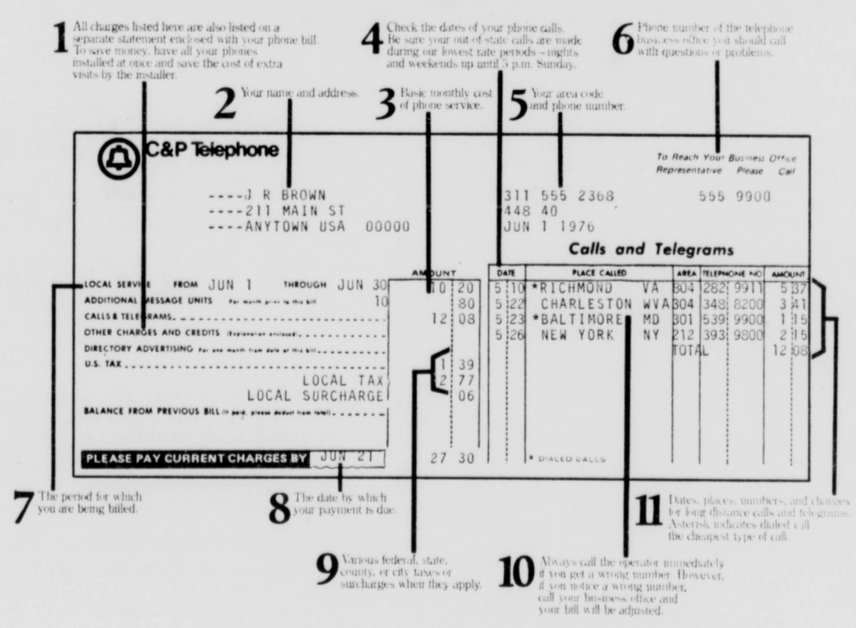
How to read some savings into your phone bill.



Your phone bill has lots to tell you besides the amount due. Once you understand it, you could save some money. And time.
For example, if there's no asterisk beside a number (see No. 11), that means that call was operator handled. A direct-dialed call would have been less expensive, something to remember in the future.
And once you know how to read your phone bill, you'll know if there's a mistake somewhere, and where to call us to have it corrected.
You'll also answer some of those questions yourself, and not waste your time calling us when you don't have to.
So why not read the rest of the explanations.
You just might save yourself some time. And money.
Use your phone for all it's worth.

Regionalism In Western Maryland

By John N. Bambacus
Frostburg Member Of
Tri County Council

Almost imperceptibly in the past several years, there has developed in the local governments of the nation a movement toward regionalism. Today, there are approximately 670 regional councils of government across the country. In most cases, the Councils are voluntary associations of the local governments in the region. In Portland, Oregon, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Boston, Atlanta, and Baltimore, however, state legislation has been passed moving their participation beyond the voluntary stage.

In Appalachian Western Maryland, there are three regional agencies that provide public works, health and educational services to the people of Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties. These organizations, Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, Health Planning Council for Appalachian Maryland, at the Regional Education Service Agency, are primarily funded under the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The governing bodies of most regional organizations are composed of elected officials from the participating local governments, although this practice is not followed by the Health Planning Council or the Regional Education Service Agency located in Western Maryland. Many Councils also include citizens representing special interest groups, as well as gubernatorial and legislative appointees.

Although a type of regional council was formed as early as 1922 and 56 regional councils were in operation by 1960, the vast majority of today's councils were created during the last decade. Their primary purpose is to increase communication, cooperation and coordination among local governments dealing with an increasing number of area-wide problems, such as economic development, and air and water-problems, that cross traditional political boundary lines.

At the recent conference of the National Association of Regional Councils, Senator Charles McMathias, Jr. (R. Md.) said that he intends "to make a systematic review of federal programs to see how they can be revised in order to stimulate problem-handling and problem-solving on a regional basis."

Perspective from the future may be necessary if we are to project the impact of regionalism on the American federal system. Much of the programming coming from Washington mandates that a regional council must receive the funding. This requirement for a area-wide agency leaves little discretion to County and Municipal officials who often ask themselves why can't they receive funding directly rather than go through another lager of government.

Regional Councils are not another lager of government, but rather they provide a forum for local government officials to identify regional problems, and to develop an area-wide strategy to solve these problems.

W. Dale Ellis, Director of Senior Citizen's Programs, indicated that details are being worked out with the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad for similar programs at the Jennings and Finzel Hot Meal Sites.

Contending for the Faith that was delivered to the Church of Jesus Christ

Jesus asked His disciples, "Whom do men say that I am?" Simon Peter said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The Lord Jesus blessed Peter, and said "My Father has revealed this to you, and upon this Rock I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Note, Jesus said "My Church." There is a foundation that was laid for the church to build on. Eph., 2:20. The church is built upon the prophets and Apostles, Jesus Christ Himself being the Chief Corner Stone. I Cor. 3:11, Other Foundation can no man lay, than that which is laid.

When you build a building, you first lay the foundation. Jesus Christ is the Foundation Stone. Our Faith as Christians must be steadfast in Him. Acts 4:12, Neither is there Salvation in any other. For there is none other Name under Heaven, given among men whereby we must be saved. Jesus said in St. Luke 24:47-48, that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His Name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem, and you are witnesses of these things. I am His Witness to all who read this. After Jesus arose, He told them to tarry in the city of Jerusalem until they were endued with power, and then they were to be His Witnesses. St. Luke, 24:49, Acts, 1:8. In the book of Acts, 2:4, this experience came. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues as the Spirit gave utterance. In Acts 2:14, Peter, standing up with the other eleven, gave witness. "These are not drunken, but this is that which was spoken of by the prophet Joel. 'I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh'." They, the Apostles and Peter, were bearing witness to the Death, Burial and Resurrection of Christ, Acts 2:31-36, that God had made Jesus both Lord and Christ. The people who were listening to Peter were pricked in their hearts, and said to Peter and the rest of the Apostles, "What must we do?" Here the foundation of the Church was laid, Acts, 2:38. Repentance, baptism in the Name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sin, and being filled with the Holy Ghost. Remember, Peter had been given the keys to the Kingdom of Heaven, St. Matt., 16:19. The words that Peter spoke were for the foundation of the Church of Jesus Christ. If it was not the true foundation, then the Church at Jerusalem was on the wrong foundation, and lost, for they obeyed Peter and the Apostles. This message started at Jerusalem, Judea and Samaria, and is to go to the uttermost parts of the earth. Acts, 1:8. Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the Name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the Promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. Read Acts, 8:14-17. This church did the same thing as in Acts 2:38. Also the Church in Caesare. Acts 10:42-48, Acts 19:1-7. God gave us a pattern church to follow. Are you building on the foundation of God or man? Have you been baptized in the Name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins and received the Holy Ghost as they did in the Bible? I am contending for the Faith that started at Jerusalem.

I have not written this to fight, but to save. Only by obeying the Word of God can you be saved. I am willing to sit down with anyone and discuss the Scriptures. Save yourselves from this untoward generation. Obey Acts 2:38. Then build your life in Holiness. If you wish to know more about this truth, call 387-5780, or come to the

Copy of Original As Sent To Secretary Earl Butz

7100 Lory Lane
Lanham, Maryland 20801
June 17, 1976

Secretary Earl Butz
Department of Agriculture
Washington, D. C.

Dear Secretary Butz:

I am shocked that your acting associate administrator of Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) would issue the statement that he did regarding the sending of inspectors to the Sterling Processing corporation in Oakland, Maryland. He was quoted in The Republican newspaper as saying that the Oakland area was "not a desirable place to have to send anyone."

I would like a reason for his answer. His statement underlines the fact that he is extremely uninformed and unfamiliar with the area. As a property owner in the Oakland area, as well as in the Washington metropolitan area, I prefer the former area for its clean air, lack of pollution, safe streets, little or no crime, a good school system (Preferable to what I have in the public schools of Prince Georges County), excellent medical care, and above all, an environment where residents care about one another.

It is because of this caring that many citizens of the area are outraged about the absurd statement made by a Federal official. It calls for an apology to all citizens in that area. In the meantime, I would like a reply to my question—"On what facts did he base his statement?"

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Fred C. Warther

Trees are like good children. That is why it is such a joy to grow them. They never complain. They do not ask for a changed environment. You give them a specific soil and some moisture, and they make a good attempt at life, even in adverse conditions.

It is amazing what silver would do, and I am not talking about money. I mean that its discovery was responsible for Colorado being admitted to the Union.

A good discussion is worth several hours of work, but it must be a good discussion, i.e., there must remain some relaxed, resolved, or pleasant frame of mind after it.

What do you do when you are reading and the footnotes prove to be more interesting than the text?

The new hybrids may be fine, but for the resistance to some diseases and hardships we return to the old. An example? The old white, tall strain from little country "patches" proved to be the type needed for crossing in developing a hybrid resistant to blight.

Capitol Comment

By Senator
Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

5 pt. Settlement Plan

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.), declaring that the United States must take a more active role in shaping a Mideast peace, has proposed a 5-point plan for an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Mathias said Israel should be assured of the "unwavering" support of the United States. "The basic element of U. S. Middle East Policy is the continued existence of an independent and secure Israel," he said.

"To say this, however," Mathias continued, "is not to discount the importance of other U. S. interests in the Middle East. Clearly, these too must be taken into account in any formulation of policy for the area."

"We have an obligation, as a staunch friend, to speak candidly to the Israelis about the need to face up to some difficult decisions, for Israel's security and economic viability can not forever depend solely on American assistance." the Maryland Senator asserted.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a luncheon of the Frederick Rotary Club, Mathias spelled out these "essential ingredients" for an Arab-Israeli settlement:

1. "The Arab nations and the Palestinians must recognize Israel's boundaries and respect her sovereignty, independence, and territorial integrity, and refrain from all hostile actions, direct or indirect, against her.

2. "Israel must withdraw to the June 5, 1967 lines with only those modifications that may be mutually acceptable.

3. "Israel must accept the existence of either an independent Palestinian state or of a Palestinian entity voluntarily federated with Jordan. Concurrently, the Palestinians must accept the existence of Israel.

4. "Part and parcel of any settlement must be guaranteed for Israel's security. As suggested in a recent Brookings Institution study on the Middle East, these might take the form of multilateral guarantees endorsed by the U. N. Security Council, the United States, and the U.S.S.R. and providing for demilitarized zones supervised by UN forces or observers who could not be withdrawn by unilateral action (as was previously the case).

5. "Should Israel consider such guarantees inadequate, the United States then must be prepared to consider supplementing them with unilateral guarantees against major violations of the agreements which would constitute a threat to world peace and to the existence of Israel. Any such guarantees, obviously, could not be undertaken without very careful examination and full public understanding and support."

Mathias made a two-week tour of the Middle East in April for the Foreign Operations Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee. He talked to government leaders in Syria, Egypt, Syria, Jordan, and Israel, as well as to Yassir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

B By Senator Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

Many Marylanders may not realize it, but independence came to Maryland 11 days before it came to the United States.

It was 11 days before the fourth of July in 1776 that the last British Governor left Annapolis and Maryland was in fact, if not in law, independent. On June 23, 1776, a committee of gentlemen escorted Sir Robert Eden, the last Proprietary Governor, to the water's edge, and he boarded a ship in Annapolis harbor and prepared to leave America.

His departure signaled the end of the Proprietary government that had begun well over a century before, when a charter was granted by the King of England to Lord Baltimore to found a colony in Maryland, and it brought to an end the actual practice of government that had begun in 1634 when the colonists first landed on St. Clement's Island in the Potomac River.

Governor Eden's departure, then, was the ending of a chapter, but it was also the beginning of a great chapter in Maryland history. It was the beginning of many of the ideas and principles and ideals that Maryland contributed to the new Nation that was to be born 11 days later in Philadelphia.

As we commemorate this important event in Maryland's history, we can take particular note of remarks made for this Bicentennial event by Governor Robert Eden's great-great-grandson, Anthony Eden, the former Prime Minister of Great Britain, now the Earl of Avon.

In gracious remarks that recall the history of the early relationship between our two countries, Lord Avon conveys a message that perhaps is the real significance of the Bicentennial we now are observing. He says:

"The practice of self-government by a free people is the most exacting exercise of which the human mind is capable. Yet to succeed in it is an inescapable condition of happiness. Material gains for the massed millions across the world are not to be despised, but to you and we who have once tasted and enjoyed freedom and equality before the law, they can never take first place.

"It is because you have understood this and have set us an example in the practice of open and virile democracy, against all trials and hazards across this vast continent, that I say to you that your success in the art of government is vital to its success throughout the free world. There can be no future for any of us otherwise.

"Yours is a record which has nowhere been surpassed in the long and checkered history of this restless planet. I pray that the United States will continue to grow in strength and kindliness and lead us all into those conditions of freedom and peace upon which the true progress of the world depends."

That message from Lord Avon goes to the difficulties of self-government and the challenges upon free people to manage their own affairs. That was the challenge taken up by the colonists of Maryland in 1776 and given to us as a sacred trust to carry one.

Revolutionary Vignette Given

(The following vignette about the Revolutionary era was contributed by University of Maryland University College student Madeline L. Baugher. University College is the adult continuing education campus of the University of Maryland.)

Our Library Heritage

Our colonial forefathers placed a high value on books and reading ability. They looked to literature not only as entertainment, but as a way to self-education about the political, military, and moral lessons necessary for success in the new world. Indeed few colonial homes lacked either the Bible or a psalmbook. Capt. Miles Standish, like many other early settlers, brought a small collection of books with him to the new world—including Caesar's Commentaries. Not long after Standish died in 1656, the Essex probate records from Massachusetts indicated that 39 percent of the population owned books.

The finest private library in New England was collected by John Winthrop, Jr., Governor of Connecticut. As early as 1640, Mr. Winthrop had over a thousand volumes, half of them in Latin. As with other collections of this time it was composed of religious works, classics, humanities, and sciences.

The early college collections were less impressive than those of private citizens, but grew quickly. The first college library in the colonies was established in 1638 at Harvard, and by the end of the 17th century was the largest single collection in New England. As with some reference libraries today, undergraduates were discouraged from using it. Because of such restrictions, students formed library societies of their own. These collections often became larger than those of the college library.

During the 18th century, libraries became an ever-increasing part of the colonial community. Private circulation libraries carried the burden of offering reading to a growing public. The Library Company of Philadelphia began operation in 1731 as the first subscription library in the United States. It lent books only to dues-paying members. The first federal library was established at West Point in 1777. The signers of the Declaration of Independence used Thomas Jefferson's private library extensively. He later donated his collection to the Library of Congress which had been proposed in 1790 by the constitutional delegation. Final approval for the library was not given until 1800 because of the new republic's cash shortage. Today, the Library of Congress has grown into the largest library in the world, containing more than 46 million publications and serving scholars in almost all of the world's languages.

J. Paul Getty, said to be the world's richest man died near London at the age 83.

Resolution Honors Retiring Sergeant

A framed resolution passed by the Maryland House of Delegates honoring Sergeant Donald H. (Pansy) Hinebaugh upon his retirement was presented at a regular meeting of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, by Delegate DeCorsey Bolden. He retired as a member of the local unit of the Maryland National Guard.

The resolution was for "his outstanding service to the military of his country and state." The resolution also commended Sgt. Hinebaugh for his contributions to the community. Sgt. Hinebaugh has served as post adjutant for the past fifteen years and has been a continuous member of the American Legion for thirty-two years.

The Bicentennial rush hasn't materialized in D. C.

Promotion Council Plans Membership Meeting June 26

The annual membership meeting of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council will be held Saturday, June 26, at 2 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

On the agenda will be an introduction of Board members followed by reports from officers and committees. Edwin Walthall, director, stated that subjects to be discussed will include a set of updated by-laws to be amended to the council's charter, and the proposed occupancy tax to fund an advertising program for the county. Mr. Walthall feels both are urgently needed for the future of the promotion council and for an effective promotional program.

The current by-laws of the council are over 20 years old. Proposed changes include updating the order of business for annual meetings; increasing the number of directors, adding two appointive positions; allowing the expulsion of directors; forming four mandatory standing committees to oversee all aspects of the Council's operation; and defining membership.

The occupancy tax will be explained in detail. This ordinance has been proposed to finance a promotional fund for the county, through a 2 percent tax on room rentals. Funds will be earmarked for direct media advertising, on a program similar to that effected in other counties in Maryland, which charge five to 10 percent. The ordinance proposes to tax the tourist rather than county residents.

Members are being urged to attend. Light refreshments will be served.

Gas Curtailment Announced For Industrial Users

A projected natural gas curtailment level of 60 percent for 14 industrial customers of Columbia Gas of Maryland during the 1976-77 winter was announced last week.

The projected level of curtailment is scheduled to go into effect with November billing for those who have installed alternate fuel.

A company spokesman said the curtailment level being announced is somewhat lower than that required to offset calculated deficiencies and includes assumptions based on previous experience and best estimates as to economic conditions; approval by the Federal Power Commission of the proposed curtailment plan of Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation, wholesale supplier to Columbia Gas of Maryland; anticipated underruns by industries and other variables such as weather, conservation and supply conditions

HANGING FLOWER HOLDERS — Construction of hanging flower Holders in Macrame, will be demonstrated by a Weirton, W. Va., woman during Harvest Festival, scheduled for September 7, 8 and 9., by the Bicentennial Committee at the fair grounds at McHenry.

Art Of Macrame Is Revived

Mrs. Jean Zierold, Weirton, W. Va., using baler twine to accomplish varieties of hanging flower holders, will demonstrate her techniques and show a variety of functional forms which can be created, at the Harvest Festival scheduled for September 7, 8 and 9 at the fair grounds at McHenry. Scheduled by the Garrett County Bicentennial commission it will be just one of many activities scheduled.

Mrs. Charles Strauss, member of the committee, in speaking of the revival of the art of macrame, said this art appear in many forms today and that Jean Zierold delights in the process of tying a knot to the clear and direct form of the knot itself. In the process of knotting she ties, reties and constructs to produce an infinite variety of textures and shapes.

Mrs. Strauss explained: "During the 1940s a new agricultural twine was developed for the automatic one-man hay baler which had become an important farm implement. The 'baler twine' used by this machine is made from sisalana fiber blended with manila fiber. 'Baler twine' is heavier than binder twine. More than 120 million pounds of baler twine are manufactured in the U.S. and Canada annually.

"The abaca plant from which the manila fibers are obtained, belongs to the banana family. The fruit is smaller than a banana and is not good to eat. Abaca has been used in making rope since sailing ship days of the early 1800s. Until World War II almost all abaca was grown in the Philippine islands. Now the plant is also grown in Latin American countries, including Panama, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Honduras.

"Sisalana is produced from the sisal plant which yields valuable fibers, yellow white in color, strong and lustrous. Sisal originated in the peninsula of Yucatan. Though still cultivated there the plant also is raised for trade in several of the British colonies and in the Indies.

"Many cultures, ancient and contemporary, have used knotting as a means of fabric construction or decoration. Perhaps the most vital heritage ever, has been that of the sailor. Sailors who have spent their lives with rope, twine and cord, and their interlacings and fastenings, have named countless numbers of knots. They have spent endless hours tying knots as part of their livelihood, and as a means of pleasure. Few are aware of the fanciful and creative forms knotted by sailors in their spare time."

Mrs. Strauss said that hangers may be purchased during the demonstrations at the Harvest Festival, and that buyers would then see the unique quality of the work of Mrs. Zierold.

In the middle of the giant city, the lake is an oasis, removed from the bustle and din, just a stone's throw beyond. It is strangely quiet, peaceful, giving the visitor a moment's pause, a time to think.

All of us need that moment to pause, that time to think.

We need, now and again, to stop and ask ourselves the questions about the deeper things in life which we gloss over in the pace of everyday living. We need to dwell on spiritual things, to assess our sense of values and to wonder if we are truly living in accord with God's wishes.

Sometimes it is much easier to keep on rushing than it is to stop for a moment and take stock. Sometimes it is easier to keep on going (in what may well be the wrong way) than it is to stop and change directions. The greatest opportunity for contemplation and meditation is in your church. Here you will find spiritual resources to help you reassess and strengthen your life.

WHAT IS COLIC?
Colic is a term applied to episodes of fitful crying, tightly pulling the legs against the abdomen, passage of gas and the fretfulness that some babies exhibit. There is no single definite cause for colic.
Improper burping, a milk allergy, even tenseness in the mother can cause the problem. Sometimes it is necessary for a physician to prescribe one of several drug products that can help give relief.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOD AND CEASAR

Lesson for June 27, 1976

Background Scripture:
I Kings 22:1-28; Acts 5:21b-29; Romans 13:1-10; Revelation 13:11-18.
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 3:12-21.

It has often been rightly said that, quoted out of context, the Bible could be used to support almost any teaching or religious concept. Used in a careless manner, various passages in the Bible could be used to support polygamy, incest, mass murder, robbery, fraud, and a whole host of acts that we consider to be immoral. Thus, it has often been said that when we quote any portion of the Bible, we need to keep in mind the rest of the Bible as well.

Rev. Althouse

"But I say to you"

Jesus himself was aware of this problem. He knew that certain commandments of the Old Testament were superceded by his own message from God. Thus, at times, he would say: "You have heard that it was said of old...but I say to you..." Many of the rules and regulations of the Old Testament are no longer applicable to the Christian because the Gospel has carried us beyond that level of religion.

Even in the New Testament we must be careful to interpret Christian teachings in the context of the whole New Testament. Nowhere is this more clearly illustrated than in Romans 13.

Paul is speaking of the Christian's relationship to his government and his ideas seem clear and concise:

"Let every person be subject to the governing authorities..."

"...those authorities that exist have been instituted by God."

"...he who resists the authorities resists what God has appointed..."

"...rulers are not a terror to good conduct, but to bad..."

It would seem from these statements that the Christian ought never to oppose or resist the government in any way. Yet, if Christians had followed this concept rigidly, the whole course of Christian history would have been altered. There would have been few, if any, Christian martyrs. The church probably would never have expanded beyond the boundaries of Palestine. Nor would there have been a Reformation or the American Revolution!

We must obey God, not men

Paul's words in Romans, however, must be kept in the context of his concern for Christian citizenship. Paul would not want his words about obedience to be construed to mean that the Christian ought never to resist or oppose his government. Paul's own actions are indicative of this. There were a number of times in his life when he was in opposition to the local government and was put in jail for various reasons. When conscience demanded, he resisted the government.

Nor was Paul alone in this. In Acts 5 we find the story of Peter and John being thrown in jail and resisting the orders of Jewish Council. Though respectful, Peter clearly draws the line between obedience to the state and faithfulness to one's God. When it is a conflict between the state and what God lays upon our hearts "we must obey God rather than men."

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. I am drowning in my own tears because I no longer have that inner glow which I need for myself, my children and for others I try to help. I'm an ordained minister, and I just feel that I'm a total failure. If only I had the time to read and gain peace and understanding. The material problems of life are swarming over me. How can I find my way out?

A. You are no failure. Motivation sometimes runs down for everyone. The practice of a daily relaxed, quiet time will help build it up.

We are made of body, mind and spirit. Therefore we must find ways to relax the body, quiet and inspire the mind and renew the frazzled spirit.

Take control over that swamped feeling. Set aside a daily period when nothing interrupts. Read inspirational and motivational material. Read the Bible. Practice relaxed meditation. Let the mind reflect upon the peace of God. In such quiet periods new insights will come, also the peace of God. This is a proven way to find new energy, and revitalized enthusiasm.

Apparently you have allowed the CDT's (cares, difficulties, troubles) to overwhelm you. Let go and let God. As Dr. Schindler once said, "if you direct the mind into the area of pure joy for even one minute every day you will be a vital person."

Q. I would like some help for loneliness—the loneliness of losing a loved one very suddenly and unexpectedly without any previous warning. My husband and I had been married almost 34 years when he passed away without illness or warning. I can be happy that he is with God. But how does one—the one left behind—go on?

My children are grown and don't live very close to me. Friends are kind but you do have to make it on your own, so to speak. I find myself doing very well for a period of time, then suddenly I find myself slipping backwards into depression. It seems that for every two steps I take forward I slip back three or four. Can you give me any help? I am very, very lonely.

A. Perhaps your answer will come in putting your creative life up against the loneliness of others. You can find an entirely new life for yourself in helping other lonely individuals. Make a list of them and figure out ways to help them. Make yourself get outside your self. How many people on your block are having troubles? Have you ever called on that harassed mother down the street, struggling to care for all her little ones? Maybe it would ease your aloneness to give her a hand.

One widow told us the hardest time of day was from 5 to 7 P.M., that time when she always prepared for her husband's coming home. She solved it by using those hours to get out and do something for somebody. Her happiness began to grow. And people got to loving her. Laughingly she said she had so many dinner invitations that she put on 10 pounds. The big secret is to break out of your prison of loneliness by breaking into the prison of loneliness in which other widows and others who need companionship suffer. And one more thing, every morning, and every evening say, "I am not alone. You, God are with me."

Q. My husband and I need some answers to a problem that threatens to take our son on a path that I feel will surely lead to frustration and despair for him if he is not helped very soon. We have just learned from our son, who has finished college, that he has reached the conclusion that he is homosexual.

For some time our son has not been happy. We tried to get him to give up the friends which we feel were a bad influence on him. We are heartbroken and want to help him but don't know where to turn for help. We hesitate to go to our personal physician with this problem because of the stigma. How can we find help for him?

A. Definitely you should go to your physician and give him all the facts. His guidance can be very helpful in perhaps referring your son to experts in this field.

We have often encountered such cases and have found that there are doctors who are specially equipped to guide, not only physically, but psychologically.

You should feel pleased that your son is honest enough to share this problem with you.

Q. It's not exactly a joy to watch all my younger sisters getting married, engaged and dating while I have no one. I'm 24 years old and have lots of wonderful friends. Yet I feel empty inside without a man to love me.

Lately I met a guy and we got along really good. He's had a rough past and it seemed so easy for me to talk to him and relate to him. He used to be a dope dealer, but he was turning to God and seeking a new life. I guess I started to care about him more than I should have. I had hopes that he would love me. But now I'm told he is returning to his old life. It hurts so much. I feel depressed. How can I forget him?

A. Think how fortunate you are! Some months of hurt feelings and depression are far better than years of misery. You have been saved from a cruel, hard life. Thank God for that.

Now, paint a picture in your mind of the fine young man you want to walk into your life. See him. The strongly held mental image tends to become a fact. Dwell on the fine qualities he must have.

Then go about being happy and released and fun-loving. Get into lots of things. Every day do something kind and thoughtful for somebody. Try forgetting yourself. Become the radiant, happy, joyous person God meant you to be.

Always believe that somewhere in this world is your young man. Unconsciously he is looking for you. In the mysterious ways of human experience you will be brought together, Miss Right and Mr. Right at the Right time. Right?

Q. My daughter is married to a man in the military service. She has one small child and lives here with us. Now she is dating a married man who has four small children. I know she is lonely, but she is breaking up his marriage. I don't want to ask her to stop seeing this man because then she will leave. As her mother I hope I'm doing what is right.

A. You certainly are not doing what is right. Tell your daughter that she is going down a road which leads only to misery, trouble and regret. But don't hound her about it. Be loving and kind and understanding—but firm. You should try with every strategy at your command to forestall an outcome that will wreck your daughter's life.

Q. How can we think of God as a loving Heavenly Father when He has created on the earth so many forces that kill or injure His children?

Only God creates hurricanes, tidal waves, earthquakes, tornados, typhoons, floods, volcanos, storms at sea, lightning and drought. Fire can also kill.

This question has troubled me and no doubt many others, in view of the tragic loss of life in disasters such as the Guatemala earthquake. Only God's law causes an earthquake—why? Is this the act of a loving Father?

A. God is a loving Father, all right. In fact He loves His children so much that He wants to develop them. and He knew that to do so they must experience tragedy and suffering. Cruel as it may seem, such natural forces have motivated man to think and create a world in which there is a greater degree of security.

But there will always be insecurity, for in a perfectly secure world man would deteriorate.

Also, such tragedy keeps man compassionate and without compassion he would be less than human.

OPEN LINE

By
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

What is your position on solar energy research and development?

I was one of the original co-sponsors of legislation to create a solar heating and cooling demonstration program and was a strong supporter of this authorizing legislation. I have also undertaken active support of the ocean thermal solar energy project being developed by the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory in Howard County. Meetings have been held with other Members of Congress, the Administration, the Federal Energy Administration and ERDA in order to expedite funding of this important solar energy project.

Did you support legislation last week to help the elderly with rent payments?

Yes. I voted to exempt Social Security cost-of-living increases in computing rent paid by senior citizens in public housing projects. The legislation passed the House of Representatives 260-99.

What is the maximum amount of money a qualified individual can receive under the SSI [Supplemental Security Income] program?

Benefit levels for the needy aged, blind and disabled depend on income. The current levels—due for a 6.4 percent cost-of-living increase July 1—provide payments of $157.70 a month for an individual with no countable income and $236.60 a month for a couple with no countable income.

How did you vote earlier this month on legislation establishing a Young Adult Conservation Corps?

I supported the measure which would employ persons between 19 and 24 in federal public works projects. The bill passed 291-70. Incidentally, I have been a long-time advocate and co-sponsor of legislation to expand and extend the Youth Conservation Corps which provides summer jobs for teenagers in our National Parks.

Are refresher courses covered under GI educational benefits?

Veterans who have already qualified in a program of education may receive educational assistance for up to 6 months to pursue refresher training to update skills acquired prior to or during service. Your local VA office can provide you with more details and the qualification standards for the program.

A while ago you voted to prohibit the issuance of citations under the Occupational Safety and Health Act [OSHA] against firms with 25 or fewer employees. What was your reasoning?

I have been repeatedly contacted by small businesses in Central and Western Maryland concerning the administrative burdens of OSHA and its impact on small firms, many of which are family businesses. I feel the present direction in federal regulations and controls will lead to the decline of the small business with resulting employment losses and a gradual decrease in competition. In short, exempting these businesses from OSHA coverage is a sound economic policy and certainly does not threaten the lives of employees in these family businesses.

CARBON MONOXIDE

Discovered for the first time in a galaxy other than our own, this molecule was observed in October, 1975 by the 3.9-meter (153-inch) Anglo-Australian reflector in New South Wales. It was found in the Large Magellanic Cloud about 200,000 light-years from us. Carbon Monoxide is generally associated with the star forming regions of the Milky Way. The telescope was modified as a radio telescope for the observation.

Troop 62 Holds Court Of Honor

Members of Boy Scout Troop 62 of Gorman held a Court of Honor on May 23 at the Gorman Fire Hall, when five Scouts were given advancement and awards. Their mothers each received a pin noting the honor given to their sons.

Those receiving honors were Kevin Flanagan, Tenderfoot, and his mother Naomi; Daley Uphold, Tenderfoot, and his mother Pat; Robert Gilbert, Life, and mother Joretta Gilbert; Rick Minnick, Star, and his mother Jean; Roy Uphold, Tenderfoot, and his mother Dora.

During the program the boys gave several skits. There was also a candlelight ceremony based on the 12 Scout laws, demonstration of overnight camping and equipment, and refreshments.

Boy Scout Troop 62, sponsored by the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department, consists of 15 boys under the leadership of scoutmaster David C. Ridings, Sr.

GOP Women To Hear About "Blue Laws"

Members of the Southern Republican Women's club will meet Monday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m., at the summer home of Wilma Calhoun on Deep Creek Lake. Members planning to attend are to meet at the First National Bank parking lot by 7 p.m.

At the meeting Delegate DeCorsey Bolden will speak and explain the "Blue Laws."

Account Given Of Peter DeWitt In Revolutionary War

An account of Peter DeWitt and some of his activities during the Revolutionary war of 1776, compiled from notes recorded by Charles E. Hoye, and now in the hands of Mrs. William H. DeWitt, of Crellin are being recorded in The Republican.

This is the second in a series of accounts.

Application for Pension

State of Kentucky, Clarke County: On the 18th day of October, 1833, personally appeared before me, Fielding Combes, a judge and justice for the county aforesaid, Peter DeWitt, aged 81 years, on the 8th day of July, who being first duly sworn according to the law, doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress, passed June 7, 1832—that he entered the services in the U.S. under the following named officers and served as hereinstated. First he said he was born on the 8th of July, 1753 in the state of New Jersey, Sussex county and there he states he lived till about 12 years old and then he moved with his father to Virginia, Hampshire county, and from this county on the 15th of June, 1775, he volunteered in Capt. Cresap's company—Lt. Daniel Cresap, Ensign Ogle, and Col A. McDonald. Rendezvoued at Redstone Old Fort.

(Notes taken from History of Cumberland: Col. Thomas Cresap, Capts. Daniel and Michael Cresap and Capt. McDonald, supb. officers under Maj. Grant.

"Col. Cresap organized another company with his surviving sons, Daniel and Michael, his son Thomas being killed a short time previous by an Indian, he killing the Indian at the same time, and a Negro of gigantic stature, marched again, taking the same route on Braddock's road, as far as Negro Mountain where they met a party of Indians. Cresap's party killed an Indian. This incident Peter mentions in his application for pension.

He continues: We here continued for two or three weeks. From thence we marched to the head waters of the Fullalow—from there to the head of Wheeling creek, from thence to the mouth of Grave creek. At this place we continued for some time to obtain provisions; from thence we moved to the mouth of Fish Creek, from thence across the Ohio and pursued an Indian trail, and so continued to within eight miles of their town, and had a short skirmish with some lying in ambush. Had two of our men killed and six wounded. We left at this place a guard to take care of the wounded and pursued on towards the town until we arrived at the Muskingum river. At this place we stopped and he states that he remembers well of John Hargus killing an Indian across the river at a distance of about two hundred yards.

Our Col. then gave orders that no other gun should be fired, and as the Indians were on the opposite side of the river, our interpreter invited some over to treat but they declined. Breaking camp next morning by light we started for their towns. The first we reached was called Wackotamaca. We however first desired a treaty but effected none. But as they evacuated the town we took possession without opposition. From thence we marched to Smoke Town. From thence to a town called Whikoomanus town. At this town we had a skirmish, had one wounded and took an Indian prisoner, and from thence we marched on home and arrived home on the 16th of September, 1775, after an absence of three months on duty, and was discharged. On this tour he served as a private soldier.

He states the next services he remembered was from Maryland, Washington county, in the year 1776, and the 15th of April as well as he can remember. He was drafted for six months in Capt. Kimberlin's company of spies and Rangers and ranged through the mountains in the Washington county, and those contiguous to prevent savages from murdering the defenseless women and children while their husbands were out in the service of their country. He stated he so continued to range and spy as a private soldier until the 15th or 16th of October. At that time he returned home and was regularly discharged by his captain. But he lost it.

Plays A. Lincoln For West V. Town

Harold Russell Schmidt, native of Accident, now residing in Guyandotte, W. Va., has been busy this spring and is preparing to remain busy for much of the summer in bicentennial activities around his town.

Harold is a son of Russell and Elsie Schmidt, of Annandale, Va. but many of Harold's relatives and friends reside in this county and read The Republican.

Old Guyandotte Days are scheduled July 3 and 4 this year with a mammoth parade as one of the activities, on Saturday, July 3. A program of the two-day event includes two inside pages of a facsimile of a newspaper printed in Guyandotte 100 years ago.

Mr. Schmidt as Abraham Lincoln, is the official greeter of the West Virginia celebration. He will lead the parade through the Guyandotte streets to the school where songs and skits are to be performed.

Mr. Schmidt will then greet all members attending the celebration during the two days. He has portrayed Mr. Lincoln several times this summer for various groups and played Lincoln for the Guyandotte United Methodist church where he is a member.

Mr. Schmidt resides as 111 Buffington street, Guyandotte with his wife Nancy and children, Lee and twin sons, Scott and Andy. Mr. Schmidt's three eldest daughters reside at Grantsville.

Legal Notice

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, (P.L. 93-234) it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in eleven (11) selected Western Maryland communities.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by the Rockville, Maryland engineering firm of Toups and Loiederman.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have the opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data (previous studies, highwater marks, photographs of floods, etc.) concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration. The Study Contractor (Toups and Loiederman) will pay photographic or reproduction costs to copy any usable information that is available.

Allegany County, Unincorporated Areas: Mr. Benjamin R. Sansom, Action Planning Director, Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission, P.O. Box 1433, Cumberland, Maryland 21502 Phone: 301/724-5721.

GARRETT COUNTY'S CONTESTANTS in the recent Maryland Special Olympics at Towson State College brought home six medals in competition with youngsters throughout the state early in May. Local children won a gold, three silver and two bronze medals in 50-yard dash, and softball competition. Eight students from Green Street School and three from Accident, including the county's only girl representative, competed to bring home the medals. This was the first time local children have entered the state Special Olympics. Also recognized at the events were Garrett Community College student coordinators Jeff Carlisle and Doug Stanton and Mrs. Sarah Wilson, Special Education Coordinator for this county.

Several Hundred At Open House At Masonic Temple

Between three and four hundred persons attended the "open house" Sunday afternoon at the new Masonic Temple, corner of Wilson and Center streets, in Oakland.

The temple which is housing the 84-year old Masonic lodge, was recently constructed in memory of the late Paul B. Naylor and his wife, the late Mrs. Sarah Naylor, who bequeathed over $300,000 for the construction and maintenance of the new structure.

Masonic lodges from the tri-state area as well as fraternal, civic and service organizations were invited to come and look over the new building, considered most modern. Mr. Naylor was a 50-year member of Oakland Lodge and his wife was a past worthy matron of Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star.

Members of both the Masonic lodge and Eastern Star recorded the names of all persons attending the open house. Refreshments were prepared by members of the Eastern Star.

OHS Class Of 1936 Holds First Reunion

The Oakland High School graduating class of 1936 met for the first time in 40 years at a dinner Saturday evening, June 19, at the Deer Park Fire Hall.

Master of ceremonies Dr. F. D. Custer introduced committee chairman Delbert Gnegy, who welcomed the 41 graduates, six teachers and their guests.

Mr. Gnegy then introduced the other committee members in charge of reunion arrangements, Mary Martha Sebold Miller, vice chairman; Mildred Stark Maroney, Jay L. Bell, secretary-treasurer; W. Dwight Stover, and Carroll W. Hahn. Mr. Hahn and Mrs. Maroney were host and hostess for the evening.

The Deer Park firemen's auxiliary prepared and served the meal, concluding with an appropriately decorated cake made by Mrs. Carl Callis. Music from the 1930's played throughout the evening.

Each graduate and teacher presented himself and guest. Mr. Stover read a poem in honor of the memory of the 19 deceased class members and he also gave the invocation. Dr. Custer presented the essay "How to Guess Your Age" by Corey Ford.

Mrs. Mary Martha Miller awarded a silver tray to Mrs. Mildred Stover Hardin for traveling the greatest distance, from Florida. Guy Mayle, of North Carolina, was also recognized for his part in promoting the reunion, along with Margaret Rowan Grubb, Hyattsville. Mrs. Mildred Maroney was in charge of the door prizes. Each member was given a souvenir program and a keychain.

Mr. Gnegy conducted a brief business meeting. The committee recommended that any money in the treasury after expenses be given to the Ruth Enlow Library in memory of deceased class members. Slides were shown of the Oakland High School alumni who attended a meeting in Baltimore last year.

Although there was some discussion about a second reunion in 1981, no action was taken.

Allegany-Garrett Firemen Elect

Donald E. Broome, Cumberland, was elected president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's association, at the sixty-fourth annual convention held Saturday, June 5, at Bedford Road. He succeeds Robert H. H. Shimer.

Other officers included William P. Miller, Barton, Vice-president; Robert Saville, Cumberland, secretary; Dennis Hamilton, Midland, treasurer; J. Francis Fatkin, Frostburg, editor of the news letter; and A. Mike Walters, Corriganville, chaplain.

A joint menorial service with the Ladies Auxiliaries was conducted for 16 firemen and 17 auxiliary members.

Thirty-three departments answered roll call with Gorman the only company missing from the convention. There were thirteen past presidents there including George F. Comp, Jr., Deer Park.

Fire chief Francis Gardine, of Potomac Fire company No. 2 was awarded the "Fireman of the Year" award.

Nature Walks To Feature New Germany Programs

New Germany State Park will be able to show visitors how they can spot animals from the various tracks they leave, use natural dyes for coloring, and even check bird migration patterns this summer, according to Park Naturalist Larry Hose.

The interpretive activities are programmed each week from Tuesday to Saturday, during the summer.

At 10 a.m., on Tuesdays and Fridays, a nature walk will be conducted, centering on such themes as "Soil Formation," "Animal Habitats," "Ecology," and "Animal Evidences." Nature center activity which will include bird banding, insect collecting and natural dyeing—will follow starting at 2 p.m.

Wednesdays will feature an arts and crafts period at 2 p.m., and a campfire (or night walk) will top off the day at 8:30 p.m.

Children's games are the highlight of Thursdays, beginning at 10:00 a.m. From 2 p.m., on, the day is dedicated for Junior Ranger tasks whereby successful youngsters can earn a patch and certificate.

An 8:30 a.m. birdwalk may precede Friday's nature walk, according to Hose, and Saturday will be set aside for either a nature walk or lake activity. Campfires are scheduled at 8:30 p.m., as well.

"Other themes may arise as time and nature allow," Hose, a biology major at Frostburg State College, said.

The park also offers a popular, 13-acre lake for fishing, swimming and boating. Hiking trails are numerous and camping facilities are available for use as well as shelters and picnic area.

THE REPUBLICAN

Thoughts of Freedom . .

Fireworks and festivities will mark this July 4th as never before, yet the Industrial Press Service has indicated this 200th anniversary of Independence Day should also inspire a more thoughtful spirit than usual. I agree.

The 55 men who signed the Declaration of Independence were all aware of the "toil and blood and treasure it will cost . . . to maintain the Declaration and support and defend these states," but it is easy for us to forget the two centuries of work and sacrifice which have kept our rights secure.

When we lose sight of the past, all too often we become careless with our freedoms, and willing to exchange them for the deceiving hope of government-created security. This, the Press Service feels, as do I, is a dangerous mistake, for our national well-being stems from freedom from constraints by government. There is nothing to be gained and much to be lost by turning to government for solutions to all problems.

On July 4 and throughout this year we should make a special effort to remember that the preservation of freedom is the responsibility of each of us, and let us instill this understanding in our children. The strength of our liberties lies not so much in our arms as in the value we place on freedom, and this strength can and must be renewed in us from time to time, and passed on to each succeeding generation. It is a never ending job.

Summer Theatre To Open July 7

The Garrett County Playhouse, with the 1976 season, will celebrate its 22nd anniversary. The playhouse opened its doors for the first time in July of 1955. Since that first production of "Blithe Spirit," the theatre has continued.

Originally staffed with actors from Professor Gene Yell's drama classes at the University of New Mexico, it now includes professional actors from New York and other points.

A fire in 1952 destroyed the original home of the Playhouse at the Arden Boat club, the new and present quarters were found and the "Blue Barn" will continue to the site of the summer theatre.

The playhouse will open its season Wednesday, July 7, with the play, "Four On a Garden," by Abe Burrows, and will continue through Saturday, July 10.

On succeeding weeks five additional plays will be given, "The Hollow," "January Thaw," "Oh, Mama! No, Papa!", "Fallen Angels," and "Two and Two Make Sex." The plays will conclude for the season on Saturday, August 14.

The opening play is a quartet of short comedies having in common the locale of a garden apartment.

The Playhouse company for the Bicentennial season will feature returning players Cather MacCallum, Gerry McLaughlin, Milburn Mehlhop and Joan Statkus. First year actors will include Sandy Edwards and Paul Michael, of New Mexico, and Gwynn Sommi, of New York City. The season's productions will be directed by Jim Morely, chairman of the theatre department of the University of New Mexico.

Admission for adults will be $3.50 Wednesday through Friday, and $3.75 on Saturdays. Children will be admitted for $1.50 all performances. Season subscriptions are available at $24 for eight admissions.

The Blue Barn is located on Beckman peninsula of the lake.

Plans Complete For Mt. Storm Area Weekend

Fireworks and other activities will highlight the Bicentennial celebration planned for mountaintop communities around Mt. Storm on this Fourth of July weekend.

Citizens of Mount Storm, Bayard. Gormania, Bismark and the areas along routes 50 and 93 have joined to plan this old fashioned event featuring three days of activities. Mount Storm will host the event which begins Saturday, July 3, at 11 a.m., with a chicken barbecue. There will be an all day craft and bake sale, a wild life show and children's competitive games. A hillbilly hoedown will begin at 7 p.m., starring Ech Gibson and the Mountain Ramblers. Music and square dancing will give way at dark to a fireworks display.

Sunday's events include an all day picnic and a special program at 2 o'clock at which James McCartney, West Va.'s. secretary of state, will speak. A program of patriotic songs will be presented by combined community church choirs and a 13-gun salute will be fired as a part of an exhibition by local members of the Muzzle Loaders. The day will conclude with volleyball, horseshoes, croquet and badminton games played in late afternoon, followed by a hayride at 7:30.

Monday will be highlighted by a second chicken barbecue, a silly softball game, a muzzle loaders' demonstration, a country music show and square dancing, cake walks, cake contests and an auction of cakes and other food items. A bicentennial quilt and afghan will be given away at 10 p.m.

The arts and crafts and wildlife shows will continue throughout the three-day celebration, along with rides, a flea market, etc. Funds for the affair, along with planning committees and publicity have been arranged by the Mountain Top Bicentennial committee.

County And Road Workers Fail To Agree

The County Commissioners and members of Local 1834, ASCME, AFL-CIO, representing the Garrett County road workers have reached an impasse in the negotiations for a contract to be effective in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

As a result the two parties have agreed to seek the services of a mediator in an effort to settle differences. The present contract is to remain in effect until a new contract can be agreed upon by both parties, it was agreed.

If agreement is reached on provisions of a new contract before August 15 or on any mutually agreeable extension, all wage and other monetary benefits will be retroactive to July 1.

The impasse announcement was signed jointly by the three county commissioners, George C. Edwards, Wayne Hamilton, Don S. Bender, with Jack R. Turney, county attorney and Clayton Smith, county roads supervisor; also the five members of the local 1834 negotiating committee, James E. Hinebaugh, president; Kenneth J. Savage, James W. Fike, Thomas Bruce Kelleher, state representative; and William J. Yoder, staff coordinator.

A spokesman for the local said that the union was seeking parity for county road workers with neighboring Allegany county and employes of the State highway admimistration in this county.

It was indicated both sides seemed to want to avoid a recurrence of the long strike of 1970 when the county commissioners at that time refused to recognize the union. It was not until after the November election that they returned to work.

Plans Complete For July 4th Sunrise Service

Plans have been completed for the Sunrise Service which will be held at the Fair Grounds, McHenry, at 6:30 A.M. on the morning of Sunday, July 4th.

The service, sponsored by the Mt. Top Ministerial Association, will begin with a salute to the flag by the rifle squad of the Proctor Kildow Post 71 of the American Legion. This will be followed by all the persons present singing the National Anthem. Next will come the regular portion of the worship service, which will include participation by community leaders as well as the clergy.

Parking for this service is to be in the area on the north side of the Fair Grounds. People coming to the service are asked to enter the grounds from Bumble Bee Road gate to the parking area.

Commissions Are Named By Mandel

A number of commissions, approved by Governor Marvin Mandel, were received by Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit Court, last week.

Seven persons were appointed to the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College for six years from July 1, 1976. They are Diane Thayer, Oakland; William N. Goldsborough, Mt. Lake Park; Paul Mateer, Oakland; Robert Diehl, Grantsville; Gary Fratz, Accident; Pasquale Fischetti, Oakland and Dana Thoman, McHenry.

Three persons were named to the Garrett County Board of Education, with two filling unexpired terms. Clarence L. Stem, Mt. Lake Park, was named to a five-year term from July 1, 1976. Troy R. Gnegy, Mt. Lake Park, is to fill the remainder of a term from July 1, 1973 and W. Brooks Hamilton, Jr., Red House, is to fill the remainder of a five-year term from July 1, 1974. The latter two replace Diane Thayer and Paul Mateer who resigned from the board.

Jonas E. McKenzie, Grantsville, has been named chairman of the Garrett County Property Tax Assessment Appeal Board for a term of three years from June 1, 1976.

Carl DelSignore, Deep Creek Lake, has been named a member of the Land Reclamation Committee for the remainder of a term from July 1, 1975. George Stanya, Red House, has been named an alternate to the same board for the same period.

Lewis J. Cornish, Oakland, has been named a member of the Garrett County Liquor Control Board for six years from June 1, 1975.

William H. Welch, Loch Lynn, has been named Judge of the Orphan's Court for the remainder of a four-year term from the General Election of November 1974. He replaces Elza Bray who is deceased.

Formerly the members of the Board of Education also served as the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College. Beginning as of the first of July the Board of Trustees of the College is a separate board from the Board of Education, according to a recently enacted law.

Post Office Hours Set For Weekend

Post office hours for county offices were listed this week.

Normal collections will be made Saturday, July 3. The office will be closed Sunday and Monday, July 4 and 5. Two hour window service only will be provided Saturday, July 3, from 8 to 10. The lobby will be open for normal hours on Saturday, from 8 to 12 noon at Friendsville, and from 8 to 6:15 at the Oakland office.

Rural deliveries and collections for Saturday, July 3, will be on regular schedule.

Oakland Firemen Plan Celebration

Oakland firemen have a dual reason to celebrate this July 4th, the U. S. will be 200 years old and their long-awaited fire truck is due this week.

To celebrate, and incidentally to help raise funds for the $58,000 piece of equipment, the firemen have planned a Bicentennial Blast Sunday, July 4, beginning at 4 p.m. at the McHenry fairgrounds.

Special events will be greased pig chases for three age groups, a water battle exhibition between fire companies using a drum on a cable, and a greased pole climbing contest with money at the top for the winner.

Other attractions are also scheduled during the day.

On Saturday, July 10, the new truck will be on display prior to a firemen's parade in downtown Oakland at 1 p.m. From 2 to 6, there will be a beef barbecue at the American Legion post and from 6:30 to 8 p.m. there will be a square dancing demonstration by the Mt. Top Promenaders at the Legion Post.

A country-western dance will be held that evening also at the Legion, featuring the Backbone Mountain Rangers, all to help defray costs on the new fire truck. The Department has been waiting for the new truck for nearly two years.

Goldstein Speaks At Historical Dinner June 24

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein took aim at the heritage and development of Western Maryland in a special bicentennial talk before the Garrett County Historical Society at its annual dinner meeting last Thursday evening at the Northern High cafetorium, near Accident. Over one hundred fifty persons attended the affair.

Mr. Goldstein noted that Western Maryland was the home of two of Maryland's earliest leaders, Thomas Johnson, the first governor of Maryland as an independent state; and John Hanson, first president of the new nation under the Articles of Confederation. He asked, "Who was the first visitor to area? And answered with another question, "Was it Thomas Cresap, Christopher Gist, or even George Washington?"

"While Garrett County wasn't created until 1872, this area played an important part in the days of the American Revolution," Mr. Goldstein told his audience. "Plots of land in the area that is Garrett County today were set aside for officers and soldiers who served in the American Revolution."

"Most people don't realize it," Mr. Goldstein said, "but these bounty lands brought many new settlers into the west, pushing America's frontier across these mighty mountains." Reading from a list of soldiers who took up lands in what is now Garrett county, the Comptroller noted that many of the names are still familiar here. He mentioned one name that appears on county land records in the 1800s and is drawing national attention. "John Custer settled in this area and remained the rest of his life, but his son moved west to Ohio, and it was there that John Custer's grandson, George Armstrong Custer, was born.

Dr. Raymond McCullough, who will serve another year as president, served as master of ceremonies. Randall Kahl will serve another year as vice-president.

Mrs. Dorothy Cathell was re-elected secretary-treasurer, while Edith Brock was named assistant secretary and Mrs. Ruth Calderwood, corresponding secretary. Named to the Board of Directors were Robert Ruckert, Mrs. Clara Bell Briner, Thomas Butscher and Mrs. Jean Swauger. The society presented Mr. Goldstein with a three volume bound edition of The Glades Star.

Oakland Bausch And Lomb Workers Vote No Union

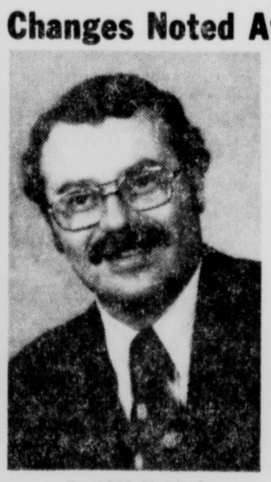
On Thursday, June 24th in a National Labor Relations Board conducted election at Bausch & Lomb Incorporated, the employes rejected representation by the United Paperworkers Union by a vote of 262 to 88.

Pat Fischetti, Plant Manager, said, "I feel proud and appreciate the support demonstrated by our employes during this most difficult period for all of us and I wish to thank all of those who voted."

The overwhelming majority of three to one against the Union ended a three month campaign which began in March of this year. This marks the second time in five years that employes have rejected union attempts.

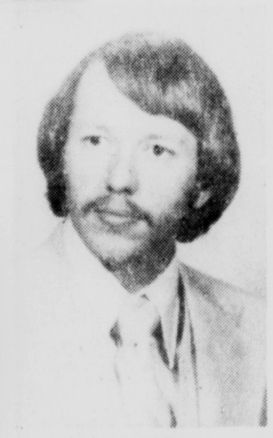
Four Changes Noted At Garrett National Bank

James V. Ashby



David M. Nordeck

C. William Frye



Robert J. Rollman

Organizational and Personnel changes, effective today, July 1, were recently announced by Nordeck Shaffer, President of The Garrett National Bank in Oakland.

In an effort to further divide the responsibility within the bank's Loan Department, two new divisions have been formed. Separate Real Estate and Installment Loan Divisions have been created to provide better service to bank customers and to improve the administration of these two areas of responsibility, Mr. Shaffer said. He added that this would enable management to give more attention to Commercial and Agricultural lending.

Named to head these new divisions are James V. Ashby, Real Estate Loan; and David M. Nordeck, Installment Loan. Both of these employes have been appointed Assistant Vice Presidents and will answer to the Vice President in charge of the Loan Department as a whole.

In transferring Mr. Nordeck from the Bank's LaVale Plaza Office, where he served as Manager from its date of inception in 1971, other changes became necessary. Named to succeed Nordeck as Manager was C. William Frye formerly Manager of the bank's Midland Office and named to succeed Frye was Robert J. Rollman previously on the staff of the bank's Bloomington Office.

Mr. Ashby began his employment with the Garrett National Bank in February, 1967. After completing a variety of duties in the Loan Teller Department he was named Manager of the Green Street Branch Drive-In and later appointed Loan Officer in the Main Office. Mr. Ashby was born and raised in Crellin, is a graduate of Southern High School and has successfully completed courses sponsored by the Bank Administration Institute in Commercial Law and Accounting I. He will soon start a two year schooling program sponsored by the Housing and Real Estate Finance Division of the American Bankers Association held at Ohio State University, Columbus. He, his wife Ann and children Diana and Jeff reside near Crellin where he attends the U-M Church and holds the position of Superintendent.

David M. Nordeck, an employee since April, 1970, is a native of Oakland and a graduate of Southern High School. He attended Potomac State College, Catherman's Business School and the University of North Dakota and has successfully completed courses sponsored by B.A.I. in Com-

$550.00 RICHER — The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad recently received a total of $550.00 from two sources. Above, president Brad Stewart, right, receives a check for $50 from Robert E. Lee, president of the Oakland chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons. Over $10,000 has been collected thus far in the 1976 fund drive.

Bank Barn

Barns have always been part of the American scene, and bank barns, the ones built into a hill on one side, are good architecture. Why? Because they are compatible with their surroundings, just like Frank Lloyd Wright's nature-tuned structure at Ohiopyle. Superb art in building or furnishing says that your useful things should be beautiful and your beautiful things useful. Bank barns are both, as I have seen them.

The bank barn, as it stands in Western Maryland, comes from Pennsylvania and features the first story of stone, with wood siding covering the remainder. It is often termed the Swisser or Switzer barn, with the ramp appearing at the north and the building built into it.

Garrett County barns generally follow the three-bay plan. There is a threshing floor with mows on either side, and sometimes a small door is in front. Opposite this, there may be overhanging doors, and on the bottom floor are stalls, facing south for mild weather. The overhang is on the "lee" side, for this barn supposedly began as a sheltered mountain structure, and is built to suit the climate.

When a farmer, being practical, looked at his land in past generations, he needed a barn which could be entered by horses and a vehicle carrying hay. Thus we have a sturdy plank floor, which would hold both team and wagon (if you were on top, watch your head). Some hay mows were reached with a perfectly vertical ladder, the problem in your climbing expedition being how to go up when the mow is full, wondering how you ever will throw your leg into the hay or around a side beam to get a footing.

The bank barn I knew generally had a hay hole on one side, with a trap door hiding the opening. Oh, the daring of sliding down through to the bottom floor on top of the hay you had tossed into the void! Some structures had a straw room below, and from here was handled the bedding for both horses and cows.

Perhaps the greatest part of the bank barn I knew on Mud Lick, near Long Stretch, was the section to the left of the bank, hidden under a mow, where stood the emblems of bounty, the grain bins. Reaching down into that mountain of oats, which really was a forbidden act, and burying your bare arm in it, then watching the grains fall away—that must bring forth the same feeling a swimmer gets when stalking water with his legs. We children were warned that mice sought the grain bins, but who would not risk a few exhilarating sinking steps in the oats, particularly when in his bare feet?

Eric Sloan tells us that the grain bin walls are a clue to the age of a barn, with "accordion" oak lathing preceding the sawed lath which came after 1850. Our county probably saw many of the later date, at least the ones now surviving.

At any rate, the barn was a cool, generally functional building designed for specific usefulness, and yet it was a perfect playground for younger ones. Many of us today feel about our home barns as Stevenson tells in his poem, "And fare you well forevermore, O ladder at the hayloft door, O hayloft where the cobwebs cling, Good-by, good-by, to everything!"

Robeson Poultry Farm May Use Maryland Seal

Robeson Poultry Farm near Grantsville, has been qualified to display the Maryland Fresh Egg Seal emblem on its cartons of eggs, as the result of passing the specifications of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Jim and Pat Zumpano are joint operators of the farm which is located on the lower New Germany road. The farm sells Grantsville Brand Eggs.

Mr. Zumpano said the Robeson Poultry Farm was the only producer in Western Maryland given the seal for use, because of its "high standard of quality and freshness."

The certificate was presented last Thursday, June 24, by Charles McCain, egg supervisor for three western counties, and was given under authority of Tom Meredith, state supervisor.

The farm has some 28,000 laying chickens and the firm distributes some 1,600 dozen of eggs per day. They go to a number of towns in this county and many communities in the tri-state area. Delivery is by truck.

Alternates are Jonas McKenzie and Ward Ashby, Post 71; Gene Dawson, Post 169; and William Shuck, Post 24. Gene Dawson, Post 169, is the Mt. District adjutant.

Lights Added To City Parking Lot

Two new, high pressure sodium lights were installed in the side and rear of the Oakland municipal parking lot last week, nearly doubling the amount of light broadcast over the area.

The two new lights were installed by Potomac Edison Company and will cost an estimated $37.46 each per month for the town. Both lights are of the modern, daylight type seen frequently around metropolitan areas, a type said to produce a more natural, non-glare light. Each is of 400 watt capacity, and is installed on a 35-foot wooden pole, also to be maintained by the utility company.

The added lighting was requested by the Downtown Oakland Merchants' and Businessmen's Association, for added convenience and safety for late shoppers, employes, merchants, and town residents.

Assault, Battery Fines Levied

Several paid fines for assault and battery in District Court for the week ending June 29. Some pleaded guilty, others were found guilty by Judge Lewis R. Jones.

Elmer Hutzell, RD 2, pleaded guilty of assault and battery on Mary Ette Hay in Grantsville. Hutzell was fined $100 and costs. A 60-day jail sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for two years and to follow the Alcoholic Services program.

Carl Durst, RD 2, Grantsville, pleaded not guilty on three charges. On the charge of disorderly conduct at Keyser Ridge May 23, was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. He was also found guilty of two charges of assault and battery, one on a minor and fined $75, and another on Phoebe E. Martin and fined $75 and costs. The latter two incidents occurred at the same time and place.

Jack Wayne Guthrie, Bayard, W. Va., pleaded guilty of larceny of tools of Jasup P. Hoffman valued at $400 May 27. A presentence investigation was ordered.

James H. Boyce, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on his wife, Susan M. Boyce, at Mt. Lake Park May 28. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs. A 30-day sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year and to refrain from contact with his wife.

Linda Shaffer, RD 2, Oakland, pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Maureen D. Overton, at Mt. Lake Park June 15 and the plea was upheld.

John Russell Ross, Friendsville, was charged with receiving stolen goods, auto engines of the Regional Cultural Education Development Association, Inc., in February. The case was stetted as Ross has cooperated with State Police.

Three Arrested For Fireworks Violations

Three young men were made fully aware of the Maryland statutes banning sale and use of fireworks last Thursday when they were arrested around Oakland for violations.

Jeffrey Hile, Oakland, Ronald Beitzel and Robert Burgess, Mt. Lake Park, were arrested around 10:30 p.m. June 24 and charged with possession of fireworks. Burgess was also charged with selling fireworks.

All three are now out of jail awaiting trial. Chief deputy Frank Finch, Deputy Truman Paugh and Oakland policeman Hobart Shillingburg made the arrests.

In the same area, on the same day, a destruction of property complaint was investigated by Chief Deputy Finch at 609 H Street. Edward Shank reported that his basement window has been shot with a BB. The investigation is continuing, according to Chief Deputy Finch.

D.A.V. Auxiliary Is Organized Here

Eleven members attended the meeting June 21 at the Rentschler home. Mrs. Rentschler gave a brief history of the D.A.V. auxiliary and explained its functions.

An installation of officers will be held as soon as a charter is received.

One Deputy Relieved Of Duties Last Week

One deputy was permanently relieved of his duties with the Garrett County Sheriff's Department last week, according to Sheriff John Evans, Jr.

Robert L. Finch is no longer employed as a sheriff's deputy due to what Sheriff Evans called a failure to carry out his duties completely and dependably. Former deputy Finch was relieved of the job last Thursday, leaving seven deputies in the department.

Deputy Finch has asked for a hearing before a Board consisting of three police officers, including one from the sheriff's department, one from the Maryland State Police and one from the Natural Resource Police force, to determine whether or not he may be reinstated. A hearing is set for Tuesday, July 6.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

What a big surprise to be watching the "Indy 500" while visiting in Florida (we're residents of Virginia) and see Southern High's band come on. They looked great, and our surge of pride was enormous.

Comments from the t.v. man were most complimentary and we were happy to think our old hometown looked so very good. The junior band was impressive in The Apple Blossom parade here in Winchester. Congratulations to students, teachers and parents.

Dehus-Jones Wedding Held

Miss Jann Cheryl Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Jones, of Mt. Lake Park, became the bride of Michael William Dehus, son of Mrs. John William Dehus, 75 South Grant street, Uniontown, Pa., and the late John William Dehus, in a double ring ceremony performed at 3:30 p.m., last Saturday, June 26, at St. Peter Roman Catholic church by Rev. Martin Feild, assisted by Rev. George Porter, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist church.

Traditional and contemporary music was presented by Miss Kathryn Sincell, organist and Mrs. Carolyn Lambert Wilt, soloist. The latter sang Ave Maria and The Lord's Prayer.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. She was attired in a gown of sheer organza, designed in a princess silhouette. The bodice had a high collar and Bishop sleeves, accented with Cluny lace and Venise lace. The laces enhanced the front and back of the gown with a Cluny lace hemline, sweeping to a chapel train. A camelot headpiece with matching lace held a fingertip length mantilla. She carried a lace covered Bible belonging to her maternal grandmother, with a cascade of philaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and snow-drift pomporns.

Follwing the vows the couple presented to each of their mothers and grandmothers a long stemmed tropicana rose.

The center aisle of the church was lined with candelabra which were decorated with emerald, springeri and baby's breath and were connected by white ribbon streamers and large white bows. The front of the church was decorated with emerald trees, ribbon and greens decorating the standing candelabra. White mum plants and large floral arrangements completed the area. Floral arrangements were done in keeping with the attendants' flowers: large white mums, tropicana roses and bachelor button blue miniature carnations.

Mrs. Robert G. Miller, Keyser, W. Va., was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mary Anne Moreau, sister of the groom; Miss Maryella Bernhagen, cousin of the groom, Miss Lori Larson, Miss Brenda Sluss and Miss Joyce Cosgray.

They wore full length gowns of blue floral print, blue picture hats and carried wicker parasols filled with tropicana roses, bachelor buttons and white daisy pompons.

Miss Cass Matthews, cousin of the bride, flower girl, carried a white wicker basket of flower petals. Ringbearers were Matthew and Eric Miller, nephews of the bride.

Serving as best man was James Hughes, of Uniontown. Ushers were Jack Jones, brother of the bride; Phillip Welsh, cousin of the groom; Steven Moreau, brother-in-law of the groom; Francis Dulick and Mark Whyel.

Mother of the bride wore a full length deep coral chiffon dress with matching accessories while the bridegroom's mother wore a full length spring green chiffon dress with white accessories.

A reception supper was held at McHenry house, Wisp ski area, Deep Creek Lake, for some 200 guests. At the bride's table were five branch candelabras at each end decorated with tropicana roses, white snowflake mums, blue cornflowers, with streamers of coral ribbon and greenery. A four tiered cake was topped by a musical ceramic bride and groom, surrounded by matching flowers and greenery.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted Friday evening by the bridegroom's mother at Cornish Manor.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Southern High school and attended Robert Morris college in Pittsburgh. Her husband is a 1972 graduate of St. John's High school. He attended College of Stevenville in Ohio and Penn State university. He is presently employed by Westinghouse Nuclear Service division.

Following a honeymoon trip to Quebec, Canada, they will be at home at 121 West Pittsburgh Street, Greensburg, Pa.

Cecil Kight Retires After 33 Years In Soil Conservation

Cecil Kight, a man who has greatly influenced farming in this county through his dedication to farming and to his work, retired June 17 from the U.S.D.A. Soil Conservation Service after accumulating a total of 33 years of government service.

Mr. Kight began working for the SCS in October 1945 as a conservation aide, and had progressed to the position of engineering technician at the time of his retirement.

One of his largest projects around the county was the surveying for the flood control dams above Oakland on the Little Youghiogheny River, beginning in 1955 at Deer Park. Later he was federal construction inspector for the dams.

His everyday duties for SCS were to conduct engineering surveys, farm surveys, lay out contours, engineer drainage systems, and work with farm ponds. He began working with the SCS shortly after it was inaugurated here, and prior to that worked with the farm program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and as a field supervisor for John Carter, then county extension agent for agriculture.

A native Garrett Countian, he owns a farm of 140 rolling acres near Sunnyside and now plans to make farming a full-time endeavor, complete with 100 acres in crops and pasture and a herd of 50 or more Charolais-Hereford beef cattle. He has worked since his youth on the farm as well as for SCS.

Mr. Kight and his sister Lona care for their father, 94-year-old Edward G. Kight, a retired railroad conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Kight noted that his father is a mathematical wizard and can, to this day, add sums in his head as fast as Cecil can use a calculator. Mr. Kight's mother was the late Magnolia (Ball) Kight.

No farm is really complete without a boy, and Mr. Kight had one, in the form of a nephew he reared like a son. Louis Rishall is now taking surgeon's residency at the Charleston Medical Center, Charleston, W. Va.

Mr. Kight is rightfully proud of all his nieces and nephews, including Shirley and Joanne Kight, Allan Stahl, a civil engineer; Charles Kight, a pharmacist; Gary and Lawrence Flowers, outstanding mechanics, Mary Ann Hoffman, R.N., and Mrs. Eloise A Zacharias. He has three brothers, Charles, a retired engineer from the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Ray, both Mt. Lake Park residents; and Everett, an engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mr. Kight attended Sunnyside School and Oakland High School. He is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club, and the Knights of Pythias.

For enjoyment in his retirement, in addition to tilling his acres, he plans to travel to visit family and friends. He also enjoys watching ball games, which probably remind him of the days when he was an active participant in Sunday and Wednesday games. His love of music will probably revive now that he has more free time, since he has unearthed a violin from his attic. Until the sudden death recently of his brother and former farm partner Virgil, he greatly enjoyed sing-a-longs with him and his two nieces.

He was honored by his co-workers on June 17, the day of his retirement, with a steak cookout at Swallow Falls State Park, hosted by the local SCS field office and the Garrett Soil Conservation District. Guests were district supervisors and SCS and SCD employes in the Western Maryland area, including Washington and Allegany counties.

Some 57 were present. Gifts to Mr. Kight were a harmonica, a pocket knife and a clock radio. He will be further recognized by SCS officials in July, when he will be a guest of honor at the summer meeting slated to be held at Village Inn, McHenry.

Plan Special Program

The United Methodist Church of Deer Park will help celebrate the 200th birthday of this country with a special program at the Sunday School Hour at 9:45 Sunday morning. Many members will wear Bicentennial clothing.

The regular church service will be at 7:30 p.m.

An American Flag and a Christian Flag were dedicated in the morning service last Sunday by Rev. Franklin Mick, minister of the church.

Twenty passengers were hurt on a Frisco cable car incident.

FOUR FREEDOMS

To print the story of a day or the thoughts of a mind . . . To gather in assembly to express common concerns . . . To talk to the man across the street or the millions across the land . . . To worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience . . .

These four freedoms stand like sentinels of Liberty.

The first three have sometimes been marred by abuse.

The fourth is nullified by neglect.

Carry that thought with you — especially on Independence Day during the celebration of our nation's Bicentennial. And then, next Sunday, join all the rest of the millions of our people who are making sound and sacred use of their religious freedom.

THE AMBASSADOR

Lesson for July 4, 1976

Background Scripture: Matthew 28:16-20; Luke 10:1-24; Acts 1:6-8; 2 Corinthians 5:16-20; Ephesians 2
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:3-8

One evening several weeks ago, there was a knock upon my door. Opening it, I found a gentleman whom I had never seen before. I was quite certain he had gotten the wrong address.

Rev. Althouse

Before I could speak, however, he thrust a white envelope into my hands, asking: "Are you Lawrence W. Althouse?" "Yes," I replied, noting that the envelope was addressed to me but with a door number that was several blocks away. I quickly concluded that the letter had been delivered to his address instead of mine.

You shall be my witnesses

But I was wrong. He was not a neighbor, but a postal worker at the main post office downtown. The letter had been sent back by the carrier because the address was wrong. Ordinarily, it would have been returned to the sender, or, if there was no return address, it would have gone to the "dead letter" bin. The man, however, had taken just a few moments to look up my correct address in the telephone directory and then delivered it himself on his way home from work!

I was overwhelmed. " What's your name?" I asked. "I want to send a letter of commendation." "I'm just 'anonymous,' " he replied, "I'd lose my job if anyone at the post office knew I had done this." Thinking he wanted some kind of reward, I asked him to wait a moment while I got my wallet. "No! I won't accept anything," he insisted. "I do this quite frequently. It's my way of trying to combat the terrible decline of the U.S. Postal Service. I just want people to know that some of us still care!"

With those words he turned and stepped back into the darkness of the evening and was gone. I stared at the letter in my hands with a new appreciation for the human race and sighed a prayer of thanks.

Ambassadors for Christ

The man at my door was an ambassador, a witness. No erudite setting forth of his beliefs could have been more convincing than what he had done. He did not have to tell me what he believed was important, for he had witnessed to those beliefs in a way I would never forget.

This man's deed should challenge all of us who regard ourselves as Christians. We think of witnessing as something which requires elequence or the "gift of gab." We assume that Paul was not thinking of such passive and unimaginative people as we when he said that God had entrusted "to us the message of reconciliation." The phrase, "ambassadors for Christ," makes us think of the specially-gifted, the particularly pious.

Yet when we read the New Testament with open minds it must be apparent to us that when Jesus said "You shall be my witnesses...," and Paul proclaimed that "we are ambassadors for Christ," these men were citing God's expectations for all those who would follow his Son. Even me. Especially you!

FREEDOM OF CHOICE
Part of the basic concept of freedom in this great country of ours is that we may choose the physician we want to treat us and the pharmacy we want to prepare our prescriptions. This freedom of choice is part of our heritage and we guard it proudly and jealously.
We don't like to be told we have to get something at a particular place or from a particular person. Our pharmacy is proud to be part of this community's health team and we hope you will want to choose us to be your pharmacy.

Medal Honors Maryland Hero

The Maryland Society, Sons of the American Revolution has issued a Maryland bicentennial medal honoring one of Maryland's and America's forgotten heros, John Hanson.

The obverse of the silver medal presents the likeness of John Hanson with a reproduction of his signature. The reverse is the heart of the state seal.

The medal is apparently the honored in such a way. John Hanson served as first "President of the United States in Congress Assembled" under the Articles of Confederation. Although the office of President was not as powerful as that created later by the Constitution it was of great importance at that time.

The medal, limited to an issue of 100, was created by James W. Halbert, of Towson, with the art work being rendered by Diane Altizer, an Art major at Towson State College.

Each medal is made from one ounce of .999 fine (pure silver, numbered, proof quality and is issued in a blue velour display). A registration certificate of ownership, content and number is issued to the owner of each medal. The registration records are kept at the Maryland Society's depository, the Maryland Historical Society headquarters.

Information on the medal may be obtained by writing; Maryland Bicentennial Medal, Maryland Society S.A.R., P. O. Box 255, Riderwood, Maryland 21139.

Oakland Loses To Romney Nine

League leading Romney and Mt. Savage swept twin-bills in Pen Mar baseball games on Saturday.

Romney used a pair of hard-hitting pitchers to stretch its winning streak to six games and up its record to 15-2 with a sweep over Oakland 9 to 5 and 10 to 3 at Oakland.

Winning pitcher Bill Hunt hit a three-run homer in the first inning and sent home two more runs with a single in the fourth in the opener. He went the route on a six-hitter, fanning eight and walking eight.

John Fields and Rick O'Reilly added two hits each in the assault on Basil Armstrong. Craig Bosley had a grand slam homer for Oakland in the first inning.

O'Reilly hurled the first six innings of the nightcap before giving way to Wayne Mathias and aided his cause with two homers. Mathias also homered and drove in another run with a double.

Bob Finch rapped a two-run homer for Oakland in the sixth inning of the second game.

Oakland will play Mt. Savage this Saturday at Mt. Savage, at 2 o'clock, with a double header.

New Agency Keeps Council Staff, Site

The governing board has voted to keep the existing professional staff of the Health Planning Council of Appalachian Maryland and to operate out of the council's present location in Cumberland, according to Wayne B. Hamilton, president of the new Health Systems agency of Western Maryland.

The decisions, which are contingent on the approval from the Appalachian Council's board, were reached at an organizational meeting last Wednesday morning at Sacred Heart hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. Hamilton, a county commissioner here, was elected president of the new agency. Other officers are Sterline E. Bollinger, Sr., Frederick county, vice-president; Richard C. Mappin, Allegany county commissioner, secretary; and William J. Dyer, Washington county, treasurer.

The organizational meeting was held by the Health Systems Agency's governing board, composed of 16 members, four from each of the counties of Allegany, Garrett, Frederick and Washington, to be represented by the agency.

Mr. Hamilton explained that the governing body's chief role is health planning for the region and to prepare health systems plan.

The governing board on the other hand, has as its chief responsibility, approving the health systems plan prepared by the governing body, and, in addition, fiscal and personnel responsibilities.

Mr. Hamilton said that this nationwide effort in compliance with the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, has been described as "the last opportunity to retain decision-making authority at the local level in the health care industry."

The governing board scheduled its quarterly public meetings for the third Wednesday, rotating in each of the four counties, times and places to be announced.

Also the governing body met in its initial organization meeting. Officers elected included Luther E. Phillips, Washington county, chairman; J. Haig Jackson, Garrett County, vice chairman; R. Thomas Elliott, Allegany county, recorder, and Jesse I. Burall, Frederick county, fiscal officer.

The body has scheduled its regular monthly public meetings for the third Wednesday of each month at 10:30 a.m., rotating in all four counties.

In the body's organizational structure, advisory committees are being established in the following areas: by-laws, personnel, finance, state and federal certification, plan development and date collection, primary-quarternary care, and special health services.

Persons interested in serving on these committees may notify the Health Planning council in Cumberland or any of the four officers of the governing body.

Miss Riggs Wed To Mr. Moorehead

Miss Rebecca Jean Riggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Riggs, Bloomington, became the bride of John William Moorehead, Jr., son of Mrs. Elsie Moorehead, Piedmont, and the late John William Moorehead.

Rev. Meredith C. Shrock performed the double ring ceremony in Christ Memorial Baptist Church, Westernport. Carol Thomas was organist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of silk organza, styled with empire waistline, high "V" neck and bishop sleeves. The bodice was fashioned with a pin-tucked yoke and sleeve trim was cotton Cluny lace. The full A-line skirt swept to a chapel train, double edged in matching lace. Small lace flowers were scattered throughout. A profile headdress was covered with starched cotton flowers matching the gown and held three tiers of elbow-length French illusion veiling. She carried cattleya orchids accented with heather, mounted on a Bible with pink streamers tied in love knots.

Matron of honor was Kitty Riggs, Bloomington, sister-in-law of the bride. Cathy Warnick, Westernport, was flower girl.

Charles Saville, Piedmont was best man while Sean Marsh, Westernport was ring bearer.

A reception followed in the church social hall. Mary Ann Michaels registered guests. Carol Riggs and Rhonda Swisher assisted with refreshments.

The bride is a graduate of Bruce High School.

Mr. Moorehead attended Piedmont High School and is employed at Piedmont Housing Project.

The couple resides in Piedmont.

Two Groups Meet On Land Problems

Southern High School, Oakland was the site of a joint meeting of the Youghiogheny River Property Owners Association and Concerned Land and Natural Resources Owners, Inc. Saturday evening. The Oakland group is faced with action by the Maryland Legislature which would severely limit the exercise of landowners property rights along a section of the Youghiogheny River. The meeting was conducted bs Col. Richard Browning, U. S. M. C. Retired.

Dr. Tom Bond and Page Lockard of CLANRO, Inc. told how that organization came to be formed and of its present activities. Part of its effort is devoted to helping land and mineral owners secure a fair share of the wealth generated by extraction of oil and gas, coal, and other minerals. CLANRO, Inc. is opposed to the increase in government bureaucracy and to regulation of the activities of individual land owners by technicians and politicians with no interest in productivity of the secondary benefits of land ownership.

The Oakland group discussed the background of their problem. The legislation enabling the Youghiogheny River action was allegedly passed as the result of lobbying by various environmental groups, and is being administered by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. There has been no consultation with affected land owners. The Oakland area advisory board has only one landowner from the "corridor" designated by the legislature.

By the end of the meeting several courses of action were taken. Homer Mellott will chair a committee to look for additional legal assistance. A finance committee to raise funds will be announced in the near future. A letter expressing objections to the parts of the plan which will cause most serious inconvenience and loss to the effected landowners will be sent to legislators, with a request for a statement of the legislators' position. An attempt will be made to get support from other landowners in the county and contact other groups facing similar problems. The next meeting will be announced by letter in about a month, it was stated.

Only six winners were named in the angler's contest for the week ending June 20.

Chuck Asmar, Washington, D. C., caught a smallmouth bass, 19½ inches, 3 lb., 9 oz.

Tom Wenzel, McHenry, yellow perch, 12¼ inches, 1 lb., 1 oz.

Fred Barron, Deer Park, crappies, 14 inches, 1 lb., 7 oz.

Danny Fike, Friendsville, brown trout, 20¾ inches, 2 lb., 11 oz.

James H. Lohr, Swanton, walleye, 29½ inches 5 lb., 14 oz.

Winners are named weekly in the contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake—Garrett County Promotion Council. All fish must be registered at Johnny's Bait House on U.S. Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake.

Mine Reclamation Near Grantsville Is Beginning

The reclamation of an old strip mine area for a garbage dump for Grantsville has begun. After five years some dirt is being moved, according to Anthony Abar, Maryland Bureau of Mines.

Seed money for the state's plan to reclaim the mines that mark the face of nearly 4,000 acres of western Maryland was approved in a $5 million bond issue in 1970. Abar explained that actual work had been delayed for a variety of reasons, including troubles in acquiring property and the need to inventory abandoned mines and develop engineering plans for filling and sealing them.

Greatest concern with abandoned mines, state officials say, is the problem of water collecting and filtering through the exposed strata of coal bearing earth and leaking thousands of gallons of acid into county waterways.

The site being reclaimed is an abandoned 40-acre strip mine and deep mine site that until last year served as a public dump, and has been leaking 70 pounds of acid each day into Laurel Run, tributary of the Casselman river.

Completion of the $126,000 project will scarcely put a dent in the total job of mine reclamation facing the state. By a 1969 estimate it will cost $20 million to $50 million to clean up most of the acid drainage.

Deep mine areas in Allegany county will also be costly to remedy. By the end of 1976, according to Abar, the state is expected to have obligated more than $2 million to mine reclamation. The money is augmented by the Appalachian Regional Commission at the rate of $3 from the federal government for each $1 of state money. In addition, miners in Maryland as of July 1, must pay 15 cents on each ton of coal extracted toward abandoned mine cleanup.

Abar said one of the most effective methods of eliminating acid drainage is to encourage new strip mining in the same area. In the Cherry Creek watershed where the state inventory disclosed seven major sources of acid drainage, new mining has practically eliminated all acid drainage at no cost to the public.

The airman is A1/C Charles M. Thomas, of the 3700th Security Police squadron, was selected for his outstanding performance as a desk sergeant, a job normally reserved for more experienced persons.

Knotts Selects U.S. Air Force

Dennis C. Knotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert K. Knotts, of Star Route 2, Oakland, and husband of the former Miss Judy Baker, enlisted in the Air Force Delayed Enlistment program (DEP) recently, according to Air Force Technical Sergeant Marcel Jeanfreau of the Cumberland Recruiting Office.

The Southern High School graduate is already accruing time in the Air Force for pay purposes although he will not report for active duty until July 20.

On that date, he will board a jet airliner for Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, where he will undergo six weeks basic training prior to receiving specialized training in the Mechanical Career Field. This training is fully accredited through the Community College of the Air Force.

New Law Prohibits Night Spotlighting Without Weapon

A new law which becomes effective today, July 1, prohibits hunting of any specie of wildlife at night with a spotlight, except for stated animals, even without a weapon in possession.

The law states: "A person, or two or more persons together, may not hunt or attempt to hunt at nighttime any specie of wild bird or wild quadruped with a light, including the headlights of any vehicle and also between the hours of 10 p.m. and dawn a person, or two or more persons together, may not cast the rays of any artificial light when the rays emanate from a vehicle on any woods, fields, orchards, livestock, wild animals or birds, dwellings or buildings.

"The provisions of this paragraph do not apply to the normal use of headlights of a vehicle travelling on any public or private road in a normal manner, to any police, emergency or utility company vehicle using spotlights in the performance of their duties, or to any farmer or landowner on his own or leased land using artificial lights to check on livestock or poultry. However, raccoons, fox or opossum may be hunted on foot at nighttime during open season with the use of a dog and a light."

The new law was instigated to prevent the nighttime locating of deer for possible future killing, and is totally separate from the law concerning the spotlighting of game with a weapon in possession, which carries a much heavier fine.

The law will be enforced beginning today by members of the Natural Resource Police and other local police agencies. Anyone having additional questions may contact the sheriff's department or the Maryland State Police, who will refer to a local Natural Resource Police officer in the area.

Bible Schools Open To Children Of Community

Community children not members of the four area churches are also eligible to attend the summer vacation Bible school being planned from Sunday evening, July 18, to Friday, July 23, concluding with a picnic at McHenry fair grounds on Saturday, July 24.

Interested children of the community may pick up registration blanks at the Ruth Enlow library and after filling out, may be returned there or to one of the pastors involved, by Friday, July 9.

The Bible school will be held at both St. Paul's United Methodist, and St. Peter's Roman Catholic churches, other churches involved are St. Matthew's Episcopal, and St. Mark's Lutheran.

Muzzle Loader Weapons Usable At Deer Season

Muzzle loader weapons may be used during the regular firearms deer season providing they are 40 caliber or larger and use at least 60 grains of black powder, according to Ralph A. Bitely, Administrator of the Department of Natural Resource's Wildlife Administration.

A separate special season is being considered for 1977, biological effects of it are of major concern to the agency.

Requests from the public prompted a Resolution in the General Assembly asking the Maryland Wildlife Administration to provide a special muzzle loading season for deer hunting, but a special season cannot be established in addition to the regular firearms season unless it can be determined that there will be no adverse effects on the deer population.

Statistics will provide the Administration with the potential number of participants and the anticipated harvest. The Administration plans to obtain these statistics during the 1976 firearms deer season to study the feasibility of a special muzzle loader deer season for the 1977-78 hunting season.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. May Lee Mann wishes to express sincere thanks and gratitude to their many friends, relatives and good neighbors, for their many acts of kindness during the recent bereavement.

Perhaps you sang a touching song,
Or came and just sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent lovely flowers,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke comforting words
Or knelt with us to pray.
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us each day.
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food
Or you may have offered your car
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen,
Right here or from afar.
Whatever you did to console our heart,
We thank you sincerely, whatever the part.

Library To Show The "Search For The Nile"

Beginning the week of July 7th the Ruth Enlow Library will present free showings of an award-winning film series for adults, "The Search for the Nile." The six-episode series will be shown over a six-week period. It represents part of the library's participation in FILMS PLUS, an experimental project funded by the National Endowment for the Hunanities.

During the Victorian Age, the search for the headwaters of Africa's Nile River became an obsession with explorers from several western countries—much as the conquest of Mount Everest and later the moon were to become in the twentieth century. "The Search for the Nile" is a dramatized documentary of this true story.

The Ruth Enlow Library will show the series over a six-week period, one episode weekly. Each 60-minute episode will be presented twice in the library's film room, first on a Wednesday afternoon at 1 p.m. and again on the following Friday evening at 7 p.m. The dates of the showings to be held at Ruth Enlow Library follow: Episode I on July 7th and 9th; Episode II on July 14th and 16th; Episode III on July 21st and 23rd; Episode IV on July 28th and 30th; Episode V on August 4th and 6th; and Episode VI on August 11th and 13th.

Members of the audience will receive a free, illustrated Film Guide providing background on the series and light refreshments will be served. Because the presentation of the FILMS PLUS series is part of an experimental program, audiences will be asked to fill out short questionnaires giving their opinion of the series, the Film Guide, and the project in general.

The series is produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation in association with Time-Life Films.

Producer Christopher Ralling headed a British Broadcasting Corporation team that traveled thousands of miles through Africa over a five-month period to reconstruct on film the expeditions of six men and one woman. The object of their journeys: To answer the centuries-old mystery concerning the source of the Nile River, which flows for over a thousand miles through parched desert without a tributary or a drop of rain. The explorers included the revered missionary David Livingstone, the explorer-scholar Sir Richard Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baker, who sipped tea while cruising up the unknown reaches of the Nile.

The Ruth Enlow Library presented the FILMS PLUS series The Six Wives Of Henry VIII on May and The Spoils of Poynton in June.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank every one who sent flowers, gave food or donated anything in any way.

A special thanks to the Durst Funeral Home, the Swanton Choir, and Rev. Johnson and Rev. Oscar Hull.

Minor Accidents Involve Number Of Injuries

Some minor accidents during the past week involved some injuries, apparently not serious, one near Oakland one north of McHenry, and another at Sang Run.

Connie Sue Rohrbaugh, 17, a passenger in the car of George F. Rohrbaugh, both of Star Route 2, Oakland, was injured.

Rohrbaugh was southbound on U.S. 219 just south of Mt. Nebo road about 7 p.m. Monday, with Marvin C. Snyder, RD 2, Accident, following. Rohrbaugh stopped to avoid a vehicle ahead of him that had stopped suddenly to make a left turn. Snyder attempted to stop and started sliding. His car moved onto the shoulder where he lost control in the mud, came back on the road and struck the Rohrbaugh car. Tpr. L. N. Smith investigated.

The driver of a truck, Gary L. Williar, Hagerstown, was slightly injured when his truck overturned along Mattingly Hill road (Md. 42) last Tuesday morning. He was northbound and started to descend a steep grade. He failed to reduce gears, the brakes got hot and the driver lost control. The truck then overturned on an embankment. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged him with negligent driving.

William Richard Carr, RD 2, McHenry, was slightly injured in a one-car mishap Sunday afternoon on the Sang Run road at U.S. 219. Carr attempted to make a left turn onto Sang Run road from northbound on U.S. 219. An unknown vehicle had stopped at a 'stop' sign on the Sang Run road then pulled into the path of the Carr vehicle. Carr then swerved, lost control, ran off the left side and struck a tree. Tpr. Smith investigated.

Two accidents Sunday before dawn involved two unknown vehicles which struck mailboxes and disappeared. One was along U.S. 219 near Jasper Riley road and another along the Glendale road.

A truck-rig accident occurred on U. S. 219 at the Deep Creek Lake bridge last Wednesday noon. The tractor-trailer driven by Ernest P. Naundorf, Walkersville, attempted to clear the bridge supports, crossed to the center of the road and struck the truck of Clarence A. Long, Star Route, southbound, McHenry. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Uninsured Drivers Face Penalties

Maryland motorists face a "penalty fee" of up to $60 instead of the current maximum of $40 should their vehicles become uninsured for any period of time after July 1, Ejner J. Johnson, State Motor Vehicle Administrator, has warned.

Increased to $60 under House Bill 1440, enacted at the 1976 session of the Maryland General Assembly, the penalty fee was instituted in July, 1975, under legislation enacted at the 1975 session.

"This is yet another step," said Johnson, "to deter motorists who would otherwise drive without insurance. Even a lapse in coverage of one day comes under the provisions of the law."

Johnson added that the penalty fee is in addition to existing penalties for operating an uninsured motor vehicle in Maryland.

Under existing law, the Motor Vehicle Administration can suspend the license plates of an uninsured vehicle, as well as the owner's driver's license. To date, MVA has suspended both the license plates and driver's license of more than 45,000 Maryland motorists.

Seek Discharge Permits In Area

Public hearings on applications for National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System and State Discharge permits in Garrett County will be held by the Water Resources Administration on July 14 at 11:00 a.m. in the Westernport City Council Meeting Room, City Hall, Westernport.

The Grafton Coal Company has applied for a permit to discharge controlled wastewaters from a sediment pond collecting strip mine drainage to Laurel Run, at Taskers Corners.

Grafton Coal Company has also applied for a permit to discharge controlled wastewaters from a sediment pond collecting strip mine drainage to South Prong, Lostland Run, north of Taskers Corners.

The T. G. and C. Coal Company, Inc. has applied for a permit to discharge controlled wastewater described as effluent from sediment ponds collecting strip mine drainage to Vale Run.

The T. G. and C. Coal Company, Inc. has also applied for a permit to discharge controlled wastewaters from sediment ponds collecting strip mine drainage to Squirrel Neck Run.

The applications, effluent limitations and any pertinent details are on file in the Water Resources Administration, Water Quality Permits Section, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis.

Deep Creek Lions Have An Unusual Installation Service

Deep Creek Lake Lions club member Bill Thoman had a few surprises for the club at the installation of officers Wednesday, June 23.

Instead of the expected sit-down dinner and installation ceremony, Mr. Thoman and his wife Dana surprised the club members with a chartered bus trip to the restaurant and theatre at Jennerstown, Pa. Lion Thoman and Dana served hors d'oeuvres and other light refreshments to the members as the bus rolled along.

The next surprise, however, was one even Mr. Thoman had not planned for. A late start for the junket put the program behind schedule, so halfway to Jennerstown, it was decided that the induction ceremony should be held on the road.

Lion Bill Baker of the Frostburg Lions Club and past District Governor, officiated in the induction rites conducted in the aisle of the moving bus. To his knowledge, this was the first time that an installation of officers was held on a moving vehicle traveling in a state other than that of the club holding the ceremony.

Installed "on the run" were Jay Kamineck, president; Guy Miller, secretary-treasurer; Ed DeWitt, first vice president; Bill Robeson, second vice president; Bob Smith, third vice president; John Ackerman, tail twister; George Keller, Lion tamer; Larry Brenneman and Bill Graham, new Board of Directors members for two-year terms.

Is Fourth Of July Speaker At Accident

Pastor Margold Harman of Conover, N. C. will be the principal speaker for the Bicentennial Celebration at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, on Sunday, July 4.

Pastor Harman was born and raised in Garrett County, in the Cove, near Accident. He was baptized and confirmed at Zion Church. His wife, the former Amelia Miller, is also a former member of Zion.

Pastor Harman received his ministerial training at Ft. Wayne Concordia College, and was graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, in 1932. Following his ordination, he served as Pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Universal, Pennsylvania, from 1933 to 1953. He then accepted the call to become Pastor of Mt. Olive Lutheran Church in Newton, N. C. Where he served until he retired in 1974. Since his retirement, he has been serving as guest preacher in various churches near his home and throughout the area.

The congregation is invited to begin the day by attending the County-wide Bicentennial Sunrise Service at the Fairgrounds in McHenry at 6:30 a.m. and then to continue the day's festivities with Zion's Holy Communion Service at 10:30 a.m., where Pastor Harman will be the speaker.

Following the morning service, the congregation will assemble for a covered dish picnic luncheon and a discussion will be held of old times and new in the church and in the nation. The church bells will ring with others throughout the land celebrating the 200th Anniversary of the United States of America. An informal evening service, preceded by an organ recital by Mrs. Marilyn Illick, will be held. Pastor Harman and Pastor Illick will share some thoughts on the day at this service and the congregation will sing favorite hymns from of old. Members are urged to dress as befits the occasion.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear husband and dad, Floyd Lowdermilk, who passed away twenty years ago today, July 1, 1956.

Dear Dad you are not forgotten,
Though on Earth you are no more.
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
God knows how much we still miss you.
And he knows the tears we have shed,
But God whispers "he only sleeps",
Your loved one is not dead.
God gave us strength to bear it,
Courage to fight the blow.
But what it was to lose you,
No one will ever know.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
No one in this world his equal you'll find.
A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

Sadly missed by his wife,
Stella Lowdermilk,

Saturday Signs Up For A-B Basketball

Mike Saturday, former star center for St. Francis High School in Morgantown, W. Va., who set seven records at Garrett Community College in his two-year stint there, has signed a grant with Alderson-Broaddus College, head coach Gary McPherson has announced.

The 6-6 Morgantown native turned down numerous offers from schools in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia to accept the scholarship from the school in Philippi.

Saturday plans to major in physical education while at A-B and noted that the reasons he chose to play there were "education first, then basketball second."

In his two years at GCC, Saturday's record marks included three rebounding records, career highs for scoring, field goals and foul shots, and a seasonal scoring record.

Last season, Saturday was named the Most Valuable player of the Garrett Rotary Christmas tournament, selected to the National Junior College Athletic Association's Region 10 All-Star team of the Maryland Junior College Conference all-star team.

The junior college play helped Saturday's all-round basketball skills, according to the former Catholic all-stater. He noted that he gained much experience and worked very hard on individual skills while playing Laker basketball.

Saturday is married to the former Fayann Lewis of Hoyes.

School Supt. Voices Concern On Sewer System

In a meeting with the County Commissioners Monday, June 28, Dr. William H. Buser, County Superintendent of Schools, expressed concern about the progress being made in connecting the new Broad Ford-Southern Middle schools to the sewer system. The project as developed by the Sanitary Commission and the Town of Oakland is not moving as rapidly as the school board had expected, he said.

Commissioner Wayne Hamilton indicated the Commissioners have met with the Sanitary Commission and Town of Oakland officials to work toward resolving problems associated with the completion of the sewer system.

County Commissioner President, George Edwards, reported the County is beginning work on a connecting road between Broad Ford Road and Old Deer Park Road which is needed to take care of the bus traffic into the school properties.

Letter To The Editor

Facing A Responsibility

Dear Editor:

There are a few people in and around Garrett County who are familiar with the irresponsible conduct of several federal inspectors who sometime ago decided they didn't want to work and who should pay for their decision. The incident was of course at the Sterling Processing Plant in Oakland and as is the case today; now that the bed of roses has been made by these employes they do not want to lie in it. In essence, they want their cake and eat it too, it looks as if they will get it also. Whatever happended to the old American way that used to build the free enterprise system where men worked and were proud of working? What ever happened to the law enforcement where if a man wrote a bad check, he had to suffer the consequences of it?

Is is somewhat frightening to me to see men in positions of power, to abuse that power. I am speaking of federal officials as well as judges across this great land who allow the criminal to go free time and time again. To those who break the moral and criminal laws — be assured, for there will be a day of reckoning whether it be here or the hereafter. To those in power, remember you too will have a day of reckoning for that power stops at the grave.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Doyle,
Oakland, Md.

SPACE SHUTTLE

The maiden voyage of the first space shuttle will take place in March, 1979. Designed to cut the costs of operating in space, the vehicle is about the size of present short-haul commercial aircraft. It will be able to launch satellites and recover existing satellites for refurbishment. Use of the space shuttle will reduce the cost of orbiting a payload by as much as 80% of the cost using the present launch systems.

C.W.A. Delegate Attends Convention

Mrs. Flora Burton, delegate to the Communications Workers of America convention held recently in Los Angeles, announced this week that the CWA has broken its own record in collection of voluntary dollars for political education of its members across the nation and support of candidates they favor.

Nearly $440,000 has already been collected for use in the presidential and congressional campaigns of 1976, according to Mrs. Burton, who is employed at C & P Telephone in Cumberland and who represented Garrett and Allegany counties through CWA Local 2109.

The convention, comprised of 2,000 local leaders from more than 800 CWA Locals, called for full-employment and other strong programs to prevent economic chaos in this country.

CWA's next convention in June 1977 will be held in Kansas City, Missouri.

Girl Scouts Are Attending Day Camp

At least 125 Girl Scouts and Brownies from the Oakland area are enjoying camping experiences at Camp Friendship Day Camp this week, near Swanton.

On Monday, state park rangers Schoch and Fike visited the girls and demonstrated brush fire fighting techniques and exhibited various pieces of fighting equipment. Smokey the Bear joined the rangers to greet all campers.

Tuesday was highlighted by a ride on a swan boat provided by Noel Obenshain, Green Glade. Wednesday Craig Hutson gave swimming instructions. Swim time is from 1:30 to 2:30 daily, with Kevin Hahn and Keith Snyder providing lifeguard services.

Friday there will be a luncheon for the campers' families at noon, with each family to bring a covered dish. Following the luncheon the scouts will present a program for their guests.

Also during the week, the youngsters have been making various craft items, hiking, boating, learning to cook outdoors, and camping in pup tents overnight. A different troop stays overnight each evening. Mrs. Linda Fleming is camp director.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, (P.L. 93-234) it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in eleven (11) selected Western Maryland communities.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by the Rockville, Maryland engineering firm of Toups and Loiederman.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have the opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data (previous studies, highwater marks, photographs of floods, etc.) concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration. The Study Contractor (Toups and Loiederman) will pay photographic or reproduction costs to copy any usable information that is available.

"Faith Sharing" Is Zion L.C.W. Topic

Mrs. Leota Baker presided and presented the topic, "Faith is for Sharing" at the June 17 meeting of the L.C.W. of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings.

The program endeavored to help the group become aware of the experiences of faith sharing, and to sharpen understanding so that the members may take advantage of the variety of opportunities which are open to them.

Auxiliary memberships were sent to the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. An offering, given in memory of former pastors, Rev. James M. Allan and Rev. Stanley K. Armentrout, was sent to the seminary as a birthday gift on its 150th anniversary.

A washcloth shower for the Lutheran Home for the Aged, Kane, Pa., was conducted and a package containing 100 washcloths and two lap robes was sent.

"North American Indian Sister" will be the topic when the group meets in July.

Wed Saturday At Westminster Church

Miss Diane Elizabeth Sackett, Waynesboro, Va., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Sackett, Westminster, became the bride of Rodney Stephen Fike, Oakland, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rogers Fike, in the Westminster Church of the Brethren last Saturday afternoon, June 26, at 1:30 o'clock. John Earl Sayre, pastor of Beaver Creek Church of the Brethren, Bridgewater, Va., performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza and Venise lace. The sheer empire bodice featured a V-neckline outlined with a ruffle and appliques of lace and long sheer sleeves ending in an over the hand ruffle. The softly gathered skirt was enhanced with a side horizontal ruffle, extending to the hemline. A wide flounce ruffle encircled the skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of white illusion fell from a camelot bonnet adorned with matching Venise lace appliques.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of phileanopsis orchids, yellow tea roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. A detachable corsage was added to be worn on her going away dress.

Miss Cynthia Sue Fike, Richmond, Va., college roommate of the bride, and sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of yellow dotted swiss. The gown featured a ruffled V-neckline and empire bodice trimmed with a yellow satin ribbon. The A-line skirt ended in a wide ruffle at the bottom. She carried a wicker fireside basket of yellow daisies and white miniature carnations and baby's breath. She wore a floral headpiece to match her basket.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lynn Kay Hoff, Westminster, Miss Carole Jean Sackett and Miss Nancy Lee Sackett, Westminster, sisters of the bride; and Miss Ann Christine Miller, Richmond, Va. The gowns were like that of the maid of honor, all identical. Bridesmaids carried wicker fireside baskets of white daisies and yellow miniature carnations and baby's breath. They also wore floral headpieces to match their baskets.

Best man was Carl Richard Fike, Oakland, brother of the groom. Ushers were William Casper Heizer, Staunton, Va.; Michael L. Bowman, Vienna, Va.; Jeffrey Neal Fike, Oakland, brother of the groom, and Michael Stephen Dulin, Orange, Va.

Mrs. Barry Goldberg, Westminster, was organist and accompanied Nancy Eileen Hitchcock, Woodbridge, Va., soloist. Miss Caroline Leith, Richmond, attended the guest book.

Following a honeymoon trip to Florida they will reside near Waynesboro. The bride is a 1971 graduate of Westminster High School, Westminster, and a 1975 graduate of Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va. She is an instructor in Ladd Elementary School in Waynesboro. The groom is a 1972 graduate of Southern High School, Oakland, and a 1976 graduate of Bridgewater College, with a B.S. degree in elementary education. He plans to teach.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beachy, Oakland, who were present at the wedding.

Committees Will Coordinate Plans Of Harvest Festival

At a meeting of the Bicentennial Harvest Festival committee at Camp Hickory on Sunday, June 13, a coordinating committee was appointed to meet with the steering committee to coordinate the county school bicentennial activities with the bicentennial Harvest Festival to be held September 17, 18 and 19 at the McHenry fairgrounds.

Named to the committee were Gary Fratz, Randall Kahl, Robert O. Glotfelty, Charles Bowman, Maxine Broadwater and Margie Fratz.

People interested in demonstrating skills of the past or displaying old objects may contact any of the committee members.

Former Area Skeet Shooter Is Honored

Ohlen P. (Jay) Umbel, Jr., of Clinton, formerly of Friendsville, heads a list of six Marylanders who have received top honors from the National Skeet Shooting association.

Umbel, 29, was named the NSSA's rookie of the year for the 1974-75 season that ended last October 31. The NSSA, in announcing all of its honors last week, cited him as being the "group's best first year competitor." There were more than 18,000 skeet shooters in the NSSA.

A graduate of Northern High school, class of 1965, he is married to the former Sheryl Ann Tressler, of Grantsville. They have two sons, Jay R., and Christopher R. Umbel, who operates a service station in Oxon Hill, credits "good basic instruction and a lot of practice" for his quick rise to skeet stardom. He began by shooting two Remington model 3200 over-under shotguns but has since switched to a Kreighoff over-under with four sets of barrels. He practices a lot with James T. Cunningham, a petty officer at the Naval Air facility at Andrews Air Force base near Washington.

THE REPUBLICAN

Nation Under God . . .

Many wonderful celebrations occurred on our nation's 200th birthday anniversary, and television's portrayal was a part of it, but we wonder at the wisdom of television officials in having the president's message appearing at a time when church going people were not able to see and hear him. At any rate the President, Gerald R. Ford, issued the following message on the occasion of the nation's 200th birthday and we feel it is a vital message and one we should be proud to hear. It follows:

"America's Bicentennial is a time for celebration. But between the parades and the fireworks, beyond the joyousness of our two hundreth birthday, we Americans should pause and consider what our country means to us — and what it means to the world.

"The virtues of strength and of patriotism, of freedom and sacrifice, have been shared in varying degrees by many other nations, past and present. America's Bicentennial is a good time to ask ourselves what is unique about the American adventure.

"The hallmark of the American adventure has been an eagerness to explore the unknown. Americans have never hesitated to face the unfamiliar — whether it lay across an ocean or a continent, across the vastness of space or the frontiers of human knowledge.

"Americans have always been ready to try new and untested enterprises — in government, in business, in the arts and sciences, and in human relations.

"While reaching for the unknown, Americans have also kept their faith in the wisdom and experience of the past. Colonists and immigrants brought with them

Oakland Man Struck By Hit And Run Driver

An Oakland man is in "stable" condition at West Virginia University Medical Center after he was struck by a hit-and-run driver about 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

Arlie Perlo Breedlove, 53, Route 1, Oakland, was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital before transfer to the medical center. He was struck while walking along State Route 39, 5.2 miles west of Oakland.

According to the state police report, Mr. Breedlove was walking in the roadway when he was struck by a westbound car. Police are continuing their investigation, and have a paint sample.

Mr. Breedlove is a disabled veteran of World War II, from injuries at Iwo Jima. He is presently suffering from a compound fracture of his right leg and a deep cut on his chin.

Doctors at Morgantown say he has no apparent internal injuries, and believe that he is progressing satisfactorily.

GOP Committee Objects To Gov. Appointments

Objections to the appointment of Troy Gnegy and Brooks Hamilton as members of the Garrett County Board of Education by Governor Marvin Mandel, were raised this week by the Republican State Central Committee, and their objections were included in a letter sent to the governor on Wednesday of this week.

The Republican committee had recommended the names of Ernest Gregg of Oakland and Gene Zumpano, Grantsville, to those positions in a unanimous decision with State Senator Ed Mason and Delegate DeCorsey Bolden consenting to the recommendations.

In their letter to Governor Mandel, the committee members state: "While there is no law binding you to appointing candidates recommended by the Central Committee, tradition certainly dictates that prime consideration be given to the committee's nominations and it would seem to us, that if the suggestions of the Central Committee are found to be unacceptable, then courtesy would demand a full explanation to the committee."

The letter was signed by Brenda Butscher, chairman, Cleda Baker, Paul George, Ross Selby, Cora Bowser and Marvin J. Jones.

Mrs. Butscher said that State Senator Mason would voice his objections on the governor's procedure on the floor of the Senate when that body meets next January.

Schaidts Win Sailing Regatta

Veteran sailors, John and Susan Schaidt, Cumberland, took first place in the Rebel Firecracker Regatta sailed over the 4th of July weekend on Deep Creek Lake. In winning they nosed out Bill Cook, Deep Creek Lake, with Sally Carpenter of Pittsburgh as crew. Alan Douglas, Cumberland, was third, just 1 point in front of Ed Wetzel, of Pittsburgh, who finished fourth.

Other boats in order of finish were Rollo Farnham, Pittsburgh; Tom McGuigan, Greensburg; Bobby Seward, Washington; Ed McLellan, Pittsburgh; Dick Trevaskis, Cumberland; and Buford Saville, Cumberland.

The event was a series of five races sailed Saturday, Sunday and Monday and the skippers were exposed to all kinds of winds from heavy the first day to a drifter on the last day.

After the Regatta a trophy presentation ceremony was held on the lawn of the Deep Creek Yacht Club.

The next big sailing event will be the annual Invitational Regatta the weekend of July 24th.

Deadlock Remains In Dispute Between Towns, Commission

A deadlock remains in effect between the corporations of Mt. Lake Park, and Loch Lynn and the Sanitary Commission regarding non-payment for sewage services for these towns.

A suit was filed in late May against the two towns after they failed to pay sewage bills by May 24. The corporations were charged in a lump sum for transmission and treatment of sewage waste water after January, 1976. However, the towns had expressed dissatisfaction with the rates charged and so far have failed to make any payments.

A meeting was to be arranged between attorneys for the two corporations and the Sanitary Commission, but so far no date has been set. Jack Turney represents the Commission, Tom Dabney the town of Mt. Lake, and Tom Janes, Loch Lynn Heights.

Police Investigating Leads In Burglary Of Deist Pharmacy

Maryland State Police were checking leads today in a two-state area following the burglary at Deist Pharmacy in Grantsville early Wednesday morning.

The suspect broke out the glass in the front door of the pharmacy, on Main Street, but apparently was frightened away when an alarm went off, notifying police.

An eyewitness has come forth, explaining that he was sleeping nearby, and gave police a description of the young male suspect. According to the witness, a white male approximately six feet, two inches tall, weighing around 190 pounds was seen to have entered the store. He was described as having long hair and was wearing a dark jacket and trousers, and is believed to be between 20 and 30 years of age.

Apparently the only thing taken was $2.50 in change from the cash register, which is left open each night after the bills are removed. Pharmacy officials said nothing else appeared missing.

Detailed Levy To Appear July 15

The annual detailed report of the levy which was announced two weeks ago, will not appear until next week, it was learned yesterday from the County Commissioners' office.

The commissioners had announced in the issue of June 24 that the tax rate would remain at $2.73 per $100 valuation for the sixth straight year, and it was planned at that time to give the itemized account the ensuing week. But several items were yet to be worked out in detail which has caused some delay in the completed product.

Four Promoted

Four members of the Oakland detachment of the Maryland state police were advanced to trooper first class along with a number of other promotions in other areas, it was announced by Col. Thomas S. Smith, superintendent.

They are R. B. Westmoreland, L. N. Smith, D. G. Riggleman, and R. C. Georg.

Capt. S. M. Conrad, formerly stationed in Garrett county and formerly of LaVale barracks was promoted to major and reassigned from Troop "B" commander to assistant chief, service bureau.

"The Hollow" To Be Presented At Playhouse

Agatha Christie's "The Hollow," will be the attraction at the Garrett County Playhouse next week for the second performance of the season.

The author gathers some sordid types of people together in a gloomy country house for this offering. As is described, she "stirs their sensibilities, whets their motives, folds in a touch of opportunity and then throws in a weapon for the grim joy of it."

The play will be presented Wednesday, July 14, through Saturday, July 17, at the blue barn, on the Beckman peninsula, Deep Creek Lake.

Admission is $3.50 with $3.75 on Saturday with children at $1.50 for all nights. Performances begin at 8:30.

For the balance of this week "Four in a Garden" will be presented. The opening play is a quartet of short comedies having in common the locale of a garden apartment.

Players performing this week include Gerry McLaughlin, Paul Michael, Cather MacCallum, Ellery Edwards, Gwynne Sommi, Milburn Mehlhop, Joan Statkus. The plays are directed by Jim Morley.

Vacationland CB Club To Sponsor Annual Jamboree

The Vacationland CB Radio Club will hold its annual CB Jamboree this weekend, July 9, 10 to 11, at the fairgrounds in McHenry.

Camping will also be available. Events will begin at 9 a.m. daily and continue throughout the day. Everyone is welcome.

State Police Located In New Quarters

The Garrett County Detachment of the Maryland State Police has moved its office from the basement of the Garrett County Court House in Oakland to the McHenry area. The new office is situated in the former Harland Bowman home. The State Police have leased the entire house. It is a gold asbestos shingled, two-story house along the west side of US Route 219 half way between Maryland Route 42 and Old US 219, Deep Creek Drive on McHenry Hill.

According to Sgt. H. W. Graham, Detachment Commander of the local State Police, the move was necessary so the County Court House would have more office space for County employees and the State Police could have a more central headquarters within the County they serve. Previous to the move when the Court House was locked after regular hours and on week ends, the public did not have access to the State Police except by phone. Now, even though the new office will not yet be staffed around the clock, there will usually be a Trooper on Station. Troopers working from the McHenry office will be centrally located and more able to provide twenty-four hour service to all County residents with less response time. Residents of the northern area of the County will have less distance to travel to get to the State Police office when these trips become necessary. The McHenry Office will be located near US Route 48 which will traverse the northern section of the County. At present there are sixteen personnel assigned to Garrett County; eleven Troopers, two Investigators, two Supervisors and one Detachment Commander.

Sgt. Graham also stated that he urges every resident to change the telephone number of the Maryland State Police as it presently appears in the new phone directory to 387-5511. This number will be answered twenty-four hours a day. The phone books will not be corrected by C & P until they are re-issued next year. In the meanwhile special operators will refer all calls going to the old number to the new McHenry number.

Firemen Plan Large Parade, Two Dances In Oakland July 10

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a firemen's parade and two dances this Saturday, July 10, despite the fact that the planned bull roast and dance at the American Legion Post had to be cancelled.

The parade will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday through downtown Oakland, featuring 35 units. Companies from the tri-state area have accepted invitations and will join the parade.

The Mt. Top Promenaders, a local square dance group, will give an exhibition of square dance rituals beginning at 6:45 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall.

Fifteen men and five pieces of equipment responded, and men from the Bittinger company were then called to assist and brought one more piece of equipment and an additional five men.

Backpacking 100 Miles Takes Stamina, Determination—And New Tennis Shoes

One hundred miles takes only a few hours to travel by car, but on foot, even with new tennis shoes, the journey takes considerably longer. So discovered four young Pennsylvania residents last week as they backpacked the distance, considerably wearing down the soles of their brand new shoes, but not their spirits.

The young men, Mark Sherbine, 16; his brother, Keith, 15; and friends Charles Enderlien, 17, and Jerry Spaid, 14, conceived the idea of backpacking to the home of the Sherbines' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Richardson, McHenry, this past spring, and laid their plans carefully.

They each packed about 35 pounds of necessities in their packs, took a sleeping bag and started out. However, on future trips they plan to vary their diet by not including quite so much Spam in their packs. A chorus of "Spam" was their only response when questioned about what they had packed to eat.

The young men left Tuesday morning, June 29, and covered the distance by Friday afternoon about 4:30, averaging 25 miles per day. They spent the nights in camping areas and remained steadfastly on their own feet despite numerous offers of rides from passersby. Their longest previous trip was three miles to their grandfather's farm near Portage.

The boys stayed until Monday with their grandparents, then returned home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherbine. Jerry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spaid and Charles a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Enderlien.

STOP HERE for information, says the reverse of this business and services map-directory of Deep Creek Lake. The sign, erected on the property of The Deer Inn, Route 219 north of McHenry, is the brainchild of the Deep Creek Lake Business Association, in cooperation with John Reed, owner of the Inn. Various services are catergorized and listed after each business place. William Robeson, of Bowman's Marina, was chairman of the committee for the sign, assisted by Ivan Rowe, Del Carpenter, and Bill Thoman. The 12 by 8 foot sign was designed by the committee and painted by Kenny's Signs, Route 40. Erection of the sign recently culminated weeks of negotiations with the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Spying Not Limited To 'National Security'

New York—(HK)—Today, in the "post Watergate era," we regularly hear charges of illegal spying by the FBI and CIA—both in the U.S. and abroad. But spying isn't limited to matters of so-called "national security."

If you're applying for a bank loan, a job or a credit rating, chances are that the decision will be based to some extent on information about your private life and personal finances which has been gathered, for the most part, without your knowledge. This data is stored in files or computers, easily accessible to and readily shared with both governmental and private agencies.

This kind of surreptitious information gathering couldn't happen in Switzerland. A new book, "Your Swiss Bank Book" (Dow Jones-Irwin) by Robert Kinsman, explains the strong traditions of personal independence that have been Swiss characteristics since the 13th century. As you read about the unique Swiss penchant for personal privacy and, at the same time, hear Swiss "bank secrecy" criticized in the U.S., the contrast between Swiss governmental practices and those of the U.S. becomes obvious.

In Switzerland, the concept of bank secrecy has been under the official protection of the penal code since 1934 when Gestapo agents were sent into Switzerland to ferret out suspected accounts held by Jews and other politically unpopular people. It is, simply, against Swiss law for financial institutions to divulge any information about their customers.

Of course banking in Switzerland isn't for everyone. But, as the Kinsman book points out: "The more of an economical and political mess our world gets into, the more we have found need for the Swiss measures of privacy, protection and individual freedom."

Stop Underminding American Intelligence

"Without a strong intelligence service, our nation can never be secure." So writes a man who ought to know; former Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, who, prior to his appointment to the Cabinet by President Nixon, served on one of our Congressional committees that oversee our intelligence apparatus.

However, in a special article prepared by Laird for the May, 1976 issue of Reader's Digest magazine, Laird warns that, "We Americans are on the verge of doing ourselves what our worst enemies have been unable to do; destroy our intelligence services."

Since there is no question but that the destruction of American intelligence would be a major achievement for the Communists, it is not at all surprising that the Soviet-loving Daily World and other Red publications should carry on a steady attack against the CIA, the FBI, and other valuable intelligence agencies. It is shocking, however, that the so-called "Select Committee on Intelligence Activities" headed by Senator Frank Church, established to investigate alleged abuses by the CIA and the FBI, has made it patently clear that the intent is not to reform, correct, or better our intelligence, but to hamper and destroy it.

For what other reason would highly secret information, given to the Select Committee in confidence, be "leaked" to our enemies? For what other purpose would the Committee urge Congress to pass legislation to force the FBI to "shut down its political intelligence operations" other than to make it easier for the Communists to carry on their secret war of treason and subversion?

It has been argued that preventive intelligence be carried out "only in the case of a clear threat of foreign spying or terrorism." But, as any levelheaded American should know, the time to learn the plans of your enemy is before he strikes — not later, after the damage has been done. Then, it is too late.

Surely, Congress will recognize that the recommendations of the Church Select Committee are foolhardy. As former Secretary of Defense Laird wisely points out, this is a time to strengthen and improve our intelligence system, not destroy it. — U.S. Press Association.

Youth For Christ Has Good Record At Ocean City

The Mt. Top Youth for Christ organization was well represented in competition recently at the annual Ocean City Convention, with Cathy Reckner winning a first prize in the talent division and Judy Custer a seventh place.

Cathy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reckner, McHenry, placed first in Orchestral and Woodwinds competition. In the Concert of Champions she played her own arrangement of "The Old Rugged Cross."

In the vocal solo category, Judy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Custer, Deer Park, completed all three rounds of competition and placed in the top seven.

Lou Sturm completed two rounds in her first year at the convention.

The All Star Quiz team managed a sixth place finish despite inexperience of several members. Carolyn O'Dell finished the week with 310 points in one of the best performances ever achieved by a Mt. Top All Star Quizzer.

NBC is planning a special for its 50th anniversary of coast-to-coast radio programs in November.

cherished values and ideals — in religion and culture, in law and learning — which, mixed with the American way, gave us our rich inheritance.

"This unique combination of the tried and the untried, the known and the unknown, has been the foundation for American liberty. The true meaning of that liberty, embodied in our Declaration of Independence, is that individuals can be masters rather than helpless victims of their destiny. The purpose of our governments, as embodied in our Constitution, is to preserve this liberty.

"We must now ensure that all our fellow citizens share this personal freedom, and that all Americans have the opportunity to make the most of their lives.

"In this way, we will keep America young and strong as we enter our third century."

Four Attend A.A.U.W. Session

Four members of the Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women attended a leadership workshop July 7 in Frostburg. Delegates from other western Maryland branches were from Frostburg, Cumberland, Hagerstown, and Salisbury.

Representing Garrett County were Miss Anna Bishop, president; Mrs. Joan Lambert and Mrs. Sarah Smith, topic chairmen; and Mrs. Mary Clark, legislative chairman.

Dr. Barbara Gordon, Maryland Division president, outlined the purposes and goals of A.A.U.W. as an organization that stands for ratifying the Equal Rights Amendment; securing equal opportunities for women in education, industry, government, and the professions; strengthening the cause of higher education; monitoring and influencing local, state and federal legislation; fostering intellectual growth in education, international relations, cultural interests, and community; supporting academic and public service pursuits through fellowships and grants; conducting study/action programs on current social issues.

Locally, the Garrett Branch presented two name grants to the fellowship fund in May in honor of Mrs. George Hanst and Mrs. Leo Helbig. The study topisc for this year encompass world pluralism, economic facts of life, the 21st century, and society and the individual. Integrating all four topics, the Garrett Branch hopes to compile a book of their findings relating to the creative use of human potential.

Women who hold baccalaureate degrees are eligible to join the local branch. If interested, contact Mrs. Nancy Frank, Accident.

Brownings And Mt. Lake Officials Reach No Decision On Water Or Sewer

The Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park met with representatives of Brownings, Inc., the Sanitary Commission, and Mt. Lake Park water company Tuesday evening to discuss problems concerning the Browning Corporation and the town. No decisions were reached however, according to Russell Alexander, council member.

According to Mr. Alexander, the problem has been developing over the past six months, ever since the Oak Park subdivision, annexed to Mt. Lake Park, ran out of its private water supply from wells, and a tap by the water company, owned by the Sanitary Commission into the private water line from Broad Ford reservoir to Browning's Foodland.

Also about that time, the Browning chain came to the town officials and asked for a sewer tap into D Street in the Mt. Lake corporation for the Heck's Development. A vote was taken, and it was agreed that if the Heck's Development could be annexed into Mt. Lake, the town would provide the tap and a five-year tax exemption.

Brownings declined to accept the offer, saying that they have a 20-year contract with the Heck's renters and this precluded allowing them to be annexed.

The situation remains stalemated, with various Mt. Lake council members feeling as Mr. Alexander does, that "Oak Park water should come from the Mt. Lake water company, owned by the Sanitary Commission. The town is not in the water business, and should not be responsible for laying water lines." The town desires annexation to provide additional revenue.

however, that they will drop the issue concerning the annexation of the Heck's development, if Browning's Foodland will agree to be annexed to the town. Don Browning was notified of the decision, but no further word has been forthcoming.

Among those present for the meeting in addition to Mr. Alexander were Wayne Hamilton, Liaison officer for the Sanitary Commission, Edgar Harman, with the health department, George Perrine, Lawrence Groves, Paul Thomas, Jack Wilson, Mrs. Ethel Boltz, council members; Mayor Elmer Upole, former town clerk Mrs. Mary Wotring; Raymond Welch, Sanitary commission employe, Jim Colville, employe of Mt. Lake Park water company; Don Browning, president of Browning's Inc., his attorney Fred A. Thayer, and Tom Dabney, attorney for Mt. Lake.

Sets Tax Rate

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, at a regular meeting last night, set the tax rate at $1.10 per $100 of assessable valuation. This is an increase of 10 cents per $100 over the previous year. Previous to last year the tax rate had been 90 cents for a number of years.

Youths On Spree Enter Homes In Roman Nose Area

Two youths from Pennsylvania committed the "slightly" less than perfect crime over the past weekend when they broke into several houses and trailers off Rock Lodge Road after being given a lift to the area.

Garrett County Chief Deputy Frank Finch is investigating the series of breakings, enterings and larcenies which occurred between June 27 and July 3 off Roman Nose Road, Deep Creek Lake. The culprits left evidence in one of the homes of a drinking, eating and sleeping spree.

The trailer home of Charles Wadsworth, Wyano, Pa., was entered sometime between June 27 and July 2 by breaking a plastic window, reaching inside and opening the door. Items missing from his home were meats, peanuts and a battery-operated lantern, having a total value of $25.

The trailer of Matthew Filipiax, same area, was entered, also by breaking a plastic window, and missing were 100 rounds of .22 ammunition and assorted alcoholic beverages, valued at $40.

The home of Michael Froidevaux, Chevy Chase, was entered when subjects cut a screen and then broke a window and a sliding door with rocks. Taken were three heavy blankets, two small lamps and several cartons of beer. Total loss was $225, including $103 for the sliding glass door.

The spree apparently ended at the home of Daniel Speace, of Minnesota. Signs indicated that the culprits climbed up a porch post, broke a window and entered a bedroom which was littered with remains of food and drink. The culprits also left here the lantern which they had previously taken from a trailer.

24 Tracts Bring $138,770 At Auction

Man Arrested For 1974 Theft

A man wanted in connection with an $850 theft from a home at Youghiogheny Mountain Club nearly two years ago was returned to Oakland July 3 to await trial.

Ray Clifford Ault, Jr., 34, was brought to the Garrett County jail by Sheriff John Evans, Jr. and Deputy Van Evans from Houston, Texas. He is charged with breaking, entering and larceny at the home of John Brocker in late December, 1974.

Taken from the Brocker residence were a t.v., stereo, and household items.

Carl Wilson, 35, of Oakland, was charged with being drunk and disorderly by Officer Hobart Shillingburg of the Oakland police July 5. The incident occurred at J & M Market, East Oak Street. A trial is pending.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dye, 32, of the Grantsville area, was arrested July 3 by the Maryland State Police on seven counts of false pretenses by issuing bad checks. She was held in the county jail in lieu of $700 bond pending a bond review hearing Tuesday. Tfc. Daniel Tharp and Sgt. Howard Graham made the arrest.

Solar Energy Tested for Dairy Farm Use

SOLAR ENERGY HERE? These cows may not know it, but their milking parlor is being equipped with an experimental solar heating system, courtesy of the Energy Research and Development Administration. ERDA is testing the unit at the Department of Agriculture's Beltsville (Maryland) Agricultural Research Center to see if solar heating can save fuel and money in modern dairy operations. Energy from the sun will heat the hot water used in the Beltsville milking parlor to assure sanitary milking operations. The system will begin operating this spring and will be tested for about a year.

Solar energy isn't just for homes and businesses—it may be for dairy farms, too.

That's what solar energy experts at the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) are thinking, and to test this theory ERDA is funding construction of an experimental solar heating system for a modern milking parlor at the Beltsville (Maryland) Agriculture Research Center, a facility of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Modern Milking

Dairy farms with milking parlors produce most of the milk Americans drink. In order to minimize chance of contamination, milk is piped directly from the cow into a refrigerated tank.

Beltsville's experimental milking unit uses the latest dairy technology to milk 200 cows per day. Hot water is needed to assure sanitary milking operations; it is used to wash cows' udders before milking, and to wash equipment before and after milking each cow. Additional hot water is used for space heating during winter to keep pipes from freezing and to keep dairy workers warm.

Sunshine

Workmen are now putting the finishing touches on solar collectors for the Beltsville unit. USDA engineer Paul Thompson expects the sun to provide about 70 percent of the milking parlor's heating needs when the system begins operating this spring. Electricity will be used as a backup system.

Thompson pointed out that the Beltsville system uses the simplest solar technology available, so that results of this experiment can be readily used by farmers. Flatplate collectors mounted on the roof collect the sun's heat and transfer the heat to water that circulates slowly through the collectors. Hot water is stored underground in a buried, insulated concrete silo. It is retrieved as needed from the storage silo and used to heat the water for milking operations and space heating.

The Beltsville system uses 1,000 square feet of collectors, and its buried silo stores up to 10,000 gallons of water. Although this experimental system cost about $28,000, ERDA expects that costs to farmers would be much less, especially if farmers do some or all of the installation work themselves.

Typical Farm Needs

"We're a 200-cow operation, which is double the normal size," Thompson said. "A typical dairy farm with 100 cows would need only four to five hundred square feet of collectors at a cost of about $4,800." He pointed out that as demand for solar heating equipment increases and more companies begin producing it, prices will probably go down.

Starting this spring, USDA engineers will be testing the solar heating system for ERDA to see how it can be utilized most efficiently, and whether it saves enough fossil fuel to be worth the cost. If tests prove that solar heating is a good idea for dairy farms, there may be something really different on the rural landscape in years to come.

three Senior Citizen's Picnics was given by the Title VII Program with assistance from the Title III Department. About 250 Senior Citizens were in attendance, with 15 of those guest Senior Citizens from neighboring Allegany County. The next Senior Citizen Picnic will be July 29th at the same site.

The monthly Birthday Dinner was served at the Crellin Center July 1st, with Mrs. Agnes Lantz being honored as the oldest Senior Citizen being present in June. She received a bouquet of roses, compliments of Weber's Florist, Oakland. The Southern Rescue Squad demonstrated its equipment and took the blood pressure of Senior Citizens. A total of 128 Hot Meals was served that day.

The programs were made possible through cooperation of the Superintendent of Herrington Manor and Swallow Falls State Parks, Charles Thomas.

Letter bombs were sent to 11 corporations in the U.S. in mid-June.

Beckman Reunion Set

The annual H. H. Beckman reunion will be held Sunday, July 18, at Blackwater Falls State Park. Those attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch for a meal to start at 1 p.m. in the new pavilion.

All relatives and friends of the family are invited.

Human Rights In Russia

One does not need to cite the abuses heaped upon an Alexander Solzhenitsyn or Andrei Sakharvo to document the systematic violation of basic human rights that is part and parcel of the Soviet Union.

Take the case, for example, of Valentyn Moroz, a Ukrainian historian who since 1965 has spent all but nine months in Soviet prisons because of his writings. A Munich-based editor of the Ukrainian Review, Slava Stetsko—a leading Soviet emigre herself—recently explained in a radio interview that Moroz last year survived a three-month hunger strike in prison.

"He survived his strike, and now he has completed his sentence—it should be completed by the first of June—and and he'll be transported to the concentration camps," explained Mrs. Stetsko. "The Russians were afraid to bring him among other prisoners at the prisons and, therefore, they transferred him to an insane asylum and we are very much afraid that they will try, by means of chemicals, to crush his will."

Mrs. Stetsko notes the Moroz case is only one of many such human tragedies in the U.S.S.R. Which raises the question: Is there nothing in Soviet law to prevent such actions?

The answer is that there is a Soviet constitution which on first glance should prevent these widespread abuses. Article 125 of that constitution (actually called "fundamental law") ostensibly guarantees citizens of the U.S.S.R. "Freedom of speech; freedom of the press; freedom of assembly and rallies; freedom of street processions and demonstrations."

The sieve through which these "guarantees" go down the drain, however, is Article 125's notice that the freedoms are to be exercised "in conformity with the interests of the working people, and for the purpose of strengthening the socialist system . . . ." In other words: "free" expression is okay if and only is it parrots the Communist Party line, thus "strengthening the socialist system."

As Americans, we can be thankful indeed to live under our Constitution with its genuine guarantees of liberty rather than its Russian counterpart which makes a mockery of such guarantees.

OPEN LINE

By
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

What is the status of your resolution to curb post office closing?

Earlier this week Congress passed the resolution urging the U. S. Postal Service not to close or suspend the operation of any post office unless there is a clear and compelling need to do so. The resolution also directs the Postal Service not to implement any major reduction in service for a one-year period. Cost-cutting programs which do not affect levels of service will, of course, continue to be encouraged.

I understand the Agricultural Conservation Program has now been restored. Please comment.

Last week the House of Representatives approved funds to restore the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) and barred any restrictions and delays in using the funds. The ACP Program provides cost-sharing assistance to farmers to carry out approved soil-building and soil and water conserving practices on their farms.

Is there any kind of aid available to jobless homeowners who fall behind in their mortgage payments?

Yes. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) can, under certain circumstances, help jobless homeowners avoid foreclosure if they fall three months behind on their mortgage payments. The relief measures are available only to owners of housing backed by HUD-insured mortgages. For more specific details you may contact your local HUD office.

How much vocational rehabilitation training are disabled veterans eligible to receive?

Eligible disabled veterans may get training up to a total of four years, or its equivalent in part-time or combination of part-time and full-time training, and in some cases exceeding four years. Your local VA office can provide you with specific details.

Last year you discussed legislation you introduced in Congress which would ease the burden of estate taxes for farm families. What has happened to this measure?

The proposed bill to save family farms and preserve open spaces will soon be reported out of the Ways and Means Committee and will probably be voted on during this session of Congress. The legislation seeks to revise estate tax laws which are playing a part in driving the family farm out of existence by "forcing" families to sell their land in order to pay estate taxes. There has been a continuing decrease in the percentage of land in farms and a recent study shows that by the year 2,000 the total land in farms in Maryland alone could be less than 20 percent—a highly disturbing decrease from the 67 percent land-in-farms figure of 1945.

What kind of veterans' legislation is currently under consideration by Congress?

Two weeks ago the House of Representatives approved legislation which is of considerable importance to the American veteran. The first measure would make permanent the 8 percent increase in pension rates for eligible veterans and their survivors which went into effect last January 1, and authorizes a further increase of 7 percent to begin on January 1, 1977. The second measure increases the rates of disability compensation for disabled veterans and their survivors at an across-the-board rate of 8 percent with additional compensation for 50 to 100 percent disability. Under the House bill, the increase in disability compensation would go into effect on October 1, 1976. The Senate must now consider this legislative package.

How did you vote on the Public Works Employment Bill?

I supported this legislation because it will help to provide jobs for Central and Western Maryland and help to finance the construction of needed local facilities. Nationwide, 350,000 jobs should become available in the area of public works projects. In short, this bill provides meaningful and productive work for the unemployed that will result in the building of public facilities needed by our communities and the supplying of public services needed by our people.

I understand the Federal Student Loan Program has been extended. Is this true? Yes. Last week Congress provided an extension of the student loan program through September 1976 to allow time for further consideration of the program.

What is your position on legislation currently before Congress which will tighten offshore drilling practices?

I support the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act which provides for more stringent regulation of offshore drilling practices. I believe this legislation is essential in protecting citizens and the environment from indiscriminate exploration of oil and gas and will go a long way in safeguarding the integrity of our Maryland coastline. In brief, the bill requires the formation of citizen advisory boards in affected states as well as additional environmental impact statements by leasing companies. It particularly addresses the actual impact of offshore exploration before construction of facilities takes place and provides for a thorough consideration of State views on proposed drilling sites. Finally, more stringent environmental safety regulations would also be established to help prevent oil spills, and leases could be canceled for the violation of safety guidelines.

Spot Removal Tips

The remedy of fires and smoke damage requires skills beyond the skills of a homemaker. There is more to odor than just the smell. The location and types of material can present a problem.

The National Institute of Fire Restoration (NIFR) is an independent association of contractors and service firms that specialize in the treatment and repair of fire and smoke damage.

Wide area spray deodorization is an effective quick-relief measure for fire and smoke damage. If properly performed it can permanently eliminate smoke odor in some cases. However, for most fire damage it provides only temporary relief unless followed by cleaning and other restoration processes.

The deodorization, as in other aspects of fire restoration, there are many variables for a simple formula to be applied with guaranteed success. Effective deodorization of smoke is always a combination of the right materials, the right method and the judgment that comes with experience. One of the most recent methods of deodorizing is the use of ozone. Check the Yellow pages in your telephone directory for specialists in your area.

Scorch

The success of removing scorch stains depends on the fabric and how severely it is damaged. Soak stains on nonwashable fabrics several hours in 3% hydrogen peroxide solution after testing for any effect on fabric colors. Sponge washable fabric with warm suds, followed by bleaching and thorough rinsing.

The agency that handled CB applications has doubled.

Flag Raising Ceremony Held

Some twenty members of Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars participated in a flag raising ceremony and twenty-one gun salute which preceded the sunrise service at the McHenry Fair Grounds on Sunday morning. Members of the color guard also took part.

Traffic Mishaps Injure Several

Several persons were injured in traffic accidents during the past week in various parts of the county. Three involved motorcycle mishaps.

Timothy J. McBride, RD 2, McHenry, was thrown from his motorcycle on the Glendale road early last Friday morning. He was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released. He was rounding a curve on the Glendale road just east of U.S. 219 about 2 a.m. As he did the crash bar struck the roadway causing him to turn over. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater made the investigation. He was taken to the hospital by Elizabeth L. Holliday.

The late afternoon of July 4, David Allen Baker, Gormania, W. Va., was treated and released from the hospital following a two-vehicle mishap on Silver Knob road about a mile west of U.S. 219. Oscar T. Sines, RD 5, Oakland, was traveling east. Baker was traveling west and coming out of a sharp right curve. Baker then ran into the path of the Sines car and the two collided. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile charged Baker with operating an unregistered vehicle and failing to keep to the right side of the road.

George L. Jay, Akron, Ohio, driver of one car, and Mary E. McKenzie, RD 2, Frostburg, driver of the other car, were taken to the Frostburg Community Hospital following an accident on the Finzel road at Md. 546 last Friday about 11 a.m. Jay was eastbound on the Finzel road as Mary McKenzie was northbound on Rt. 546. As Jay approached the intersection of Rt. 546, he failed to grant the right-of-way to the McKenzie car and struck the side of it. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged Jay with failing to grant the right-of-way at an intersection.

Another motorcycle driver was injured in a two-vehicle mishap in Mt. Lake Park last Wednesday morning. Ronald W. Fisher, RD 3, Oakland, was injured when his motorcycle slid on some loose gravel as he rounded a turn from Md. 135 into Allegheny drive. Florence J. Shaffer, Mt. Lake Park, was eastbound on Allegheny drive, approached Rt. 135, and struck the motorcycle as it slid. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

One man was taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital following a one-vehicle mishap on U.S. 40 about a mile east of Green Lantern road last Tuesday night.

One passenger of a car was injured in a two-vehicle mixup at a favorite wreck spot, U.S. Rt. 50 and Md. 560 at Gorman, last Tuesday. Harry Lamon, riding with Johnny R. Jones, both of Gassaway, W. Va., was slightly injured. Jones was pulling from a stop sign on Md. 560 and attempted to turn left on Rt. 50 to go east. In doing so he pulled into the path of a westbound pickup driven by Harold E. Miley, Jr., of Moorefield, W. Va., and the two collided. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater charged Jones with failing to grant the right-of-way at the intersection.

At Herrington Manor, the week's schedule includes Park Orientation, interpretive and Junior Ranger programs 10-10:30; nature walk, 10:30-12; arts and crafts, 1 to 2 p.m.

Fridays there is a bird banding demonstration from 8 to 9 a.m., survival class and edible plant walk, 10-12; and campfire at 8:30.

According to John Willetts, seasonal park naturalist at Herrington, all activities will originate at the Nature Center unless otherwise stated. If inclement weather makes schedule changes necessary, alternate happenings will be held at the Nature Center, such as movies, slides, arts and crafts, stories, or exhibits.

Anyone interested in visiting the Nature Center to view exhibits of live snakes and wild animals; insects, endangered species, animal habitats, or hunter safety may check with the park to find when the Center is open each day.

At Swallow Falls, programs begin Tuesday with a special program, such as compass hikes or insect study from 4-5:30 p.m. On Wednesday there is a long hike to Herrington Manor (bring lunch) from 10:30-3:30; a sing-a-long or movies from 9-10.

Friday a nature walk is scheduled from 10-12; a trip to Herrington Manor Nature Center from 1:30-3:30; and a night hike from 9-10.

Saturday a bird walk or bird banding demonstration at the park office is held from 8:30-9:30; a nature walk from 10 to noon; a survival walk from 5:30 to 7; and a campfire from 9-10.

All participants for walks and campfires will meet at the ampitheatre unless otherwise noted. The newly-completed ampitheatre is located on the hilltop between the parking lot and the camping area.

Park naturalist is Bill Devlin, a Lonaconing native. Mr. Devlin is a recent graduate of Frostburg State College majoring in Biology, while Mr. Willetts is employed by the Allegany county Board of Education as a Life Science and Biology teacher. This is the first year for both as seasonal naturalists at the parks.

The Maryland Park Service, employers of seasonal park naturalists, has been sponsoring summer programs at parks for nearly 15 years. Anyone desiring further information on the programs may call the parks.

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. I'm a young man who needs the answer to a problem. I am at the crossroad in my beliefs about the origin of man. Was he created by God as the Bible says or did he come into being the way science teaches? I truly want to believe in God if there is one, but with this doubt in my mind I am really mixed up. According to the Bible, God and I can't be on the same wave length if I don't believe in Him. Sometimes I just think someone made God a hero to explain the beginning of time. Can you help me get my thoughts straight?

A. It is curious how persons can believe the preposterous statement that as complex a being as man came into existence without the benefit of mind and intelligence.

The entire universe expresses order and system, and these two qualities can't exist without mentality. And mentality is impossible without personality. Hence how can you have a systematic universe without a personal being who has a mind, namely God?

God makes sense. The world is senseless without God. However, an intellectual belief in God is not enough. Learn to know Him as a real person.

Q. What a problem we've had with our 19-year-old daughter! She's our youngest child and had just about everything she wanted while home. She has a good job; in fact, I got it for her myself. She had planned to be married and we gave an engagement party. Then she and her fiance really put it to us at Christmas. We spent nearly $400 on gifts for them—they really took us to the cleaners and hardly gave us anything. Now we find out they are living together, and this we can't condone. The neighbors say our daughter comes while we are away. She's stealing us blind. We have to get the locks on the doors changed. Where did we go wrong? Our three sons turned out fine. Please give us advice.

A. Sounds to us like you have babied the girl. You grew her up soft. What she needs is for life to rough her up. Don't give her another nickel. Let her discover the hard way that you can't live off kindly parents forever and get away with it.

By all means get the locks changed. Whatever you do, skip the permissive solution for it is no solution at all.

Q. I have a problem I need help with. There's a girl I met recently that I'd like to get acquainted with. How do I find out if she's not dating anybody else without embarrassing myself? Some guys don't seem to have trouble getting a date, but I never say the right thing. How do I find out or know if she's interested in me? I don't want to make a fool of myself.

A. Stop thinking so much about yourself. Just up and ask the girl for a date. What do you care if she is dating anybody else? Perhaps she will like you so much she will give the other fellow the brushoff.

If she doesn't, well then she isn't the only pebble on the beach. Skip that selfconscious notion that you don't say the right thing. Just be yourself and people will like you for it. Remember also, many girls are just as self-conscious as you are.

Q. I hope you can help me. This is the worst problem I have ever had. When a person steals from several people, including his family, a small amount of money and they don't know how much, should he estimate the amount and pay it back? I really can't begin to remember how much I stole and I am afraid I might not pay back near enough.

People say I worry too much about unimportant things. That gives me the idea I should not pay it back. The other day I had extra money so I put it in my mom's purse to pay back what I have taken. But then I was afraid I wasn't going at it right and I took it out and spent it. I'm all mixed up. If I don't return it will I go to heaven?

A. The answer is, pay every cent of it back. Pay no attention to people who tell you that "dishonesty is an unimportant thing."

Tell your mother and other people involved that you stole the money from them and show them a factual or estimated record of your thefts.

Then make a schedule of repayment, however small the amounts may be. And stick with it. Let us tell you that if you do not do this you will be a wrong person. And no wrong person ever turns out right.

Pay up!

Q. [To Dr. Peale]: I love helping people and I try to do a kind deed every day. There is so much in my life to be thankful for. But I have one problem I can't overcome. It is fear to speak in front of a group. I want to be able to speak at church and other places. But when I try I am lost for words. My voice trembles and the words just won't come out. Is there a way I may overcome this problem?

A. (From Dr. Peale): I have been speaking in public for 50 years and still feel nervous about it.

However, the bvasic secret is to forget yourself, and you do that by thinking about how much you want to help the people who are waiting to hear you speak.

Before you speak, mentally send out love thoughts to those present. Your voice may tremble a bit, but after you get started the excietemnt will help you forget your nervousness.

Our Foundation for Christian Living has published a booklet prepared in response to inquiries such as yours. The title is OVERCOMING ANXIETY AND FEAR, and a copy of it is on its way to. If others reading this column would like to have a copy at no cost send your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Q. I am a divorced woman. I'm very disturbed about this, as to whether or not I made the right decision. I divorced my husband for adultery, the first time six years ago. We were remarried a year later, but then we were divorced again last year. During both of these marriages he was running around with other women. I wonder if I have failed him and myself by not staying with him. He doesn't have a personal faith in God, and I do. Should I have divorced him? What is your opinion?

A. You divorced your husband twice, and there must have been many reasons for the failure of your marriages. Perhaps you did not keep yourself attractive and therefore he went after other women.

But that is gone by now. Try to get yourself organized inwardly and ask for God's guidance. Only then will you know what to do and be more competent to handle it when you make a decision.

And we are sure you can do this.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Washington Report

by
Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

Criticizes GSA Shuffles

Citing what he termed "the constant shuffling and reshuffling of federal agencies in the Washington area by the General Services Administration," Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-MD) has called on the General Accounting Office to undertake a comprehensive study of both costs and effects of such relocations before any new moves are undertaken. In letters to both the Director of GAO and the Comptroller General of the United States, the Maryland Senator said that his call for a study was prompted by recent GSA plans to relocate approximately 4,300 federal employees.

Under the plans, 1,500 employees of the Naval Ship Engineering Center would be moved from Prince George's Plaza, Maryland to Crystal City, Virginia. The vacated space in the Prince George's Plaza would be filled by 1,800 Health Resources Administration employees shifted from both the Parklawn Building in Rockville (MD) and the NIH campus. In turn, approximately 1,000 Food and Drug Administration employees (HEW) would be relocated from Washington to the vacated NIH space.

"This expensive game of musical chairs seems to be based on extremely short-range planning," Beall said. "I realize that GSA must remain flexible because of funding uncertainties and space demands, but I feel it is incumbant upon the particular agencies to develop comprehensive plans for future needs. If that planning is not forthcoming or is inadequate, it is necessary that an impartial study of the proposals be completed by GAO."

"As a representative of many constituents who are affected by such moves and as a taxpayer myself, I am not convinced that sufficient study and analysis of the cost-effectiveness and programmatic needs always proceeds a decision to shuffle agencies and people," Beall wrote. "Often agencies are moved seemingly for the sake of moving with no savings in either costs or energies."

The comprehensive GAO study requested by Beall would be directed towards: —determining the cost-effectiveness of the relocation proposal—both individually and in relation to one another; —determing the negative and positive programmatic factors of the proposals—both individually and in relation to one another; —determining the adequacy of short and long-range planning included in the decision making process by each of the respective agencies.

"Having initiated such a study," Beall's letter concluded, "I earnestly request that no move take place until the GAO report has been submitted and Congress has had the opportunity to review its findings."

Blackwater 100 Held At Davis

The second annual Blackwater 100 was held in Davis on June 20 with 474 riders and bikes participating. This cross country motorcycle event drew riders from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Georgia, Tennessee, Delaware, Washington, D. C., North Carolina and New York.

Director David Coombs of Keyser Ridge had planned a longer tighter course than last year but the heavy rains caused many last minute changes. Several river crossings were bypassed due to 18 inches or more of water. The legendary downhill proved less difficult than the new off camber uphill. Many bikes bogged down in the swamps and mud holes.

The traditional pre-race parade began with the American Legion Color Guard of Oakland.

An estimated one million dollars of equipment waited for the start. Riders were started five every five seconds taking ten minutes to clear the street. The 22 mile course was to be completed either by finishing four laps or four hours; which ever came first.

Overall winner was Kevin Lavoie of Cheachee, Rhode Island. Kevin finished four laps at 5:04 p.m. on a Penton. He received the black walnut trophy carved by West Virginia craftsman Francis Ihrman of Terra Alta.

The winners of the hand crafted coal figure of West Virginia's Mountaineer were Vickie Yates in the powder puff class from Allison Park, Pa.; Ted Leimbach and Bill Farmer in the 100 class. First place winner in the 125 class was Dan Drivosky; 2nd, Dane Leimbach; and 3rd, Dan Lees. Class 175: Winner, Tom Penton; 2nd, John Untied; 3rd, Richard Riddle. In the 250 class the winner was Rod Bush of Parkersburg; 2nd, Dave Standish; and 3rd, Terrance O'Toole. Open class winner was Joseph Lojak: 2nd, Jesse Queen; 3rd, Joe Perkins. In the 30 to 39 age group the winner was John Bardonner; 2nd, Terry Evans; 3rd, Marvin Radcliff. In the Senior (40 and up) the winner was John Penton; 2nd, James Peterman; 3rd, Harry Jeffries.

David Collins of Davis took 7th place in the 125 class and Fred Soltow also of Davis took 5th place in the 175 class. A total of 86 trophies were awarded. Among the 474 riders registered only 11 finished the required 4 laps.

Freezing Fruits

Add sparkle to your winter meals with fresh fruit! Freezing fruits in season at their peak of flavor can save you money and time later. The three methods of packing fruits and berries for freezing are:

1) With Syrup -- Less juicy fruits freeze expecially well with this method and are ideal for later use in fruit compotes. Freeze any fruit or berry by placing one-third cup of chilled syrup in each pint container. Then either add prepared fruit or slice light colored tree fruits directly into the container after peeling. Cover the fruit with more syrup being sure to allow head space of ½" to 1" at the top for expansion during freezing. You may want to place crushed waxed paper or foil at the top before sealing to keep fruit under the syrup.
2) With Dry Sugar -- Fruits used in fruit cups, over cereal, in salads or as uncooked desserts can be frozen this way. when baking, allow for the sugar added. Slice fruit directly into the container alternaing with sugar. At first, add sugar lightly increasing near the top. Then shake your container to distribute the sugar. Usually one-quarter cup for each pint or pound of fruit is adequate; however, you may wish to vary this according to your taste. Or, you may wish to place one quart of prepared fruit in a bowl and sift one-half cup of sugar over it. Carefully fold until sugar just dissolves and fill freezing container. Ascorbic acid or lemon juice will prevent discoloration of fruits.
3) Without Sugar or Syrup -- Most fruits and berries, except strawberries, pineapple, rhubarb, cranberries and blanched apples can be frozen without sugar or syrup. You may find the drypack method desirable for special diets -- or for use in baking.

For more facts about food freezing, look for future articles or call your local electric company or County Extension home economist.

Home-Frozen Vegetables: Like Money in the Bank

Freezing large quantities of home-grown or store-bought vegetables is like putting money in the bank. First, it helps guard against rising prices, and, it also allows the homemaker to buy large quantities of produce in season, when they are at their best quality, greatest availability, and lowest price.

And, besides insuring a good selection of foods at all times, freezing also provides the most efficient and safest way to store foods.

Which vegetables are best to freeze? The new Ortho book, "12 Months Harvest," gives handy tips on which foods are fine for freezing—and explains exactly how to do it.

Vegetables especially recommended for freezing are asparagus, green limas, broccoli, cauliflower, peas, rhubarb, and spinach. These vegetables retain much of their natural goodness and taste.

Other "good" vegetables to freeze, according to the Ortho book, include wax beans, kale, mustard greens, swiss chard, winter squash, and sweet corn.

On the other hand, vegetables such as cabbage, celery, chinese cabbage, cucumbers, lettuce, parsley, potatoes, pumpkins, and radishes are not recommended for freezing. The reason: they tend to freeze into a product that is very much inferior to the fresh vegetable.

Three Fined For Disturbing Peace

Three young men were tried in Westernport Tuesday by Judge Milton Gerson, and all were fined $50 and $10 court costs for disturbing the peace.

Gary Lynn Cosner, 27, Keyser; Larry Allen Corby, 20, and Anthony Craig Corby, 24, Star Route, Hutton, were charged in connection with a disturbance in Westernport. All three were also charged with disorderly conduct but those charges were merged with the other charges.

Two rare white tigers were born at a Baltimore fair.

By Senator
Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

The Fourth Of July

"Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto the inhabitants thereof—for it is the jubilee."

This glorious injunction from the Book of Leviticus (15:10) is inscribed on the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia and was read as part of the First Lesson during the Fourth of July service at the Washington National Cathedral. Then followed Isaiah's joyous paean (35:1) which begins:

Let the wilderness and the thirsty land be glad, Let the desert rejoice and burst into flower, Let it flower with fields of asphodel, Let it rejoice and shout for joy.

The honor of reading these beautiful words on the momentous occasion of the Fourth of July came to me. I undertook it as a "solemn act of devotion to God Almighty" to commemorate, as John Adams bid succeeding generations of Americans, our national day of deliverance.

Since the world began, there has been no people more blessed than we. This bicentennial year, which has summoned us to reflect upon our past, has quickened us to the richness of our heritage. It has brought us to the very threshold of our third century as a nation primed with the knowledge of our greatness and attuned to its responsibilities.

Now let us give to the future the vigor and imagination it demands of us. Let us:

—enter Zion with shouts of triumph, Crowned with everlasting gladness—And suffering and weariness shall flee away. (Isaiah 35:1)

Under The Liberty Tree

On June 23, under the Liberty Tree on the campus of St. John's College in Annapolis, we commemorated the departure of the last British Proprietary Governor, Sir Robert Eden, from Maryland 200 years ago.

It was a ceremony that again demonstrated the special genius the English-speaking peoples seem to have for reconciliation of differences. Robert Eden's very early return to America after the Revolution must have been grounded in his faith in reconciliation.

The reconciliation between these two great English-speaking nations culminated in the world's most powerful coalition in two world wars. The Magna Carta bespeaks reconciliation, as does so much that has happened since in the history of our relations.

What does it all mean this summer, as we commemorate the Bicentennial of our state and our country?

We commemorate an act in a drama—an important act in the long drama of mankind's quest for dignity and security and significance.

This is a drama spoken in English. The costumes change with the generations. The scenes are set on both sides of the Atlantic.

Even as we wonder how the play will end, we realize that it is not a period piece. It is going on in real times—today. And we become aware that we are not just members of the audience. We also are the players.

This is the message of the 23rd of June 1976—that we, in our time, in our act and in our roles, are part of a civilized continuum, and that we must infuse our everyday lives with a nobility that will inspire our posterity as we have been inspired by our forebears.

Listen Americans!

by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

THE DISAPPEARING FARM FAMILIES

When the Declaration of Independence was signed 200 years ago more than 80 percent of all American people lived on farms. Transportation was poor and each community found it advisable to raise most of their own food. Farming methods were likewise poor and most of the farms didn't produce too much. Today, however, hybrid seed and fertilizer are used freely; heavy farm machinery is bought and used and now the farm population has dropped from 80 percent down to 4 percent. Nevertheless, the nation is better fed than ever before. In fact, transportation has improved until an average American family can sit down to a breakfast consisting of oranges from Florida, grapes from California, breakfast cereal from Battle Creek, bacon from Chicago and eggs from Arkansas. Partly as a result of a better diet the average length of life has increased from about 45 years to about 78 years. The farm population has always been a stabilizing influence in America.

Today, however, the farm family is threatened. Inheritance taxes have gone so high and inflation has become so serious that when a farmer dies his family is often times unable to keep the family farm. Suppose, for instance, a family farm with a value, according to current inflation, of $1 million. Suppose the husband dies. His wife can inherit one-half of the estate but she must pay an inheritance tax at the national level and also at the state level on the other $500,000 with other very limited deductions. Consequently, the federal estate tax alone would probably be about $340,000 which the family would probably not have. Consequently, they would be forced to sell part of the farm or the whole of it. It would probably be bought by a large corporate farming concern and a farm family would disappear.

There is not a Bill in Congress to improve this situation. It would decrease the inheritance tax and would allow for a larger amount to be passed on, free of tax, from generation to generation. This Bill should be passed. You might like to encourage your Congressman to favor it. The preservation of our farm families is important to the stability of the nation and the well-being of us all.

Years ago when I was in China I found that ancient civilization had divided its people into five distict classes. First among these was the educators, the most famous of whom of course, was Confucius. This was a good choice because knowledge is power. A nation's educators are very valuable to the nation and certainly influential.

The second class, however, was the farmers. These were the men who fed the nation and China valued them very highly. Most of them could neither read nor write but they were men of integrity and honor. They were the group that gave stability to the country.

When I was in Zambia, Africa a few years ago, a prominent official, placing great store in education — the right kind of education — said to me: "The Christian religion offers our only hope to building the kind of character that can make Zambia a great nation." The country's next concern has been the development of agriculture. They are concerned about the large number of people that are leaving the small farms and moving into the cities. They are doing everything they can to stabilize the farm population.

In American we would do well to think soberly about preserving our farm families. The nation needs the stability that this group is providing.

Balance Of Power

We noted in a wire service news story the comment of a citizen who declared that he was not going to vote for a certain candidate for public office "because he (the candidate) would get us involved in foreign affairs."

We can sympathize with this particular individual, and indeed any American, who might wish that the United States could stay "uninvolved" with other nations throughout the world. All of us can share a certain empathy with the title of a play that was popular on Broadway some time ago—"Stop the World—I want to get off!"

Unfortunately, however strong our emotions or desires, there is no way that the United States of America can cut itself off from the rest of the world and survive—at least, not today. For one thing, we are absolutely dependent upon an enormous quantity of raw materials to sustain our industry and way of life. Take the matter of petroleum, alone. If our foreign sources of oil were to be cut off, and if we were to maintain light, power, and industry at its present rate, there would be NO gasoline available for personal and family uses—none. That would mean no vacation trips, no Sunday rides in the country (or even to church), no gas to go to the grocery store or the shopping mall, no motorcycles, no motor homes, no power lawn mowers—etc., etc., etc.

It is not likely that the American people will want to go back to horses and buggies—but it will be either that, or an awful lot of walking. And have you walked all the way to work, or the grocery store, recently?

Not only that, but the free world is very dependent upon goods and services provided by the United States.

But, even if we were to disregard world trade and world economics—which we cannot—can we neglect our responsibility to maintain a balance of world power in favor of the free nations? And again, the answer is that we cannot. We cannot remain safe, and secure, and free, and let the rest of the world sink in a sea of Soviet slavery. When any nation and indeed any man loses his freedom anywhere in the world, we lose, too.

Like it or not, the fate and the future of the United States is irrevocably tied with the fate of the rest of the world, and no political candidate or political party can change that fact. That being true, we can but hope that the American people will vote into office those candidates who will best maintain the strength and security of what remains of the free world. —U.S. Press Association.

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Marriage Partner—Money Partner Too

By Willis W. Alexander
Executive Vice President
American Bankers Association

When a couple says "I do," they are also forming a business partnership of scope and importance.

Financial advisors say this new and volatile business arrangement will get off to the best start with "a little trust and a long conversation."

The first order of business should be a joint decision about goals — and preferably before the marriage takes place. Aside from necessities, what will you use your money for? A house? A trip to the Orient? Another college degree?

If you agree about these things, move on to the next step: who is going to handle what? Paying the bills and keeping the records are a necessary part of the business, and many marriage partners feel happiest when they are shared.

These two things taken care of, you are set for the nitty-gritty of budget, records, bank accounts, savings and credit.

- Budget — to set this up you need to estimate your income for a year, and establish a spending pattern over a period of say two months by jotting down literally everything you spend. Group your spending into categories such as food, rent, transportation, medical, recreation, savings, etc. The pattern will tell you how much you need in each category and where you can cut back under a budget.
- Records — you'll need them for taxes, insurance policies and problems that might arise after a purchase. One good system for maintenance is simply to keep the various categories in large labeled envelopes, although the more important documents should go into a safe deposit box in your bank.
- Bank accounts — will they be joint or separate? Though joint accounts offer a nice psychological "unity" and escape probate upon the death of one partner, they do present problems of communication. And at death, they can be sealed from your spouse until a review has been made by tax agents.
- Savings — how will you do it? One good way is to "bill yourself" each month in a mandatory fashion and deposit five to seven per cent of your paycheck as soon as it arrives. Set aside one month's pay or more for emergencies.
- Credit — needs to be established by paying your bills on time, maintaining a stable work record and building a relationship with a bank. Use the same one for your accounts and loans.

Out Of Sight ... Out Of Mind?

One of the greatest energy users in your home may be "out of sight, out of mind" to you, but its work will surely show up on your utility bill. We're talking about the water heater, a few simple procedures can save you water and money ...

1. Take showers, not baths. You'll use far less water and thus far less energy.
2. Fix leaky faucets. A dripping faucet can waste 2,500 gallons of water a year! And, in the process, you'll be using over 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity.
3. Insulate pipes. Wrap insulation around pipes leading from the water heater tank. This cuts back on heat loss as the water travels to the point of use.
4. Keep it working at top efficiency. Drain sediment from the bottom of the tank several times a year -- more often in hard water areas.
5. Turn it off. If you plan to be away from home for several days, simply turn the water heater off. Why provide hot water for an empty house?
6. Check thermostat setting. For normal needs, your water heater's thermostat may be set as low as 120°. If you have a dishwasher, the setting should be 140° so the detergent will dissolve.

There are many ways you and your family can reduce the amount of energy you use and cut back on utility bills. For more, free information just write or call you County Extension Office or your electric company.

Save energy and you'll save money!

Woman Charged Passing Seven Bad Checks

A Grantsville woman has been released on her own recognizance under $250 bond on passing seven worthless checks at Grantsville Foodland during May and June.

Elizabeth Dye, 30, National Hotel, has been charged with passing the seven checks totaling $175. Two were passed the same day. The first was dated May 3 and the last June 9. Two checks were unnumbered and several carried the same number. She was arrested July 3 and held under full $700 bond. A bond hearing was held in District Court Monday before Judge Lewis R. Jones and Mrs. Dye was released on her own recognizance under $250 bond.

Donald Lee Dye, also of Grantsville, had been charged with assault and battery on Elizabeth D. Dye on Main street in Grantsville June 25. At a trial Monday he pleaded not guilty. The case was then dismissed as the wife, Mrs. Dye, refused to testify.

Several other cases were heard in District Court Monday.

George Teets, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Betty Lee Garrett in Mt. Lake Park June 22. At Monday's trial, he was found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

Carl Wilson, Jr., Poplar street, Oakland, pleaded not guilty of disturbing the public peace in Oakland June 15. At the trial his plea was sustained.

Cynthia J. Barlow, Albright, W. Va., had been charged with false pretense by receiving goods and money by passing a bad check at Healthland in Oakland January, 1975. The case was dismissed Monday as full restitution had been made, and having no previous record.

In March, 1976, he moved to vice president and manager, and in April of that year was named vice president and regional manager of the Anne Arundel, Annapolis region.

He and his wife, the former Donna Edwards, of Grantsville, and their son Michael, now reside in Annapolis, having moved there from Rockville in February.

Both are graduates of Northern High school with the former graduating from the Univeristy of Maryland, night school, in 1973. He plans to return to the university in pursuit of his master's degree in general business studies. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Selby, of Friendsville.

Thirteen Killed On State Roads

Thirteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by the newly appointed commander, 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan, of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed seven were drivers, one was a passenger and five were pedestrians. Two motorcyclists lost their lives in Maryland last week, bringing the total to twenty-nine this year to date.

Holiday weekends are said to be more dangerous for travel due to the extraordinary heavy traffic on the roadways. Maryland drivers are to be complimented for their exercise in safety during this Bicentennial Holiday, Lt. Morgan said. Statistics show a reduction of nine as compared with last year. The safest drivers are those who not only obey the traffic rules, but stay alert for other drivers who do not.

Persons killed through July 4 totaled 310 compared to 361 for the same period last year.

A French invention is said to be replacing gasoline.

A favorite activity of youngsters at the Child Development day camp at Broad Ford was playtime with a regulation size red and white parachute. All types of imaginative games could be played using the silk. Another day camp is currently underway at New Germany Camp for youngsters in the northern part of the county, under direction of Mrs. Patti Wright and Garrett Community College. Youngsters are given supervised activities each day, using the parachute, cage ball, stretch rope, and also take nature walks, go fishing, learn swimming and participate in various other pastimes under direction of Mrs. Dot Leuba, camp director.

Awesome effort is evident in the lines of this young man's body as he endeavors to complete a jump over the stretch rope. Going over or under the rope was part of many activities at the Child Development day camp held at Broad Ford Recreation area. Mrs. Patti Wright is director of the program, under the sponsorship of the Garrett Community College. Some 62 youngsters attended the first three weeks of camp.

Child Development Project Sponsoring First Day Camp

The halfway mark for a summer day camp operated by the Child Development Project, division of Garrett Community College, at Broad Ford Recreation area, has been reached, and results of the efforts expended by the staff are becoming evident.

Children from two to ten years of age have been attending the camp four days a week from 10 until 2:30 since June 8. An average of 62 youngsters were present for the first three weeks, from the Oakland, Crellin, Kitzmiller, Gorman, Red Oak, Pleasant Valley and Red House areas. Now the camp attendance has been reduced to a "core" of youngsters from Bradley Manor, Oakland, Loch Lynn, and a few from Crellin.

A typical day begins with breakfast from foods purchased by the Child Development Center and prepared by Mrs. Brenda Butts, cook, assisted by Mrs. Adeline Grier, health Coordinator.

Ten minutes of free play allow the camp director, Mrs. Dot Leuba, to prepare for the day's activities, designed to promote large and small muscle coordination. For one-half hour, large muscles are helped through play with plastic tubes, inner tubes, a stretch rope, a cage ball or a regulation-size, red and white silk parachute, which provides one of the children's favorite activities.

A nature walk and a chance to fish precede a breakdown into small groups of children for additional coordination help. Lunch is followed by a one-half hour rest period prior to swimming and water play.

A snack is offered before the trip home via the Child Development bus, operated by Rick Wildesen, or on one of the Garrett Bus System vehicles.

Friday is special activity day, and so far Smokey the Bear and a ventriloquist have been guests of honor. Pony rides will be a highlight next week.

A second day camp was established at New Germany State Park June 29 for youngsters from the Grantsville, Jennings, Finzel, Accident and Friendsville areas. Instructors will be Mrs. Carolyn Garlitz and Miss Pam Workman.

In charge of the programs is Mrs. Patti Wright, director. Assistants include Mrs. Peggy Lambert, resource coordinator; Mrs. Joan Harvey, Mrs. Donna Cook, Mrs. Juanita Stonebraker, Mrs. Junell Harsh, Mrs. Mabel Jones, Miss Judy Lewis, Mrs. Margaret Mellington, and Mrs. Louise Harvey, parent involvement coordinator. Parents are made welcome and can assist in many ways.

Neighborhood Youth Corps helpers are Cindy Wildesen, Tammy Lewis and Debbie Corby. On Wednesdays Scott Ward, Psychologist with the county health department, visits the groups for a parent education program. Kathy Wright, Child Development specialist, and Tom Graybill, speech therapist, also with the health department, work with the youngsters.

Although this is the first day camp set up by the Child Development group, responses from parents, staff and especially participants indicated that a camp next year would be eagerly awaited. It seems they can never get their fill of being under that parachute when it drifts gently down...

Walking across play tubes helps promote good coordination for youngsters from two to ten who have been attending the Child Development day camp sponsored at Broad Ford Recreation area. Much improvement could be noted in most of the youngsters at the conclusion of the first four weeks, according to Mrs. Dorothy Leuba, camp director and phys ed instructor.

BLOOD BROTHERS

We're always encountering the heredity versus environment controversy . . . even when we think about brothers. Is blood primarily responsible for the bond of comradery and affection pictured here?

Or did the influence of parents and the atmosphere of their home largely inspire this relationship?

History suggests the answer in man's religious growth: it was when he came to know God as his Father that he began to think of other men as his Brothers.

The beliefs that draw families to church on Sunday inspire the dimensions of brotherhood every day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT DO I LACK?

Lesson for July 11, 1976

Background Scripture:
Matthew 16:24-26; 19:16-30;
2 Corinthians 6:14 through 7:1;
Colossians 2:16-23.
Devotional Reading:
I Corinthians 12:1-13.

The story of the "Rich Young Ruler" (as it is more commonly known), is one of those stories that can easily — though not comfortably — be personalized. Try reading it sometime and substituting the pronoun "I" for the young man who came to Jesus inquiring of eternal life.

Rev. Althouse

"I've done it all!"

It doesn't take too much imagination to hear ourselves saying to Jesus, "Lord, what remains for me to do in order to be assured of eternal life?" We may not verbalize it very often to our friends and neighbors, but many of us, like the young man in the story, are concerned to find assurance of eternal life. No pastor who visits the sick and the dying can be unaware of that deep concern.

I must assume that the young man in Matthew 19 was sincere in his question, yet, at the same time, there was also at work in him a certain smug pride. It was the kind of question which is asked by someone who anticipates that the answer is going to be to his favor. Consciously or unconsciously, he is not so much asking a question as he is seeking a "pat on the head."

One of the reasons I say this is that the young man seems to be so "wrapped up in himself" that he misses what Jesus says to him in the response to his initial question. "Why do you ask me about what is good," says Jesus, "One there is who is good." It is as if Jesus already knows what is in this man's mind: he knows the man is rather proud of his own righteousness. So he reminds the man that no one but God alone is perfectly good.

The young man, however, seems to miss this statement and only hears Jesus say: "If you would enter life, keep the commandments" (19:17). "Which?" replies the young man, still smugly, for when Jesus digests the Ten Commandments, the young man is eager to reply: "All these I have observed; what do I still lack?" (19:20). The question he asks skirts the edge of being an outright boast.

His possessions were great

With his amazing insight into this young man, Jesus challenged him in the one area where the man was extremely vulnerable: his love of material possessions. We must realize that Jesus is not laying down this challenge for all Christians, for material possessions are not the stumbling block for some that they are for others. He challenged this young man to give away all he had because he knew this was the man's weakness. He really did want eternal life (just as we do), but he wanted something even more (just as many of us do).

For all of his faithful keeping of the commandments, the man lacked the one thing that was most important: a generous, loving heart. So it may be with us: we may keep the rules, be good churchmen, live lives that seem beyond reproach. Yet for all that goodness, we may still lack the most important thing of all.

I know what I lack. What about you?

COMMUNITY ACTION GROUP RECEIVES VANS — Norman Hall, left, transportation development director, Mass Transit Administration of the Maryland Department of Transportation, presents two 15-passenger vans to G. Bradford Rinard, right, executive director, Garrett County Community Action Committee. The vans, which will transport elderly and handicapped people in the county, were bought with 80 percent federal funds and 20 percent Community Action Committee funds under a federal program for transit aid to the elderly and handicapped. The Mass Transit Administration purchases vehicles, inspects them and turns them over to non-profit organizations whose applications have been approved by the Governor's Interagency Committee on Specialized Transportation.

Account Given Of Peter DeWitt In Revolutionary War

An account of Peter DeWitt and some of his activities during the Revolutionary war of 1776 compiled from notes recorded by Charles E. Hoye, and now in the hands of Mrs. William H. DeWitt, Crellin, are being recorded in The Republican. This is the third in a series of accounts.

He states he served a tour in the following way—In the year 1777 there was a man by the name of James Night who had deserted the U. S. Army and Capt. (whose name he has forgotten) advertised that if any man would arrest him he should receive a discharge for six months.

"Note"—(While it doesn't state specifically at what season of year, in all probability he took his discharge in warm weather in order to farm). He states that he immediately started in search of him and after hunting several days through an enemy country consisting of Tories and Indians he says he found him and arrested him and lodged him in safety in Romney jail in Hampshire county, Va. and for this he says he got a discharge for six months—he says on the march he was at considerable trouble and expense and much fatigue and danger before he found him. (He probably worked up through Garrett county and back on the old McCullough Path running through Sunnyside). He thinks therefore he ought to have an allowance for it, as he performed the service required by the government.

He states he served many other tours, the particulars of which he has forgotten and therefore claims nothing for them—the length of time as above putting together will amount to 15 months, allowing for the six months last mentioned, if not more.

He states he has a record of his age in an old Dutch Bible near 200 years old, and it makes him 81 years old on the 8th of July next. He has already stated where he was living when called into the service—also the manner of entering the service.

He says that as his services were in the way as above described he had no opportunity for forming any acquaintances with the regular officers. As to a discharge he states that he has named above, tho some never received a written discharge. He states that he never had a commission but served the several tours as a private soldier.

He states that he is known by many of his neighbors as a man of veracity and as to his reputation in his neighborhood to have been a soldier of the Revolution. But particularly by Thomas Boon, a clergyman residing in his neighborhood and Thomas Carton residing in the same, who can testify of the above facts.

He also states that he is now old and helpless and unable to get about so much so that he finds it quite inconvenient for him to get to town, it being a distance of twelve or fifteen miles from his home. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state.

Sworn to and subscribed the day and year aforesaid. He also states that he has no witness to prove his services. Signed in his own hand, Peter DeWitt.

On the old envelope it is recorded, Peter DeWitt, who was a private in the company commanded by Col. McDonald in the Virginia line for six months.

Inscribed on the Roll of Kentucky pensions at the rate of $20 per annum to commence March, 1831. There was paid arrears to the 4th of September, $50, and a semi annual allowance ending the 4th of March of $10, for a total of $60.

So fifty years after the war Peter DeWitt got his pension, but only $20 a year.

Large Neutron Stars

Recently it has been calculated that neutron stars may exist that are five times the sun's mass. In the interior of these stars the speed of sound may equal the speed of light. It was previously thought that objects with the characteristics of large neutron stars would be black holes. Alternative theories to the general theory of relativity meet all the known observational tests, but don't predict black holes. The existence of black holes has yet to be proven. Could the theorized black holes be neutron stars?

Sunday the moon passes through its Full Moon phase at 9:09 a.m. Moonrise is retarded four and one-half hours during the week. Tonight the moon rises at 6:03 p.m. Wednesday the moon rises at 10:27 p.m.

Today is a special day. The moon will pass in front of the planet, Neptune today at 4:00 p.m. This event is called an occultation of Neptune.

Visible in the night sky this week are Venus, Mars, and Jupiter. Venus may be seen just above the north-western horizon at sunset. Mars sets two hours after the sun with the stars of Leo. Jupiter rises with the stars of Taurus at midnight.

Mercury will pass at its closest distance to the sun tomorrow. This perihelion is at a distance of 45.9 million kilometers (28.1 million miles).

On this special day the sun rose at 5:57 a.m. There will be fourteen hours forty-nine minutes of daylight before sunset at 8:46 p.m. Wednesday will contain six minutes less daylight. The sun will rise four minutes later and set two minutes earlier than it does today.

Beall Announces Welfare Reform Bill To Revamp Current System

At separate news conferences in Washington and Baltimore Tuesday, Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) unveiled major legislation which is designed to completely revamp the current national welfare system. Beall released a comprehensive report, running more than 130 pages, which evaluates the current public assistance programs and offers alternatives to those programs. "This study," says Beall, "indicates that the current welfare system is inefficient, administratively burdensome, and has fallen short of its original objectives."

Senator Beall says the study indicates the current welfare system is far too expensive to taxpayers and does not adequately serve those most in need. Specifically, Beall cites the study as demonstrating that:

(1) There are work disincentives under the current system which encourage those receiving benefits not to seek private employment...

(2) There are financial incentives under the current structure for families to break up...

(3) The growth of benefits and recipients has led to increased inefficiency in administering benefits.

"The present welfare system," argues Beall, "has created a 'welfare class' in our society which encourages people to remain within the welfare rather than find an alternative to public assistance."

The Beall proposal would eliminate existing welfare programs such as food stamps, Aid for Families with Dependent Children, and Supplemental Security Income among others and replace them with a single family allowance system, structured through the federal tax system. Beall estimates that by consolidating the existing programs the federal government will save between $2 - $3 billion per year within a five-year period.

Under the Beall legislation, an average assistance family of four, with at least one child under six and with no outside earnings, would receive $4,000 annually—an actual increase over current benefits in states such as Maryland. In addition, once the head of the household gains employment, benefits would be phased out at a significantly lower benefit-to-earnings ratio than currently used. There are also additional incentives under the Beall bill for heads of families to seek employment.

"Another important effect of this bill," says Beall, "is that by centralizing the welfare system we will go a long way in reducing welfare fraud. By integrating the current programs into a single federal tax system, we will have the same checks on welfare recipients as we have on taxpayers.

"The current welfare system is a patchwork of irrationality," continues Beall. "Under a unified and consolidated welfare system, we would be able to correctly address the needs of those most deserving of assistance while promoting family unity and individual self-sufficiency. The current system is degrading to those in need of assistance. My bill would help them gain a meaningful and dignified place in our society."

Copperhead Killed At Devil's Half Acre Wednesday

Everyone is familar with the saying "a tiger by the tail" but Mrs. Jacob Oester realized the full meaning of that statement when she stepped on a snake and then noticed that it was a copperhead.

Mrs. Oester was enroute to her chicken house on their property at Devil's Half Acre (northwest of Accident, south of U. S. Route 48) with her cat on Wednesday evening, June 30. She saw the cat stop, look and something in the tall grass, then leap into the air. Upon inspection, she spied a snake, and without thinking, stepped on it to kill it.

About the time she noticed that it was as bright in spots as a new copper penny, she also noticed that her foot was too far from its head to hold it down, so she pressed into use a saw which she placed behind its head while she yelled for assistance from her family.

When killed, the snake was seen to be a female, about 22 inches in length, with a broad, flat copper-colored head and with one-half inch fangs. This is the third copperhead seen in the area since three years ago, when a surveying crew for the new freeway spotted one. Also three years ago, the Oesters killed another snake on their property, a little larger than the one killed this summer.

Mrs. Oester, who admitted to "shaking like a jellyfish" when she saw what she was standing on, feels residents and visitors should be warned that copperheads are in the area so they may take precautions, expecially by advising children to be watchful.

Enforcement Grants Awarded Four Counties

Grants to Hagerstown and Washington, Garrett, and Frederick Counties were among $2.1 million in grants awarded by the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice.

In Hagerstown, second year funding was approved for the Police Department's Planning and Research Unit ($25,349). Under the grant, a full-time planner is available to handle crime analysis, design record forms, and engage in legal research.

The Washington County Sheriff's Department was awarded a first year grant of $17,010 to initiate a police interns' project in conjunction with Hagerstown Junior College. It is anticipated that five interns would be hired to work 20 to 30 hours per week in non-sworn law enforcement functions such as traffic control, communications, and research and planning. All interns would be enrolled in the criminal justice program at Hagerstown Junior College.

The Frederick County State's Attorney's Office received two grants for continued funding of an Assistant State's Attorney ($12,661) and a District Court Investigator-Coordinator ($10,584). The Assistant State's Attorney, who is responsible for representing the State in District Court, handled 400 criminal and 225 motor vehicle cases during a seven month period ending March 31, 1976. The Investigator-Coordinator is responsible for screening criminal warrants in the District Court, initiating files and preparing cases for trial, and interviewing witnesses and victims. This individual prepares more than 80 percent of the criminal cases being disposed of in the District Court for Frederick County, according to project statistics.

Garrett County was awarded first year funding for a State's Attorney's Interns project. Under the $2,000 grant, two law school interns will be hired to assist in case preparation, witness interviews, trial assistance, and analyzing crime problems.

The Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement is the State agency charged with the responsibility for comprehensive criminal justice and law enforcement planning and for administering anti-crime funds made available to Maryland under provisions of the Crime Control Act of 1973.

Attends Workshop

Miss Jeanne Carstens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carstens, Mosser Road, McHenry, is one of 20 high school students participating in a three-day workshop at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., concerning the professions of Speech Pathology and Audiology.

The workshop is sponsored by Ball State's Speech, Language and Hearing Clinic and the Psi Iota Xi sorority which paid room costs. The students observe speech and hearing clinicians working with children and adults, and actually perform some speech therapy. They are exposed to the various environments in which speech and hearing cliniricians work, and live with children who are enrolled in the Residential Clinic program.

Miss Carstens is a graduate of Northern High School, and has been coeditor of the school newspaper. She was selected to serve as student page at the State House in Annapolis, and was a Danforth award winner this year.

Maryland

Maryland is nicknamed the "Old Line State" because its heroic troops of the "line" won praise from George Washington during the Revolutionary War. It is also called the "Free State."

In 1632, the King of England gave a charter to George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore, to found a colony in the new world. That colony became the state of Maryland.

The state flag carries the black and gold of the Calvert family colors, and the red and silver of the Crosslands, Lord Baltimore's mother's family.

The Baltimore Oriole is the state bird, named for its colors which are similar to those of the Baltimore family. The state flower is the black-eyed Susan, which also has the family colors. State tree is the White Oak.

The state motto is "Fatti Maschi, Parole Femine," which means "Deeds are manly, words are womanly." This was the Italian motto of the Calvert family.

Maryland is an important industrial and shipping state. The Chesapeake Bay, which cuts deep into Maryland, gives the state excellent harbors. Baltimore, the largest city, is one of the greatest ports in the world.

Annapolis, the home of the Naval Academy, is the capital. Marvin Mandel, Democrat, is the governor.

Maryland stretches from the Atlantic Ocean to the Allegheny mountains with two major interruptions, the Chesapeake Bay and the District of Columbia. Both contribute importantly to the state's economy.

The Bay cuts off the low coastal plains from the rest of the state. This provides both commercial and sports fishing, and leads to the port of Baltimore, which handles some three billion dollars in imports and exports a year. The seven-mile Chesapeake Bay Bridge spans the Bay near Annapolis. It opened in 1952 and provides fast transportation between Maryland's two "shores." The Baltimore Harbor Tunnel opened in 1957.

The Flag House in Baltimore was the home of Mary Pickersgill. In this brick building she made the huge flag which inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," our national anthem. He wrote it at Fort McHenry in Baltimore after the British bombarded it in 1814.

The first telegraph line in America was opened in 1844. The words "What Hath God Wrought?" were sent by inventor Samuel F. B. Morse from Washington, D. C. to Baltimore.

Antietam National Battlefield site near Sharpsburg was the site of one of the bloodiest Civil War battles. On September 17, 1862, Union forces at Antietam halted General Lee's first Confederate invasion of the north.

Maryland was named for Queen Henrietta Maria, wife of King Charles of England. In 1632, Charles chartered the Maryland region to Cecil Calvert, the second Lord Baltimore. Calvert, a Roman Catholic, believed in religious freedom, and welcomed settlers of all faiths. Today Roman Catholics make up Maryland's largest single religious group, followed by Methodists.

Washington, D. C. occupies land Maryland gave the United States in 1791, after George Washington chose that site for the capital.

In the 1700's Maryland and Pennsylvania quarreled over the boundary line between them. In 1763 both colonies agreed to have Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon of England survey the land. The survey was completed in 1767, and the Maryland-Pennsylvania line became known as the Mason-Dixon line.

The national capital area provides a market for much of Maryland's produce as well as adding to the crowds which enjoy its recreational facilities.

The University of Maryland is a state-assisted, co-educational university with campuses in College Park, Baltimore, Catonsville and Princess Anne. It also has centers in Germany, Japan and 22 other countries. It was founded in 1807 and the main campus is in College Park. The annual enrollment is over 40,000.

Maryland Day is a holiday observed on March 25 in this state, commemorating the first Roman Catholic Mass which colonists celebrated when they landed in 1634.

One of Maryland's most famous events is the Preakness Stakes, a horse race held each May at the Pimlico track in Baltimore. The Preakness, with the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes, makes up the famous Triple Crown of racing. Other races include the International at Laurel and the B. Campbell Handicap at Bowie. Annapolis is a center for yacht races and Ocean City on the Atlantic is a popular summer resort.

Famous historic sites include Fort McHenry, Edgar Allan Poe house, Baltimore, Antietam Battlefield near Frederick, and Fort Frederick near Hagerstown. Other sites include the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Monument between Seneca and Cumberland. Maryland shares Harper's Ferry National Historical Park with West Virginia.

The State House at Annapolis, built in 1772, is the oldest state house in the United States. Maryland was the seventh state to join the Union, in 1788.

The leading products of Maryland's industries include basic metals, food products and transportation equipment. Most of the state's manufacturing is centered in the Baltimore area. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation plant outside Baltimore is one of the world's largest steel mills.

Tobacco farms cover much of southern Maryland. Vegetable farming thrives on the Eastern Shore. Thus the state's largest cash crops are tobacco, corn, soybeans, apples and tomatoes. Commercial broilers and dairy products are important. Dairy farming prospers throughout the state. Nearly all mining takes place in the western-most counties, Garrett and Allegany.

Seafood is an important industry. Maryland is a leading producer of soft-shell clams and oysters. Some maple syrup is still produced in Garrett County.

Thousands of miles of shoreline along the Chesapeake Bay attract swimmers, boaters and fishermen to Maryland. Deer season is usually opened in late November.

The Barbara Fritchie House in Frederick is a reproduction of the home from which she supposedly defied Confederate forces. The brick building contains her clothing, spinning wheel, china and her Bible.

The Potomac River forms Maryland's southern and southwestern boundary. South of Washington, D. C., the Potomac widens into an arm of the Chesapeake Bay. Tributaries of the Potomac drain a large part of western Maryland.

All Maryland lakes are manmade. The largest, Deep Creek Lake, in Garrett County, covers about 4,000 acres. The lake was formed by a dam built across a small tributary of the Youghiogheny River. This dam provides hydroelectric power. Deep Creek Lake has more than 65 miles of shoreline, and attracts many vacationers winter and summer. Also in Garrett County are Swallow Falls and Muddy Creek Falls, which is the highest water fall in Maryland.

October is Autumn Glory time in Garrett County. Most of the activities are centered around Oakland, the county seat.

Famous Marylanders include Upton Sinclair, H. L. Mencken, James Cain, Barbara Fritchie, Theodore R. McKeldin, Spiro T. Agnew, Francis Scott Key and Johns Hopkins.

Students Continue Relating Writings To Bicentennial

The twelfth in a series of stories from English and Creative Writing classes at Southern High school appears this week. This time the article concerns "The Boston Tea Party" as was written by Paul Naylor, 10th grade.

I Was There

The Boston Tea Party, as it is now called, was really a blast as I remember it. It all started when those big shots in Parliament passed the Declaratory Act, which declared their right to tax the Colonies of all places. After this we had to pay a tax on everything it seemed. We had to pay duties on lead, glass, papers, paint, and tea . . . . tea! It might not have been so bad if only it hadn't included tea. When those big shots tax a man's drink, they're getting mighty personal, if you ask me.

In trying to enforce those taxes, two bloody regiments of British soldiers were stationed in Boston. It bothered people to have troops in their own town. Naturally, then, some words flew between citizens and soldiers. A group of people started bugging a British sentinel. Well, darned if that Redcoat and his friends didn't start shooting. My brother, who saw it all, said that they had just murdered a couple of guys.

This really bothered Samuel Adams. He organized a committee that demanded that the troops be removed. Finally Parliament, realizing that they couldn't enforce the taxes, repealed all of them, except for the duty on tea!

About this time three ships came into the harbor loaded with it. For several days Mr. Adams and a group of citizens, including me, of course, met on the subject of those ships. After a while, just talking about their removal seemed hopeless. It was decided to dump the tea into the harbor. One of the guys suggested that we all dress like Indians, and we agreed. We put on some old buckskin, put feathers on our heads, and painted each other's faces. It was almost like a Halloween party. We went to the wharf, boarded the ships, and quickly began splitting wooden chests, and throwing the tea overboard. The seawater almost looked drinkable, but I prefer sugar in my tea instead of salt.

The next day we all went about our business, pretending that all was normal, but it was quiet, too quiet, like the lull before a storm. We all sensed something was going to happen. We had had our fun.

Revolutionary Vignette Given

The following vignette about the Revolutionary era was contributed by the University of Maryland University College lecturer James S. Pula. University College is the adult continuing education campus of the University of Maryland.)

The Hessians

To most Americans "mercenaries" have traditionally been viewed with contempt. This was not always the case in the Western world. At one time being a mercenary was a profession as honorable as any other business activity. English and American naval privateers, for example, gained fame and fortune well into the nineteenth century.

American attitudes of repugnance toward the "fight for pay" soldier began during the American Revolution. While the Colonials commissioned naval privateers to raid English shipping, the government lacked the funds to pay for very many imported mercenaries. England did not. She hired some 30,000 German troops to fight against the Colonists in North America. Conveniently overlooking the lure of high rank and pay which brought many foreigners into the service of the Continental Congress, patriot propagandists repeatedly made use of the so-called "Hessians" as an emotional issue to rouse sympathies for the patriotic cause.

During the course of the war Britain employed 29,867 German mercenaries in North America. Most of these men had little choice in whether or not to come to the New World. They came because they were ordered to as soldiers in regiments whose services were sold by their local prince to King George III. Under a treaty signed between England and the Duke of Brunswick in January, 1776, for example, the British agreed to pay about $22.50 (over 7 lbs.) per man for each of 4,300 Brunswickers they employed. The money, of course, went to the Duke. In addition, the Duke received compensation for each soldier killed or wounded, and an annual subsidy of over 11,500 lbs. Parliament agreed to pay the mercenaries on the same scale as British Regulars, as well as supplying them with equivalent food, hospital care, and medical evacuation to Europe. The Duke was bound to replace, at his own expense, any soldiers who died of disease or deserted.

If these terms were generous, the ruler of Hesse-Hanau fared even better, and Hesse-Cassel held out for more than double the amount obtained by the Duke of Brunswick. Nearly half of the mercenaries never returned to Germany. Death records accounted for at least 7,754, while the lack of motivation and the promise of a new life induced another 5,000 to desert. Many settled in the United States after the war, bringing with them new ideas and material goods that helped to shape American culture into the unique blend of diversity that exists today.

Great On The Grill Campsite Cookery

Pack a picnic often during the sun-drenched days of summer. Whether it's a backyard picnic or a campsite cookout, you will want to try these warm weather favorites.

Cooking at the campsite is a challenge for any cook. You need to anticipate the bear-sized appetites everyone will have after a day of hiking, fishing or canoeing. Here are three favorites for that "day away."

Nonrefrigerated canned and packaged foods make this an ideal cookout casserole. Juicy cubes of luncheon meat, garden bright canned whole green beans and hash brown potatoes are bathed in a golden sauce of cheddar cheese soup and cooked over the coals 'til the potatoes are tender.

Campsite Casserole

Two 10¾ oz. cans condensed cheddar cheese soup, 2½ cups water, 2 teaspoons instant minced onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, One 6 oz package dry hash brown potatoes, One 12 oz can luncheon meat, cubed; One 16 oz can Green Giant Brand Whole Green Beans, drained.

In large skillet, stir soup and water together until smooth. Add seasonings. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat through, stirring frequently, until potatoes are tender. Serves 4 to 6.

Patio Picnic

Keep your cool on a sultry summer day. Prepare part of your patio supper indoors in the cool of the morning. Here are plan-ahead favorites and popular picnic ideas to make the livin' so easy!

Patio Peas And Cauliflower

One 10 oz package Cauliflower Frozen in Cheese Sauce, One 10 oz package sweet peas frozen in butter sauce, 2 tablespoons diced pimiento, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 2 teaspoons mustard.

Remove frozen vegetables from pouches; place side-by-side on a large piece of heavy duty aluminum foil. Top with remaining ingredients. Bring edges of foil together over center of vegetables. Fold over with a double fold, leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Seal ends securely. Place on grill over hot coals for 35 to 45 min., turning occasionally. Open foil and stir to combine. Serves 5 to 6.

Package your picnic in individual foil packs and you'll minimize cleanup later. Savory meatballs join vegetables and zesty cheese in each Picnic-in-a package.

Picnic-In-A-Package Meatballs

1 pound ground beef, ¾ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons ketchup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 teaspoons instant beef bouillon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

Topping

One 12 oz can corn, drained; One 16 oz can sliced green beans, drained; One 2½ oz jar sliced mushrooms, drained; ¾ cup process cheese spread.

Combine all ingredients throughly. Shape to form 18 meatballs. Tear six 1 foot long pieces of heavy duty aluminum foil. Place 3 meatballs in the center of each piece of foil. Add TOPPING. Bring corners of foil together over the meatballs and seal securely. Cook on the grill over hot coals 45 to 50 min. Serves 6.

Topping: Combine corn, beans and mushrooms. Divide equally atop the meatballs. Add 2 tablespoons cheese spread to each.

Wed June 12th At Leesburg, Va.

Miss Sue Ann Klier, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Klier, Leesburg, Va., formerly of Mountain Lake Park, became the bride of Robert Fred Herndon, Jr., Leesburg, Va., on Saturday, June 12, at 2 p.m., at the Leesburg Assembly of God church where Rev. Klier is pastor. Rev. Klier performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Patricia Justice was organist for the service and played the accompaniment for vocalists Wesley King and Mrs. June Madigan.

Sprays of white gladioli and white carnations decorated the altar. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Orval Kitzmiller, of Mt. Lake Park. She wore floor length taffeta gown with organza overlay, fashioned with deep ruffles at the bottom and a wedding ring neckline. The bodice and full sleeves were fashioned of organza and lace. Her headpiece was of matching lace and attached to a floor length mantilla.

She carried a bouquet of yellow sweet heart roses, white miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Hixon, Oakland, was maid of honor, wearing a yellow polyester floor length gown with white lace and wore a wide brim white hat. She carried a nosegay of miniature carnations and daisies with baby's breath.

Melodia Joy Justice, Brunswick, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown that matched that of the maid of honor, of yellow polyester crepe with white lace, and wore a wide brim hat to match. She carried a wicker basket of carnations and daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Misses Marlene Helbert, Denise Marcus and Jane Herndon, of Leesburg, whose floor length gowns were of green polyester crepe with lace trim. They also wore wide brim white hats and carried nosegays of miniature carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Clifton Grimes, of Lucketts, Va., served as best man. Danny Schuller, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer. Ushers were Larry Herndon, Lucketts, Rev. John Justice, Brunswick, and Michael Klier, Leesburg. Stephen Klier attended the guest book.

A buffet dinner and reception followed in the cafeteria of the Loudoun county high school, Leesburg. After a southern honeymoon the couple will reside in Hamilton, Va.

Mr. Herndon is the son of Mrs. Georgia Herndon, Leesburg, and the late Robert Fred Herndon. He is employed by Marriott-in-flight at Dulles airport. Some of the out of town guests from this area attending the wedding were Mr. Elva Zimmerman, great grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Lela Paugh and son, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wolfe, Mt. Lake Park; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Liller, Mr. and Mrs. George Zimmerman, Mrs. Nellie Harsh, Oakland; Mrs. Vonda Zimmerman, Swanton; Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Painter, Hyattsville.

Gets Master Of Divinity Degree

John Robert Crowe, son of Ross and Opal Crowe, route 1, Oakland, received his Master of Divinity degree from Columbia Graduate School of Bible and Missions on Saturday, June 5. Commencement speaker was Dr. Howard Hendricks, of Dallas Theological Seminary. John's wife, Linn, received her Master of Arts degree.

John has been on the staff at Columbia Bible College this year while completing a few required hours of study. He plans to pastor a church with the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Cited For Water Quality Violation

The Water Resources Administration has taken enforcement action on various violations of the State's Water Quality Laws occurring in this county between May 21 and June 22.

Ray Resources, Inc. has been issued a complaint for pumping water from Bear Creek to a gas well drilling operation without a permit and has been ordered to make application for a surface water Appropriation Permit.

Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, Ray Resources, Inc. and Ford McCullough have been issued a complaint for the discharge of water from a gas well drilling operation to an unnamed tributary to Bear Creek and have been ordered to appear before the Administration.

The new $2-bill may be on its way out, it doesn't seem to be desirable.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I cannot leave Deep Creek Lake without answering Mrs. Warther's letter The Republican June 24. In her blanket condemnation of Prince Georges county she has done somewhat the same thing she accuses Secretary Butz' aide of doing to Oakland.

For six years my children have attended a good Prince Georges county school with fine dedicated teachers. My neighbors are warm, friendly, supportive people. My family receives excellent medical care from good doctors and fine hospitals.

The day before we came to Deep Creek Lake our neighborhood closed off a street and had a bicentennial celebration which ended with a chicken barbecue put on by our Cadette junior high girl scout troop and a square dance.

Much of Prince Georges serves as a suburb of Washington, D.C., and as such the county has some of the problems (as well as the advantages) of a large metropolitan area. However, the letter writer's sweeping characterization of Prince Georges is unfair to many good people and is not a complete picture.

Sincerely,
Mrs. George Goldenbaum

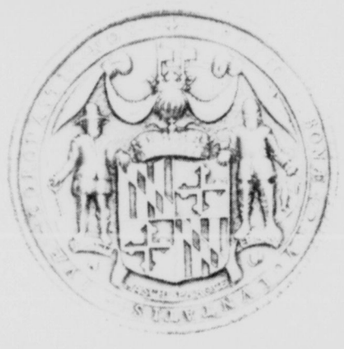
Maryland Bicentennial Medal Authorized



The official Maryland Bicentennial Medal has been authorized and issued by the Maryland American Revolution Bicentennial Commission to commemorate the state's contribution to the nation's first 200 years, it was announced by the commission's chairman, Louise Gore.

The state medal is being minted in solid bronze, pure silver, and 18 kt. gold, and will be available for purchase through participating members of the Maryland Bankers Association and the Maryland Savings & Loan League.

All royalties from the sale of the official medal will be used by the commission to support Maryland's bicentennial programs, including books on the state's history, creation of a Bicentennial Trail and preservation of historical buildings. In 1774, Maryland participated in the beginning of the nation's drive for independence, in 1784 was the site of the Treaty of Peace and in 1790 donated land on the Potomac to create the nation's capital.

Fragile tin impressions made from the original 327-year-old state seal were used by Medallic Art Company, the state's official bicentennial medallists, to produce dies for the face and reverse of the art medals. The exacting process required three months, believed longer than the original engraver spent producing the dies in 1648.

The face depicts Lord Baltimore (Cecil Calvert) as a knight in full armor and riding a charging horse, and departs from the original seal only for the inscription: "American Revolution Bicentennial in Maryland" and the dates 1776-1976.

The reverse, the Baltimore family's coat of arms, exactly duplicates the original seal down to a broken "O" in the legend on the border.

To honor this occasion and to pay tribute to Maryland's role in the American Revolution, the Maryland American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has issued this medal. It is the Official Maryland State Bicentennial Medal.

The medals are struck by the country's oldest private mint, Medallic Art Company, official medallists to the state bicentennial commission. The medals are hand finished, limited editions and range in price from $3.00 1½" antique bronze to the $250 1" solid 18 Kt. gold. Medals may be purchased at participating banks statewide, or collectors may write the Maryland American Revolution Bicentennial Medal Program, P. O. Box 1332, Atlanta, Ga. 30301.

SAVE THIS PAPER! IT'S YOUR PREMIUM LIST FOR 1976 GARRETT COUNTY FAIR

Welcome To The 1976 Garrett County Agricultural Fair

The Officers and Directors of the Garrett County Fair take great pleasure in extending to you a most cordial invitation to exhibit, participate in, and attend the 1976 Fair.

We would like to have you and your friends be with us this year; whether or not you have been with us in the past. It is through your interest and loyal support that the Garrett County Fair has grown, and again we thank you for your continued patronage at the Fair, and your cooperation in making it a grand success.

The Fair is a never ending educational project for young people as well as adults. It is a learning process that goes on and on.

The Fair is an excellent method of realizing social benefits and good times during our five days of activity.

We are very happy with the progress the Garrett County Fair has made during the past nineteen years. It has progressed far beyond our expectations, when we were planning to organize a Fair. This has been due to the cooperation and work of the people in Garrett County as a whole.

We would like at this time to thank the advertisers whose advertising appears in the Premium List, and the Commercial exhibitors. Without their cooperation this fine book and the Fair would not be possible, and we acknowledge their assistance by taking the opportunity to urge you to patronize them whenever possible.

We express our sincere appreciation to the 4-H Clubs, FFA Clubs, Farm Groups, Retail Merchants, and the County Commissioners for their support.

Certainly last but not least we owe so very much to the Maryland State Fair Board for its continued financial support to our Fair.

Robert L. Glotfelty, President

I. Jams, Butters, Marmalades, Conserve $2.50 $2.00 $1.50

Jams are usually made of one fruit, crushed or jammed together into a mass of an even, soft consistency thick enough to spread easily or be divided into portions. Juices are not separated from fruits and are of a jelly like consistency.

Conserves are a jam-like product made of two or more fruits. They often contain nuts or raisins. They are made of very small whole or pieces of fruit cooked or jammed into a mixture of an even, soft consistency, the liquid jelly-like in character. Name and flavor of the conserve is that of the dominant fruit.

Fruit butters are smooth, even, fine grained mixtures of medium soft consistency, without seeds or small pieces of fruit and with no evidence of juice as a separate liquid. Butters are less sweet than jams, preserves, marmalades, or conserve—usually about ½ to ⅔ lb. sugar to 1 lb. of fruit.
1. Apple Butter
2. Pear Butter
3. Peach Jam
4. Grape Conserve and/or marmalade
5. Blackberry Conserve
6. Strawberry Jam
7. Raspberry Jam

Preserves are made usually of one fruit, but more than one may be used. The fruit, whole or in large pieces, is cooked in a syrup until clear and transparent, tender, firm, crisp, and well plumped. The shape of fruit is retained. Juice is of a thick syrupy consistency completely surrounding the fruit. In general, ¾ lb. sugar to 1 lb. of fruit is used.

FFA FFA

The FFA Creed

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds — achievements won by the present and past generations of agriculturists; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm, or to be engaged in other agricultural pursuit, is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of agricultural life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of progressive agriculturists to serve our own and the public interest in producing and marketing the product of our toil.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so — for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions of our national life and I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

Unfair Guidelines . . .

The new state Board of Education guidelines requiring high school students in grades nine through twelve to walk to school within a radius of one and one-half miles, seems to us to be unfair. Such a guideline is depriving over 200 students throughout the county who will be forced to walk. Whoever fashioned those guidelines never walked in Garrett County winter weather. Even in the old days, with one room schools, there were probably no students who walked that far to attend school.

Students who will be affected had previously been transported, particularly where there were hazardous walking conditions, such as no sidewalks. Most of the students had normally been transported to Southern High School. Other students affected this coming year will be ones living within a mile's walking distance of Broad Ford, Southern Middle, Crellin and Friendsville schools. This could be also a discrimination factor.

Perhaps citizens should demand that the individuals responsible for making such guidelines be compelled to come up here next winter when there is a temperature of zero and a chill factor of minus 33 degrees with a wind blowing at 15 miles per hour. We would venture to say that if this occurred the guidelines would soon be changed.

Commissioners Comment On Levy Published Today

Some comments on the county levy and revenue sharing budget for fiscal 1977 were made this week by County Commissioners George Edwards, Don Bender and Wayne Hamilton. A copy of the levy is published in today's issue of The Republican and is available in the county commissioner office.

Mr. Edwards pointed out that the General Revenue Sharing budget shows a higher figure than was previously reported. However, he said commitments made during the last fiscal year, in some cases, had to be rebudgeted, as final payments were not due by July 1. For example, he said the commissioners had budgeted $50,000 in Revenue Sharing Funds last year for purchase and partial development of a new school site in Grantsville. However, as settlement was after July 1, the funds were rebudgeted.

The U.S. Congress has not had a final vote on extension of general revenue sharing, so the Commissioners have budgeted anticipated revenue sharing income from this extension for equipment purchases. Thus, if revenue sharing is not extended the equipment purchases will be postponed, he said.

Commissioners also pointed out that the regular county levy was lower than last year's funding level. They said the only unusual increases were in the area of contracted services where they budgeted insurance costs. A recent evaluation has shown the county to be underinsured, and the commissioners funds in anticipation of higher insurance bids. The commissioners have changed some employes from CETA funded jobs to the regular budget.

Commissioner Bender observed that in the last two years the commissioners have funded only two new positions on the regular county payroll.

Is Outstanding Vo-Ag Teacher In Maryland

Richard Bishoff, vocational agriculture instructor at Southern High school, Oakland, has been named the outstanding voag teacher in Maryland for 1976, it was announced this week.

The award was presented by Dr. O. C. Shriver, director of Maryland Farmer Council Cooperatives, at a dinner meeting of the Maryland Vocational Agriculture Teachers held Tuesday, July 6, at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore Campus, Princess Anne.

Mr. Bishoff has been teaching vocational agriculture for the past twenty-six years, at both Northern and Southern High schools.

Mr. Bishoff began teaching at Southern in 1954 after being in Winchester for three years, and in 1957 began the first forestry program in the agriculture curriculum which still continues. He aided in the renewal of the annual Garrett County fair also in 1957, and was a charter member of the county beef association which began in 1959.

Since he began his classes at Southern he has had 785 students in agriculture and seventy of them are still on farms in the county.

Receiving his degree at the University of Maryland he has done graduate work at Penn State, West Virginia university and Virginia Polytechnic institute at Blacksburg.

He and his wife, one son and two daughters, reside on Fourth street, adjacent to the Board of Education building. He is a native of Manheim, W. Va.

Education Board Having Sewer System Problems

A sewer system malfunction which could conceivably delay the openings of the Broad Ford elementary and Southern Middle schools was under discussion this week by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission and Oakland officials.

The malfunction stems from damage done to a pumping station which flooded last year, and the resulting electrical malfunctions of the machinery. The station is located along the interceptor line which runs into the school site and an adjacent recreation area owned by the town of Oakland.

Garrett County Commissioner Wayne B. Hamilton had said there existed the possibility that the sanitary commission would agree to operate the pumping station for Oakland. The groups were to iron out who was to pay for the repairs necessary to the station this week.

Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of Schools, said the Southern Middle School, for grades six through eight; and Broad Ford school, kindergarten through fifth grade, are nearing completion and will be ready to open this fall if the sewer system is operational.

He also mentioned that it is hoped the county would have a connecting road between Broad Ford Road and Old Deer Park Road completed by that time, but said even if that work is not done the schools will still be able to open.

Several Board of Education representatives attended a meeting in Friendsville Monday night, to discuss solution to the town's lack of a sewage treatment system, which prevented opening of the Friendsville Elementary school earlier this year.

According to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent, Administrative Affairs, the town plans to install a motor control center as the

Zero Visibility Forces Plane Down

Zero visibility forced a Cessna 150 Commuter airplane to land on an unfinished section of Route 48, east of Route 219 at Keyser Ridge, about 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

According to Maryland State Police, Tom Bedore, 13 Rock Lodge Road, McHenry, was the pilot of the craft flying from the Cumberland Municipal Airport to Garrett County Airport following U. S. Route 40.

The pilot told police visibility was limited and over Keyser Ridge it was reported as zero. He changed directions in an effort to return to the Cumberland airport but fog further closed in and he landed.

When police had first reached the area no one was in sight although the plane was properly tied down. There was no damage to the Cessna, owned by Eugene G. O'Hara, Anaheim, Calif.

Lightning Bolt Destroys Boat

A bold of lightning during Sunday evening's electrical storm struck a Flying Scot fiberglass sailboat in the Hazelhurst section of Deep Creek Lake and the resulting fire destroyed the vessel.

The boat was owned by William Crawford, Jr. The boat was moored to the dock at the time and no one was injured. Members of the family dragged the boat up on land and tried to extinguish the flames but without success.

The storm caused considerable damage in Allegany County and interrupted the electric current in several areas. The Dry Run area near Bloomington was the only Garrett County spot affected where there was a current interruption of about three hours.

In Allegany County there were downed power lines, tree damage and a rash of fire calls. Electrical power was out in spots throughout Allegany County according to an official of the Potomac Edison company.

One potentially serious problem, a downed main line above Lonaconing, was averted when PE crews did some section and switching work to make temporary repairs and restore electric power.

In Garrett County there were some high winds and fairly heavy rains at various times throughout the evening.

New Breed Beef Cattle Will Be Seen At Fair

A comparatively new breed of beef cattle will be exhibited at the Garrett County fair this year, according to Bill Slagle, a farmer of near Friendsville.

The breed is known as Limousin and is reputed to be one of the fastest growing new breeds in the U.S. The first Limousin was shown at the National Western Stock show in 1973 and 1976 only the Angus and Hereford were the only breeds to show more animals.

Mr. Slagle said the Limousin is a pure breed that originated in France over a thousand years ago. Over 40,000 of the animals have been registered in the past nine months.

The breed was evaluated at the U.S. Meat Animal Research center at Clay, Nebraska, with findings that it was the easiest calving on mature cows with the lightest birth weight. It was found to be the most efficient in converting feed to pounds of live gain, and to have the highest yield and highest percentage retail product of any breed or cross breed ever tested at the center.

Slagle said Limousin has won over 120 grand champions competing against all breeds in U.S. shows in 1975.

On the local scene a Limousin cross steer won reserve grand champion at the Preston County Buckwheat festival in 1975. Slagle's steer won its class at the county fair, coming in third over all breeds. Its half-brother took top honors at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium in 1975. Another half-brother won grand champion at the Montgomery County fair and sold for $13 per pound. Another won grand champion at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in 1975. Slagle's bull while on test at the Penn State University gained five pounds per day for the first 80 days, had the highest feed conversion, pound gain per pound of feed of all breeds and had a yearling weight of 1135 pounds.

The Limousin is medium to dark red in color, is small boned with superior muscling in the hind quarters, Slagle believes.

Plane Forced To Land Sunday

Bad weather forced a single engine airplane to land in a field south of the county airport near McHenry Sunday morning, but no one was injured.

State Police said the plane was enroute from Frederick to Tulsa, Okla., when fog and air turbulence forced it down at 9:58 a.m.

Police said the plane landed in an area with high grass and its landing gear became enmeshed in the grass, flipping the craft over.

The pilot of the two seated Luscomb plane was James Allen Klein, 26, of Wheeling street, Tulsa. He told police that damage to the aircraft was minor and that he would be able to make repairs necessary to continue the flight.

He left the Frederick airport at 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

Bean Crop On Schedule Despite Variable Weather

Despite the cool and alternately dry and then wet weather here in Garrett County, the local bean plantings have reacted favorably and are well on their way to a normal crop, according to Baity Ridder, official overseer.

Plantings began on June 4, on the farm of Reverdy Beckman, Underwood Road, with a continuous plant until July 1, when Walter Livingood, North Glade, placed the last beans in the ground for Jenkins Foods Corporation.

Harvesting should begin early in August, a day or two later than in former years, and proceed in step with the tight planting schedule, but 60 to 63 days later.

According to Mr. Ridder, who is overseeing the bean project here for Jenkins Foods Corporation, Frederick, there has been an areawide reduction in bean plantings in 1976. This was due to a large carry-over of canned beans in warehouses from the overall bumper crop in 1975. This in turn has had a depressing effect on the wholesale price.

Mr. Ridder said that, earlier this year, the Wall Street Journal ran a commentary on this situation and advised that canned beans were a better food buy this year than could be expected for some time.

This price squeeze has taken some of the enthusiasm out of bean growers here in the County, since the price of seed, fertilizer, chemicals and fuel, did not decline along with the wholesale price of beans.

The law of supply and demand should tend to present a better profit picture for growers in the near future, Mr. Ridder said.

He mentioned that the 30 growers here in Garrett County for Jenkins Foods, in 1976, were doing a better than usual job of preparation, planting and caring for the current 800 acre crop, which should produce pleasing results for all concerned.

Head Basketball Coach at GCC

Paul Holzshu has been appointed as the new head basketball coach for the Garrett Community College Lakers. Mr. Holzshu will also assume the duties of full time instructor in the Department of Health and Physical Education.

A graduate of Gateway High School, Monroeville, Pa., he was a two-time All-Section choice. In his senior year he was selected as the Most Valuable Player in his section and was also named to the All-WPIAL team and the '67 Dapper Dan Roundball Classic in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Holzshu, who is 6 foot 5, received an athletic scholarship to Clemson University in South Carolina where he was a varsity performer for three years in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He graduated from Clemson in 1972 with a bachelor's degree in Recreation and Park Administration. Mr. Holzshu served as a graduate assistant coach at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and was the assistant coach at Penn Hall Academy in Monroeville.

This past year Mr. Holzshu served as Head Junior Varsity Coach and Assistant Varsity Coach at Slippery Rock College, Slippery Rock, Pa. His JV Team had a record of thirteen wins and five losses.

In addition to his duties at GCC, Mr. Holzshu is currently working toward a master's degree in Physical Education. Mr. and Mrs. Holzshu and their daughter will reside in McHenry.

Transportation To Be Denied Certain Students

The Board of Education took action July 8, at a regular meeting, to deny transportation due to insufficient funding, for students who are not approved by the state under the hazardous walking conditions guidelines.

The action followed efforts by the board to receive assurances that students who had been transported in the past under hazardous walking conditions would be approved and financed by the Maryland State Department of Education, but received no additional funds for fiscal 1977 from the state for this purpose. The decision followed unsuccessful appeals to the County Commissioners for financial assistance with the problem.

Dr. William H. Buser, county superintendent of schools, indicated that for two years the state had questioned many of these situations and currently the position of the state was that over 200 students throughout the county were not eligible for transportation due to the new state guidelines requiring high school students in grades nine through twelve to walk to school within a radius of 1½ miles.

He said a majority of these students had normally been transported to Southern High school. The other students are ones living within a mile's walking distance of Broad Ford, Southern Middle, Crellin and Friendsville schools. Dr. Buser also indicated that an effort would be made through the newspaper to notify as many students as possible who would be affected by this action.

Herbert G. Harman, board president, indicated that due to the stringent financing of the State Department of Education, the Board regretfully felt it necessary to take this action. He also indicated that corrective action on the part of the local municipalities and county government had not been taken and that the board recognized that in many instances corrective action for the conditions would be an expensive process for the responsible governmental agencies.

Merchants Discuss Sale August 6, 7

The Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association discussed the forthcoming annual sidewalk sale scheduled August 6 and 7 at its meeting July 13.

Committee chairman Dee Raynovich and members John Kurilla and Rev. Manning Smith are investigating the possibilities of having Second Street blocked off for the sale, and various civic groups are being asked if they would like to join the celebration by operating concession stands or holding sales such as white elephant sales.

Anyone interested is asked to contact any of the above for further details.

In other business, John Kurilla, town council representative, gave a report on business transpiring at the last council meeting which was of concern to the Merchant group.

Donald W. Sincell, representative of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, clarified the squad's possible plan to erect a new squad center at the rear of the town parking lot, on land owned by the B & O Railroad. Mr. Sincell made it clear that the squad hall would in no way hinder the possible finishing of First Street through to Wilson Street. This is only one of several options currently under consideration by the squad.

Carl Everly Retires As Vice Principal Of Southern High School

Carl Everly, a veteran of 46 years of educational experience, retired July 1 from the Garrett County school system. At the time of his retirement he was vice principal of Southern High School, a position he had held for 22 years.

Mr. Everly is a native of the Cove area, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Everly. He graduated from Accident High School, then attended classes for one year at Blue Ridge College, New Windsor. He majored in biology, chemistry and physics at Western Maryland College and received his B. A. degree there.

Additional education courses were obtained from the University of Maryland and in 1955 he received his master's degree from West Virginia University.

His teaching career began September 4, 1934, in the Oakland High School, as a teacher of chemistry and physics. Beginning August 15, 1942, he was permitted a military leave of absence and entered military service, serving three and one-half years with the Corps of Engineers.

In September, 1946, he returned to his former teaching position. In 1948 he was selected to begin a driver education course, which began as a three-hour per day assignment with the remainder of the day spent in academic science teaching.

The year 1950 brought a promotion to the position of vice principal, serving half of the time in that capacity, half as a classroom teacher.

In 1952 he moved into the new Southern High School when its doors first opened, and in 1954 was appointed vice principal on a full-time basis.

All during the years since his father's death, he has maintained the family 200-acre farm in the Cove area, approximately 25 miles from his family home in Mt. Lake Park. Due to his educational responsibilities, he says he just does "general farming" and does not have any farm animals to care for.

He and his wife, the former Clover Culver, from Connellsville, Pa., have one son, Paul, who also has one son, nine-year-old Timmy. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Everly and son live in Fairmont, W. Va.

It is mainly because of this grandson that Mr. Everly has kept an interest in his stamp collection, and he hopes someday Timmy will take it over. He plans to devote some time to placing his "informal" collection in order.

Another interest he has developed into an art is woodworking, and he is looking forward to spending more time in his shop in the garage. Finished products include a hexagonal, mirrored and lighted curio cabinet on display in his living room.

Other pursuits for his leisure time will include traveling to visit his son and family, and also his only sister, Mrs. Mildred Turner, Clarksburg. He also enjoys reading, and has filled bookshelves to choose from on stormy days.

He is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, and a member of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club. He also belongs to such professional organizations as the Garrett County Teachers Association, Maryland State Teachers Association, National Education Association, and National Association of Secondary School Principals.

During his career, he naturally saw many changes. At the time he began teaching there were 400 students at Oakland High School. In 1952, when Southern opened, there were 950 students in what is now the main building, minus the library and gymnasium, the voag buildings, and other present additions. The gym was completed the following year. In 1976, there were 1,486 students at Southern.

He has served under seven principals, F. D. Bittle, Grayson Burrier, Maurice A. Dunkle, Dr. James Collins, W. Kenneth Johns, Robert F. Rodeheaver, and Luther D. Parrack, Jr.

Youngsters at Southern for the first time won't know what they're missing by not getting a chance to know this man whose wit, fairness and tolerance earning the liking and respect of at least two generations of young people.

final part of the sewage treatment plant as soon as it arrives, so the system will then be operational. Town officials said they had been informed that the control center was enroute, and the plant would be ready for use approximately 30 days after its arrival.

The Board of Education had been considering alternate plans, including set up of a sewage lagoon, so that the school could be put into use this fall.

Another problem now facing the Board is also sewer-related, encountered on the proposed Northern Middle School. Bids received on construction of the school building alone were at least $120,000 in excess of the amount budgeted by the State Interagency on Public School Construction.

In addition, a sewage treatment plant would have to be constructed, and the only bid received on this segment of the project was $298,900, making a total amount of over $400,000 that the state agency had not bargained for.

If approval should be given to allow L-D Construction, of Latrobe, Pa., to begin work on the school building despite the cost overage, it might still be possible to apply for and receive funds next year to construct the treatment plant. Since the plant is much less complicated than the school building, it would still be possible to open the school on the proposed target date of September 1978, according to Dr. Ryscavage.

A decision was to be handed down by the Interagency Committee this week. Members of the Board of Education had traveled to Baltimore Monday to ask that L-D be awarded the contract on the building.

Man Is Sent To Pen Five Years On Drug Counts

An Oakland man found guilty of drug distribution at a jury trial in June was sentenced Tuesday by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., to five years in the penitentiary.

William Paul DeWitt, Center Street, Oakland, pleaded not guilty of the charges of distribution of P.C.D. (Phencycledine) and distribution of marijuana. At the June 4 trial, the jury found him guilty on both charges and Judge Hamill ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Tuesday, Judge Hamill sentenced him to two concurrent 5-year sentences, one one each count, to the Commissioner of Correction. The sentence is to commence as of June 4. DeWitt was then delivered to the custody of the Sheriff.

Listen Americans!

FRAUD IN HIGH PLACES

It would appear that total and complete integrity in high places in our government is becoming harder and harder to find. Yet, the whole should not be judged by the actions of a few. From the historical resignation of an American President, stemming from alleged knowledge of and the coverup involved in the Watergate scandal, to the recent disclosure of Congressmen stealing on expense accounts from American taxpayers is another big blow to confidence in officials.

Yet, disclosure is necessary to the purification of the American political process and purification is indeed called for in our generation. Scandal has cast a pall of suspicion over all politicians, from the local level to the highest office in our land. All polls indicate that the group held in the lowest esteem by the American public is the Congress of the United States.

And now comes the expose, admitted by several members of the House of Representatives, that the practice of double billing for expenses and handing in a voucher for automobile travel while acutally flying at far less expense to the taxpayer and then pocketing the difference is a common practice among members of Congress. Double billing is the practice of handing in an expense voucher as a member of Congress and another bill for the same expenses as a member of a particular Committee.

It is simple stealing and there should be no place in the halls of Congress for men who persist in this practice. Likewise, the practice of billing the taxpayers at 20 cents per mile and then flying for half that amount with the difference pocketed is simple stealing. It is criminal no matter who does it and particularly reprehensible on the part of a trusted public servant.

The American people must demand swift investigation and prosecution of all members of Congress who are guilty of such practices. The Congress itself should bring all such members before its ethics committee. The Senate and the House have that kind of authority and it should be exercised without any delay. President Nixon's crime was the fact he tried to cover up illegal acts of his associates. Shall Congress now cover up for its members?

Such swift justice would go a long way toward restoring confidence in our politicians. It would also remove the cloud which now hangs over the head of every member of our national legislature, most of whom are honest, upright men of integrity.

It costs the American taxpayers a little over a half-million dollars a year to have a representative in Congress. The salary alone of Senators and House members is $42,500 per year with many fringe benefits not available to the average taxpayer. The hard working American back at home deserves better than an expense-account rip-off at the hands of his Congressman.

Raise Your EER and Lower Your Cooling costs

Cost Conscious?

Who isn't?

We consumers seem to be keeping closer tabs on the family budget than ever before, especially when purchasing new appliances or equipment. Many of us will be purchasing new air conditioners this summer. I'll wager we shall not only ask what the price will be, but with energy costs accounting for a greater portion of today's family budget, what will it cost to operate?

As consumers we sometimes feel that appliance manufacturers have not made appliances with efficiency of operation in mind. This isn't really the case because appliance manufacturers have provided us with appliances which have the features consumers want, at a cost and efficiency the consumers accept. With the increasing emphasis placed on energy ciency and with the cost of energy rising, the manufacturer is faced with the problem of increasing appliance efficiency. Consumers should understand that the cost of the appliance increases between $10 and $50 to cover additional production and material costs.

What does this have to do with the air conditioner we are going to buy? Let's examine how we can still save money by purchasing the higher efficiency air conditioner even at a higher cost.

Air conditioners come with different ERR's. The EER is the energy efficiency ratio which is the BTU/Hr divided by the wattage. The lower the wattage per BTU the more efficient the unit. This means that the cost of operation will be lower.
By analyzing all of our costs before making the buying decision, we may save a little money.

Let's suppose we are going to purchase a 10,000 BTU window air conditioner which will be used approximately 800 hours this summer. How can a higher EER save us money this year and each year thereafter?

BTU	EER	Average Wattage
10,000	5	2,000W
10,000	7.5	1,300W
10,000	11.6	850W

Avg. Cost Per KWH*	(800 Hrs. Use) Cost/Season
3.5c	56.00
3.5c	36.00

*Kilowatthour

In ten years you would save $320 by using the air conditioner with an EER of 11.6 rather than an EER of 5 if electric rates remained stable.

With this in mind, which air conditioner would you purchase?

Bagpipers To Feature Friday N-S Grid Game

Area football fans will have an opportunity to view an unusual pre-game performance Friday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine North-South football game in Fort Hill stadium, Cumberland.

A bagpipe unit, authentic in every detail will bring a touch of Scotland to the classic. The Highlanders' performance will be highlighted by playing the bagpipe version of "Amazing Grace."

The Highlanders are using the authentic Ross Tartan as their uniform.

Ticket sales for the affair in which Northern and Southern high football stars are involved, were said to be brisk. Queens and cheerleaders from their respective schools also will be involved.

The South team consists of players from Garrett and Allegany counties and will wear white jerseys with red trim. The North team, composed of players from Washington county schools, will wear blue jerseys with white trim.

Ford Strategists Believe His GOP Nomination Near

President Gerald Ford's strategists indicated this week that he will be just a few delegate votes away from clinching the Republican presidential nomination by the end of the week.

Vote counters for Ford said the 35 delegates they expected to win in Connecticut this weekend would put them near the magic number of 1,130 delegates needed to win the nomination.

Ronald Reagan's strategists discounted the Ford claims, saying Reagan has hidden pockets of supporters in major uncommitted delegate blocs in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and elsewhere.

The latest UPI delegate count showed 1,086 delegates committed or leaning to Ford, 1,040 pledged or leaning to Reagan. There are seventy-eight uncommitted and 55 are yet to be chosen.

Connecticut's 35 delegates, all of whom are expected to go to Ford in this weekend's state convention, would boost Ford's total to 1,121, nine short of a first ballot victory.

Three Juvenile Cases Waived To Criminal Court

One juvenile was found to be in need of assistance by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., and the cases of three others were waived to Criminal Court, in cases this week.

An 11-year-old male was found to be in need of assistance by not receiving proper care and attention in his natural home. The father was unable or unwilling to give the proper care and attention to the child, or provide adequate home life. The boy was committed to the custody of the department of Social Services for the purpose of finding a suitable home.

Three youths, two 17 and one 16 years old, have been charged with being delinquent by reason of sodomy and assault and battery. These three cases have been waived to Criminal Court.

To Plan State Meet

A special executive board meeting of the Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women will be held on Tuesday, July 20, at 1:30 p.m., at Miss Anna Bishop's cottage at Deep Creek Lake. All members are invited.

The Garrett Branch will be hosting a state board meeting of AAUW in September or October and plans for this convention are to be discussed. Other topics of discussion will include the local scholarship to Garrett Community college and the proposed book sale.

Bruce Bradley Submits Petitions

Bruce Bradley, independent candidate for the U. S. Senate from Maryland has signed an affidavit at the State Board of Election Supervisors office certifying that he has filed the last of more than 68,000 petition signatures in an effort to secure a spot on the November ballot.

Mr. Bradley won a Federal Court decision in May striking down the Maryland Election Law as unconstitutional and he was given until July 12 by the court to complete his petition drive.

Mr. Bradley accused the state of defying the spirit of the court decision. According to Mr. Bradley "The State has refused to even begin validating my signatures before July 13 unless I forfeit the remaining time. In effect my certificate of candidacy is being held hostage unless I give up petitioning rights to me by the Federal Court."

Mr. Bradley must file 51,155 valid signatures of registered Maryland voters to gain a place on the November ballot. He filed over 58,000 signatures by the original March 8 deadline but only 42,049 or about 80 percent were found to be valid.

Mr. Bradley noted that he had filed more than 15,000 additional signatures or about 40 percent more than the remaining 9,106 he needs. He says he has been promised "prompt" validation by the state as required in the court decision.

Capitol Comment

By Senator
Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

A Special Day

A centennial anniversary is a very special occasion, and it ought to be celebrated in a special way. That's how Mrs. Mathias and I felt about it on the Fourth of July.

We decided that one of the most meaningful ways to express our feelings was to visit the graves of the four men who signed the Declaration of Independence on behalf of the new State of Maryland. It was a fascinating and an interesting experience and one that we felt was richly rewarding.

Thomas Stone is buried at Habre de Venture, his farm in Charles County. It is a wonderful and historic spot that evokes the spirit of the times.

Charles Carroll of Carollton is buried in the chapel at his family estate, Doughreagan Manor, where the Carroll family has lived since the 17th century.

Samuel Chase, the son of a clergyman, is buried in Old St. Paul's churchyard, in the center of Baltimore. Chase himself knew well the teeming life of the city.

William Paca is buried on his estate, Wye Plantation, on the Eastern Shore.

To visit these spots was a lesson in American history. We could learn so much about these men, about the attitudes they held, about the forces and influences that had shaped their lives, as we stood in scenes that were so familiar to them 200 years ago.

It was clear that these were men of principle. They became revolutionists because of ideals, and not out of despair about their personal condition.

Unlike revolutionists of other countries and other ages, these were not men who said they had nothing to lose but their chains. They felt that they did have a lot to lose, and they risked all of it—their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, as they expressed it.

Since they risked all for principle, it seems to me that we must commit ourselves to principles. We must commit ourselves to upholding the ideals that we have inherited from the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

This is the lesson of the Fourth of July. This is what we can learn and transmit to our posterity, as it has been given to us.

Qualified Employes Needed

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. has declared that the next President, whoever he is, should "improve upon the practice of recent years" and base his top Administration appointments on professional qualifications, not partisan politics.

Mathias said he will measure Presidential appointments to senior posts "against the most rigorous objective standards."

"The next President may expect this, and the American people should expect no less," Mathias declared in a statement.

He said: "At this time of increasingly complex and sensitive relations between our government and our people, and between our people and other peoples, it is my conviction that the quality and integrity of our Federal government officials are more than ever of vital importance to the well-being of the nation as a whole.

"I therefore recommend that the next President, whoever he may be, and of whichever party, improve upon the practice of recent years and base his appointments to critical posts outside the cabinet on professional experience and qualification and on character rather than on partisan political service or ideological purity.

Announce Engagement

Word has been received here of the engagement in Sarasota, Florida, of Mary Diana Wright and John Edward Weber, son of Mrs. Sue M. Weber and the late Capt. Jack Edward Weber. Edward Weber is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, and is an attorney in Sarasota.

Final wedding plans are incomplete but will take place in the early fall in Sarasota.

The first week in August Edward Weber, his fiance, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Reese of Sarasota will arrive for a visit at the Lake with Mrs. Sue Weber and another son, Warren.

10 Commandments For Using Leftovers

Everyone is plagued with leftovers. What to do with them is an uninteresting, money-saving, creative and often catastrophic adventure. Here are the rules to follow:

1. If thou has not more than a bite or two left, thou shalt throw it away. Thou wilt eventually, so why not now? This gives thee a clean conscience and more room in thy refrigerator.

2. Combine leftover poultry like turkey and chicken in a cold salad, add to creamed white sauce to serve over rice or toast. Thou shalt be creative!

3. Leftover fish or seafood (Shrimp, sole, lobster, catfish, salmon, tuna or cod) may be combined with cooked or fresh vegetables for salads or casseroles. Remember, thou must add a bit of grated lemon peel and juice to freshen and accent their flavors. Thou shalt use the abundance of the sea and groves in thy diet!

4. Unused freshly cut lemons, oranges or limes shall be kept fresh by placing them in a tightly covered jar with about ½ inch of water. Also, thou shalt keep parsley bright and fresh this way!

5. Thou shalt not try to keep leftovers at room temperature!

6. Thou shalt not try to save food that in any way looks strange, has mold, or is tainted by odor. Take not this chance!

7. If thou didst not like the leftover thou didst prepare, don't make it again. 'Tis a waste of thine own energy as well as cooking or refrigeration energy.

8. If thou dost have leftover cake or cookie crumble, thou shalt layer them with an instant pudding mix and fresh fruit for an elegant English Trifle. Thou shalt remember citrus fruits are nutritious and sweet.

9. Thou shalt use leftover cooked oatmeal or cornmeal mush browned in margarine and served with maple syrup, topped with tangerine or orange slices.

10. Thou shalt save bits of leftover cheese wrapped in a plastic film with a slice of lemon to keep moist, ready to add a special flavor to an otherwise plain meal. Thou shalt remember lemon for flavor and freshness!

And if thou shalt do all these things, may all the rest of thy days be frugal and fruitful and filled with joy and happiness forever.

"He that never eats too much will never be lazy."

Socialism And Energy

Secretary of the Interior, Thomas S. Kleppe, has issued a timely warning against turning to socialism in an attempt to solve the nation's growing energy problem.

"We should encourage private capital to do the job rather than use tax dollars," said Kleppe in a recent speech before the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. Acknowledging that "Energy development is tied closely with government because so many of our resources are on public land," Kleppe warned that the idea of some Members of Congress to establish Federal corporations to develop energy resources "would be disastrous for our future."

Kleppe pointed out that energy development programs require huge amounts of capital and expertise—and only the private sector has adequate amounts of both.

The mentality which calls for government takeover of business is the same mentality which would have the government dictate what porducts will be produced, what quality and colors will be available, and what prices will be charged.

"If this sounds a little like socialism to you, the same thought has occurred to me."

Kleppe noted that, for Washington to take over the nation's energy industry, it would have to direct 10,000 firms exploring for and producing petroleum, 250 companies refining it, 200,000 service stations, 5,000 coal mines, and 3,000 utility companies.

Kleppe is on target in his assertion that the federal role, if not kept "within bounds" could turn from a partnership into a "government dictatorship."

For those Americans who seem to have forgotten the great strength of American free enterprise system, Kleppe has this reminder: "The most important ingredient in our ability to succeed as a nation has been our economic system . . . . Other countries have been founded on dedication to liberty and justice equal to our own, but they have failed because they have lacked the economic freedoms and incentives necessary to make liberty meaningful."

4-H'ers are concerned about safety—on the farm, in the home, on the highway and during recreation. Nearly 332,000 of them take part in the national 4-H safety program sponsored by General Motors and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H'ers Rank Safety First

CHICAGO—Accidents are the leading killer of young people. 8,102 youngsters from 5 to 14 years of age died in accidents in 1973, according to the National Safety Council. For the 15 to 24 age group, the fatality figure jumped to 26,550.

Learning to identify and correct the hazards that lead to deaths and disabling injuries is a major goal of young people in the national 4-H safety program. In its 31st year of sponsorship by General Motors, the program enrolls nearly 332,000 boys and girls from 9 to 19 in projects supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Taking a look at hazards

On the farm, in the home, on the highway or at play, 4-H'ers are becoming increasingly safety conscious. At the same time, they are encouraging their families and communities to take a closer look at actual and potential safety hazards.

Last year's national winners of the eight $1,000 college scholarships donated by General Motors earned recognition for a variety of learn-by-doing projects.

One winner led other 4-H'ers in placing safety posters around unfenced canals in her community—an irrigated agricultural valley. Another authored a 19-page manual on wilderness survival that served as the basis for a pilot safety program in one county.

A third 1974 national winner organized an auto safety check lane, manned it with fellow 4-H'ers, then promoted it through radio, television and newspapers.

A chance for recognition

In addition to eight national scholarships, General Motors offers an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress to one outstanding 4-H'er from each state. This year's National Congress—the 54th—will be held Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago.

Other incentives for states include certificates of merit to as many as 10 clubs and a $25 award to one county for outstanding 4-H safety programs.

On the county level, General Motors provides up to four medals of honor to top 4-H members and a maximum of four certificates to local 4-H clubs for meritorious safety programs.

Winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

More information on the national 4-H safety program is available from county extension agents.

Seek To Organize Full Gospel Group

There will be a meeting of interested persons to form a Full Gospel Businessmen Fellowship, International, and also a Women's Fellowship group in the Oakland area, to be held at the Deer Park Fire hall on Thursday evening, July 29, at 7 o'clock.

A dinner will be served at that time at a cost of $5 per person. Reservations will be required by July 22 by calling Sam Wilson, Jr., or Charles W. Burrell, both of Mt. Lake Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoskins, from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will be present to inofrm the people and assist in organizing the chapter. Mrs. Hoskins is field director of the Full Gospel Businessmen.

Warning To Alcoholics

We don't pretend to be an expert of the subject, but in the current debate between Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas and a Dr. David Armor of the Rand Corporation, we side with the Congressman.

It is the contention of the learned doctor on the Rand staff that "after some alcoholics are treated, they can resume drinking alcohol with no more danger, of relapse than if they abstained."

To this, Congressman Mills vigorously disagrees. He declares that he doesn't know of a single case of an alcoholic who was able to begin drinking again without absolutely disastrous results. And Mr. Mills ought to know. His own bout with alcoholism cost him his position as Chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee. He underwent months of treatment in a hospital for alcoholism, and has since been speaking before audiences all across the United States on the subject of alcoholic abuse and has been very active in alcoholic rehabilitation work.

"I know enough about the illness," he told the press, "to recognize the dangers of any encouragement based upon so-called 'scientific research' that would lead them to believe that there is a permanent cure for alcoholism. Such reports are liable to cause a lot of alcoholics to go back and take a drink.

"Perhaps those who conducted the study . . . .confused alcoholics with heavy drinkers," he said. "The only way alcoholism can be 'cured' is through total abstinence. This has been proven time and time again by people who are alcoholics and attempted to drink again."

At least two thoughts come to mind in this debate. First, if anyone is to gamble as to which of the two gentlemen is right, it seems to us that the safest place to put your bet is with Mr. Mills. And, secondly, we can't understand why the Rand Corporation should feel it their mission to encourage anyone to drink. Hard liquor is good stuff for everyone, and just alcoholics, to avoid. —U. S. 4-H Horse Project Draws Big Response

CHICAGO, ILL. – A red ribbon tied to a horse's tail means he's a kicker. If his ears are pinned back, he's angry; if they're pointed directly at an object, he's frightened–or interested!

Horse lovers nationwide will find a lot of fascinating and practical facts about their favorite animal in information-packed 4-H horse project aids, a multimedia approach to instruction recently made available through the National 4-H Service Committee with the support of Purina Horse Chows.

Broad subject range

The project covers such subjects as practical horse psychology, genetics of coat color, intermediate trail riding, and equitation. It also deals with health hints, principles of foot care and shoeing, saddle selection and construction, training, and buying a horse.

Materials include 10 printed lessons and worksheets, and 15 slide sets with accompanying tape cassettes and scripts. Lessons, worksheets, and audiovisuals may be ordered separately. Additions to the series are being developed and will be offered later in the summer.

Authored by experts in their fields, the 4-H horse project was prepared by a group of Cooperative Extension Service program specialists with the financial and technical aid of Purina Horse Chows, Ralston Purina Company.

Orders pour in

Tyrus W. Thompson, assistant director of the committee, called response to the project "overwhelming." Orders for 300,000 printed lessons and worksheets were processed in the first three months of 1975, he said.

Originally developed for use by 4-H youth in programs conducted by the Extension Service, the materials also have proved popular with adults–from breeders to showpeople to weekend riders.

The response is not surprising, since horses are being used by more people today in pleasure activities than at any time in the nation's history. In fact, riding is so popular nowadays that the bridle path sometimes becomes the bridal path for horse lovers who decide to get married on the trail rather than in a traditional setting!

A descriptive brochure on 4-H horse project aids is available from the National 4-H Service Committee, 150 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

Horses are more popular than ever, and so are the multimedia 4-H horse educational aids made possible with the support of Purina Horse Chows, through the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago. The aids–including lessons, worksheets, slides, tapes and scripts–are created by horse specialists with the guidance of a committee chairmaned by Dr. Melvin Bradley, extension horse specialist, University of Missouri.

Inside Business

The Economy is in Recovery Phase

By Ross Wilhelm

The economy clearly has bottomed out and is moving out of the recession. The primary question is how fast a recovery. Will it be a sharp "V" or a slower, more painful rise?

The economy has moved through a classic down-turn since last fall. Early in the down-turn, shortages caused widespread pessimism with some people forecasting a depression. As the picture has unfolded, however, people have come to recognize that the Nation would survive the crisis, and optimism is rising.

The evidence of increasing confidence is visible everywhere. The housing industry has started to turn around in response to the greater availability of money, lower interest rates and easing of raw material costs. Indeed, the recovery has been reflecting itself in rising lumber prices as well as an increase in mortgage rates.

Businesses all across the economy responded to the down-turn by seeking to reduce their inventories, and to pay off short-term bank loans. Today inventories are at a more manageable level. Banks are awash with cash from repaid loans which they are using to buy bonds. This raises bond prices and lowers interest rates. And some firms, significantly the auto companies, have been recalling workers and are replacing depleted inventories.

The most encouraging economic sign has been the short, rapid reduction which has occurred in consumer and wholesale prices. These price reductions have occurred for three main reasons. The first is the decline in business demand for raw materials due to the slow-down in business. The second is increased agricultural output, which causes farm prices to decline. Both of these factors do not continue forever, of course, and recently we saw wholesale prices rise for the first time in four months. This increase is to be expected as business activity picks up and as farmers react to lower prices. The third major reason for the price decline has been that the Federal Reserve Board has held down the growth of the money supply. Slower monetary growth has brought down prices and also has contributed to the recession. In recent weeks, however, the Federal Reserve has been permitting faster money supply growth, and this has helped the economy to recover.

Two clouds on the horizon could hamper the recovery. The first is that automobile sales have declined since the end of the rebates. We need a strong automobile market for high growth rates. The second cloud is an enormous and growing federal budget deficit. The deficit is threatening to reach a record high of $80 billion. The danger of the growing deficit is that it will cause a resumption of the high rates of inflation which, in turn, could lead to another recession.

At present, it appears that we are following the same path as we did in the 1958 recession, which would indicate a more rapid rather than a slower recovery. The slowness of automobile sales and the huge federal deficit could have an adverse effect on confidence and slow down the recovery. This does not seem likely at this stage, although the situation is still uncertain.

Heavy Thunder Showers Soaked Area Sunday

Weather during the past week has been mostly near normal. Heavy thunder showers dumped over a half an inch of rain Saturday night and Sunday. Friday morning was rather cool with a low of 46 degrees.

Rain occurred on four days with heaviest on Sunday, .58 inch. The total for the weekend was .78 inch. About .05 inch fell last night. Last Thursday and Friday were mostly clear. Since that skies have been variably cloudy. Fresh to strong breezes were blowing Monday and most of Tuesday.

Temperatures were 3.1 degrees below normal because of the cool daytime temperatures. Highs averaged only 74.7 degrees or 5.8 below normal. The only near average reading was Sunday's 82 degrees. Lows averaged 55.1 degrees or only .4 degree below normal. The mercury dipped to 49 degrees Tuesday next to Friday's low. This morning it was a mild 66 degrees under partly cloudy skies.

Two Sent To Hospital After Accidents

Traffic accidents during the past week sent two persons to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, one was admitted for a short time and another was treated and released. Others received less serious injuries.

Thewl Bordon Wiese, III, N. Huntingdon, Pa., was admitted to the hospital following a one-car mishap on U. S. 219 in the Thayerville area about 2:20 a.m. last Friday. He has since been discharged. He had started from a stopped position on Rt. 219, accelerating quickly causing tires to spin. The car then went off the left side of the road, struck an embankment and then the railing of steps of Edward T. Riffle. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant charged him on three counts: unnecessary spinning of wheels; failing to keep to the right side of the road, and driving an unsafe vehicle.

Timothy Karl Greer, Monessen, Pa., was treated and released from the hospital following an accident on U. S. 219 just north of Sand Flat road about 2:30 a.m last Wednesday. Greer, southbound on U. S. 219, swerved to the left to avoid a northbound vehicle driven by Harold W. Bucklew, turning left on the southbound lane. Greer lost control of the car which went off the left side of the road, struck an embankment and overturned. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

David W. Fearer, Sand Spring road, Friendsville, was injured following a mishap involving a deer on the Addison-Friendsville road just south of Mill Run road shortly before sunrise last Thursday. Fearer was southbound when a deer ran onto the road ahead of him. Fearer noting the deer, swerved to the right, struck an embankment, lost control, went back on the northbound lane, struck three sections of wire fence and came to rest in a field. Tfc. D. K. Williams made no charges.

Another accident about the same time on the Fingerboard road near Sanders lane, also involved a deer. Donna Jean Tusing, Friendsville, was eastbound when the animal jumped from the woods into her path and was struck. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

An all-girl British crew sailed a schooner into Newport, R. I. for the Bicentennial.

Two SHA "Teepees" Draw Fire From Garrett Officials

State Highway Administration plans to erect two highway chemical "teepees" in Garrett County have come under fire from county officials and the town of Friendsville.

The structures, which house chemicals and abrasives used during snowy and icy conditions, are planned at the National Freeway interchanges on Route 48 at Friendsville and Grantsville.

The one planned in Grantsville is causing the most concern from the county because it would be located on a 50-acre-plus site which has been identified as one of the best potential development parcels within the county.

The teepee at Friendsville suffered a possible fatal blow Monday when the Friendsville Planning and Zoning Commission turned down a permit for the structure because it conflicts with the town's zoning laws. There was no word whether the SHA will appeal the decision.

George C. Edwards, chairman of the Garrett County Commissioners has said that the commissioners sent letters to State Highway Administrator Bernard M. Evans and to the Department of State Planning, asking that the state hold up on its teepee projects.

While the teepee planned at Grantsville does not conflict with zoning laws because the property lies outside of the Town and the county has no zoning regulations in that area, Mr. Edwards said the structure does conflict with the county's master plan for development.

Commissioner Wayne B. Hamilton said the state's decision to place the teepee in the Grantsville interchange area is an example of two governmental agencies not coordinating.

He said the Grantsville property was studied by System Designs Concept, consultant engineers, through a $300,000 grant which called for the consultants to look at prospective development sites in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties through Appalachian Regional Commission funds.

The state Department of Economic and Community Development played a role in the study. Mr. Hamilton said that despite findings that the land in question should be used for economic developments such as a motel, service station, and some light industry, the SHA acted independently and decided to place a teepee on the property.

Bids for the two teepees were to be opened by the SHA in Baltimore yesterday, but it was not known if any proposals were received or if the SHA plans to award a contract soon. However, the SHA has initiated property condemnation proceedings for both the Friendsville and Grantsville sites. The state would need a little over an acre of property at each site.

Mr. Edwards said it is his understanding that the SHA may be willing to move the Grantsville teepee off to the side so that its impact would not be so great on the development parcel.

Tim Dugan, Garrett County planning director, said that while construction of a teepee at the Grantsville interchange would not rule out developing the remainder of the property, such a structure would make the parcel "less desirable" esthetically. The Grantsville interchange overlooks the Casselman River Valley, making its surroundings attractive and one of the big selling points of the property.
